APPENDIX E.

Figure 1 indicates that, except for families with annual incomes of $2,000 to $2,999, the three-month rate for disabling illness per 1000 persons increases as the family income decreases. The difference between the rate for families which received some relief during 1933 and the next higher income category is greater than between any other two adjacent income groups.

The chief causes of illness which received hospital treatment were as follows: accidents, 49 cases; maternity, 33 cases; appendicitis, 30 cases; tonsil and adenoid operations, 29 cases; hernia and intestinal disorders, 21 cases; contagious diseases, 18 cases; tuberculosis, 20 cases; heart disease, 16 cases; mental and nervous disorders, 13 cases; disturbances of the digestive tract, 12 cases; nonvenereal diseases of the female genito-urinary tract, 12 cases; diseases of the kidney and bladder, 10 cases.

For purposes of comparing the effect of changes in family income and health three economic levels were chosen to designate three standards of living, namely, relief, moderate, and comfortable. The classification of a given family in one of these three groups depended upon the family income and the size of the families for which the income had to provide. To allow for a decrease in the costs of living, $1,000 as annual income in 1933 was considered equivalent to $1,200 in 1929. This amount and all incomes in excess of this were arbitrarily considered as providing a "comfortable" standard of living for a family of two persons. For a family of four, $1,600 or more a year was considered comfortable in 1929 and $1,400 or more in 1933. Any family so reduced in economic level that it was forced to seek public or private relief at any time in 1929 or 1933 was classified as a "relief" family in the year in question. All others between the "relief" and the "comfortable" status were grouped in the "moderate" class.

In Figure 2 the composition of the medical charges is presented for the families combined into three income categories, namely, those with annual incomes under $1,200, $1,200 to $3,000, and $3,000 and over. In the lowest income indicated in the chart, physicians are responsible for 34.6 per cent of the charges, hospitals for 12.6 per cent, dentists for 25.3 per cent, nurses for 2.8 per cent, drugs and medicines for 11.4 per cent, and all other expenses for 13.3 per cent. In the highest income group of the graph, physicians' services are responsible for 32.4 per cent of the total charges; hospitals for 17.5 per cent, dentists for 33.5 per cent, nurses for 3.3 per cent, drugs and medicines for 6.7 per cent, and all other expenses for 6.6 per cent.

In other tables which follow data are presented for urban families only. Definitions of decreased income and unemployment among farm families have been inadequate to provide a satisfactory classification of the economic status of the rural population.

First, let us consider the families according to the three broad income groups: relief, moderate and comfortable. It is seen in Figure 3 that the illness rate per 1000 persons among the relief group is 181; among the moderate, 133; and among the comfortable, 124. Now let us consider these same families in relation to the change in their economic status.

It has been found in the California study, as in the Milbank Memorial Foundation and Public Health Service studies of health and the depression in Eastern cities, that the rate of disabling illness is higher among families who dropped from a comfortable status in 1929 to a "relief" status in 1933 than in any other income shift. See Figure 4. In the three-month survey period this group had 225 disabling illnesses per 1000 persons. In contrast with this group the families who remained "comfortable" had only 125 disabling illnesses per 1000 persons, and those who dropped from "comfortable" to "moderate" incomes had only 128 per 1000. Of those families who were in "moderate" circumstances in 1929, the drop to relief status was associated with a disabling illness rate of 174 per 1000. For families whose "moderate" 1929 incomes remained "moderate" in 1933, 136 disabling illnesses per 1000 were reported, and for the families whose income rose from "moderate" to "comfortable," the rate was 117 per 1000.

Figure 5 shows the per cent of illnesses which were hospitalized. The white represents those illnesses hospitalized in a public hospital and the black those in a private hospital. The highest percentage of illnesses hospitalized occurs among the "relief-relief" and the "moderate-relief" groups.

Figure 6 shows the number of days of hospital care per 1000 illnesses. The black represents days in private hospitals and the white in public hospitals. The highest number of days occurs in the group which dropped from comfortable to relief.

In Figure 7 data are presented in relation to the employment status of the wage earners in the family. The families are divided into three groups, those having one or more full-time workers, one or more part-time workers, and those with no employed person.

Since unemployment might be the result of the disabling illness of the family wage earner, thus increasing the case rate for those families with no worker employed, all families in which the no-worker or part-time worker status was caused by illness were excluded. A higher case rate for disabling illness was also found among families suffering from unemployment of their wage earners. In families with no employed worker the rate of disabling illness was 179 per 1000 individuals during the three-month survey period as contrasted with 143 per 1000 among families with only part-time workers, and 126 per 1000 among those with one or more full-time workers.

The "no-work" group had 13.6 per cent of its illnesses hospitalized, as contrasted with 8.1 per cent in the families having one or more full-time workers. There were 262 days of care per 100 illnesses among the no-worker group as compared with 112 days in the full-time group.

The time has come for the citizen in the lower income brackets, whether working in a manufacturing plant, behind a counter, or in any trade or occupation, for the ordinary man and woman engaged in doing the work that keeps society from collapse, to demand adequate health protection and service. Even the opponents of health insurance admit that it is desirable. Economic conditions exist which they have no control have determined that. No more products of the poverty stricken can compensate the individual or his family for loss of health. Homeless, hungry, worried by economic problems and financial inequalities, could not even maintain upon them a more solid sense of security than to know that they had received adequate medical care when sick at a price they can easily pay.

Health service insurance seems to be the better way to be the treatment of people to correct the present condition. And there appears to be no satisfactory substitute. Judging from the evidence, compulsory health insurance is demanded by conditions that compel. WPA, welfare and future generations the health of thousands of men and women and the growing generation when it is within the undoubted power of the California Legislature to prevent this mental agony.

APPENDIX F.

SOME COMPULSORY NATIONAL PLANS, SHOWING COUNTRY AND YEARS OF PRINCIPAL LAWS.

AUSTRIA—1888; 1922; 1928.

Scope.

All wage earners and salaried employees¹ without regard to income, including home workers, middlemen, agricultural workers¹ (except in one province), and apprentices. Salaried civil servants whose pay continues when ill get medical aid only. Relatives of employer, occasional, temporary, and part-time workers are excluded.

Benefits and Conditions for Benefit.

(a) Cash Sickness Payments—About 4/5 of basic daily wage in lowest 5 wage classes, decreasing to 58% in the highest, for 26 weeks (52 weeks if contributions have been paid for 30 consecutive weeks), payable from the first day for sickness lasting more than 3 days. May be increased to full basic wage in lowest 5 wage classes, by 1/4 in the 6th and 7th and by 1/6 in the remainder, and extended to 1 1/2 years. Increases up to 10% may be allowed for dependent children under 18. May be refused or reduced for culpable illness. Payments made to dependents at half rates if insured is in hospital. Maximum basic daily wage of $1.01.

(b) Medical Care—Medical treatment, drugs and appliances, for a period of 26 weeks, which is extended to 52 if contributions have been paid for 30 consecutive weeks. Hospital treatment if required. Dependents may be covered. This occurs chiefly in funds for salaried employees.

(c) Maternity Benefit—Medical treatment if needed, and midwife. Usual sickness payments for 6 weeks before, and 6 weeks after, confinement. Nursing bonus of 1/2 sickness payment for 12 weeks (may be extended up to 26 weeks). Fund may require that insured shall have worked in an insurable occupation for 6 months out of the last 12. Dependents may be covered.

(d) Funeral Benefit—Fifty to seventy-five times the daily cash sickness benefit for each class, but not less than $7 or more than $35, payable to dependents at death during membership, or within 6 months of expiry of sickness payments. Funeral expenses only, if no dependents. May be granted at death of a dependent relative.

Contributions.

(a) Insured Person—Two-thirds of contribution. Total weekly contribution is half the average daily wage in the first eight wage classes, while in the 9th and 10th wage classes (the two highest) it is 50% and 45% respectively of the lower limit of the wage class.

(b) Employer—One-third of contribution. Entire contribution for employees who are not paid in cash.

(c) State—None.

(d) Local Government—None.

Administration.

(a) Local—Territorial works, guild, mutual benefit and mining funds. Funds may form federations on a provincial basis to promote uniformity and efficiency in the conduct of their business. These federations are regulated and supervised by the State. Contributions are remitted directly to the funds by the employers. Arbitration courts, set up in each fund, handle disputes concerning benefits.

(b) Central—Ministry of Social Welfare acting through the governors of the provinces and their public officials. Railwaymen's insurance is under the Ministry of Commerce and Communications.

(c) Medical Services—Funds provide medical, hospital, and other services. Insured may choose doctor from among those with whom his fund has contracted. Disputes between a fund and an individual practitioner are settled by an arbitration court, the composition of which is determined when the contract is made; those between funds and organizations of practitioners are settled by conciliation committees on which both parties to the dispute are equally represented, with a chairman appointed by the Provincial Governor (in some cases the Minister). In neither case can there be any appeal.

Scope.

All paid workers² over 13 and under 60 years of age receiving less than $588 in country, $705 in city. Limit increased $78 for each child over 6 months and under 16 years of age, up to $980 for 3 or more children. Food, lodging and other payments in kind are included in income according to a descending scale fixed for towns of over 200,000 inhabitants, towns of 5001 to 200,000, and other communes⁴ respectively. Children of whatever age working for relatives without pay, persons employed less than 90 days a year, and civil servants are excluded.

Benefits and Conditions for Benefit.

(a) Cash Sickness Payments—Half basic daily wage for 6 months,⁵ payable from 6th day of sickness if insured has less than 3 children, and from 4th day for 3 or more children. Increased by 4 cents a day for each child. Contributions must have been paid for at least 60 days in last 3 months, or 240 days in past year. Payments for hospital inmate reduced by $\frac{1}{2}$ if there are dependents, $\frac{1}{3}$ if married with no dependents other than wife, and $\frac{1}{4}$ otherwise. No payments for culpable illness. Maximum basic daily wage of \$1.41.

(b) Medical Care—Refund of part cost (see Administration, below) of all medical care (general and specialist, hospital, clinic, or other institution, drugs, transport, operations, etc.), from the first day of sickness for 6 months. Expenditure limited to half the average daily basic wage for the preceding year except in special cases. Cash payments may be substituted for medical care (other than surgical and hospital) if fund can not conclude an agreement with the medical profession. Wife and children under 16 covered.

(c) Maternity Benefit—Part cost (as below) of medical attendance, midwife and drugs required during pregnancy and for 6 months following confinement. Usual cash sickness payment for 6 weeks before and 6 weeks after confinement to persons

insured for 60 days out of last 3 months, or 240 days out of the last year. Continued if necessary for 6 months in all. Nursing home, or $5.00 a month for 4 months, $3.92 a month for 5th and 6th months, and $1.92 for the 7th, 8th and 9th months. Milk certificates of a value up to 3 of nursing home are provided if mother can not fully nurse her child. Uninsured wife of an insured man entitled for medical care only.

(d) Financial Benefit. Twenty per cent of gross personal income, but not less than $39 (unless $39 exceeds 2 of income, in which case 2 of income is paid), if deceased has been insured at least one year, and has paid 240 daily contributions. Increased by $3.90 for each child of the deceased.

Contributions.

(a) Insured Person. Two per cent of basic wage determined for each of 5 wage classes. An old-age pensioner wishing to remain insured for medical care must contribute at least 59 cents a month for this privilege.

(b) Employer. Two per cent of basic wage. Must contribute for employees over age 60.

(c) State. Adds 23.5 cents a month to contributions from old-age pensioners continuing right to medical care. Contributes to the plan as a whole the full amount by which its expenditure on relief falls short of the average of the amounts budgeted for the 5 preceding years, together with a portion of certain items of tax receipts up to a total of $150,000.

(d) Local Government. Commune pays 20% of cost of medical care for indigent insured persons and their families. Departments⁴ and cantons contribute (to the plan as a whole) half the amounts of savings in their total expenditure similar to that indicated above in the case of the State.

Administration.

(a) Local. Funds set up voluntarily by interested groups, or by Mutual Aid Societies and occupational unions existing when the law took effect. Departmental, and in some cases interdepartmental, funds set up by the government for persons liable to insurance who do not join one of the above. A fund must insure all risks covered by the law.

(b) Central. A Social Insurance Service for each department, which among other duties enrolls and eliminates members, receives from (or pays) portions of the money collected from the sale of contribution stamps to employers, and distributes it to the various funds according to contract requirements. A National Social Insurance Office under the Ministry of Labor, advised by a Council of Social Insurance, Funds are remitted on a departmental (8 provinces) interdepartmental basis.

(c) Medical Services. Insured selects his own attendant or institution, and pays the entire charge himself, but may recover from his fund a proportion (80% in the highest and 85% in the 2 lowest wage classes) of the cost as based on a scale of charges drawn up by the fund.⁵ Fund may set up its own hospitals, clinics, etc., in agreement with the regional medical syndicates, or may contract with institutions set up by Mutual Aid Societies subject to maximum service rates fixed by the Minister. Insured has right to treatment in any such institution connected with its fund. Disputes between funds and patients are dealt with by a "technical commission," consisting of the attending doctor, a doctor named by the fund, and one appointed by a justice of the peace. Those between funds and professional syndicates regarding contracts are settled by departmental commissions on which funds, syndicates and the government are equally represented. Other disputes go before special cantonal⁶ tribunals with appeal to the civil authorities.

GERMANY—1883; 1911.

Scope.

All wage earners, including apprentices, and salaried employees earning up to $858 a year. Temporary, occasional, and part-time workers, civil servants, and salaried railway employees for whom other provision is made, are excluded.

Benefits and Conditions for Benefit.

(a) Cash Sickness Payments. Half basic daily wage from fourth day of incapacity to work for 26 weeks of such incapacity (may be interrupted by not more than 13 weeks of sickness which does not involve incapacity). Amount may be increased by fund;⁷ (1) from 7th week of incapacity, (2) if benefits do not begin at date of incapacity because insured has been drawing wages, (3) according to family responsibilities. Total payment must in no case exceed 75% of basic wage. Qualifying period of not more than 6 months may be required for optional benefits. Maximum basic daily wage of $2.38.

(b) Medical Care—All necessary treatment (including specialist and dental), drugs, minor remedies and appliances, from beginning of sickness up to 26 weeks, or for as much longer as cash benefit is also granted. Hospital care, with half cash benefit payable to dependents, may be substituted for cash and medical benefits. Home nursing, with cash benefit reduced not more than one-fourth, may also be granted in special cases.⁷ Extension of the duration of medical care, and other optional medical benefits, may be granted by fund.⁷ Dependent spouse and children get approximately the same benefits as insured, but up to 13 weeks only, with additions at option of fund.⁷

(c) Maternity Benefit—Medical treatment if needed, midwife, drugs and minor remedies. Usual sickness payments, but not less than 12 cents a day, for 4 weeks before and from 6 to 13 weeks after confinement. Lump sum of $2.38. Nursing bonus of half the usual sickness payment, but not less than 6 cents a day, for 12 weeks. A qualifying period of 10 months in the preceding two years, 6 of which must be in the preceding year, is required. Uninsured wife and daughter get approximately the same benefits as an insured woman. Various additional benefits may be granted at the option of the fund.⁷

(d) Funeral Benefit—Twenty (to forty⁷) times basic daily wage, payable to dependent relatives, if death occurs from any cause during membership, or from the same illness for which payments were made, within one year of the expiry of sickness payments. Burial costs only, if no dependent relatives. Two-thirds of above at death of wife and $\frac{1}{2}$ at death of child.

Contributions.

(a) Insured Person—Two-thirds of contribution (half in some cases), which must not exceed a total of 6% of basic wage. Also a 12-cent fee for each medical certificate, and the actual cost up to 12 cents of each prescription during the first 10 days of incapacity.

(b) Employer—One-third of contribution (half in some cases), and most of administrative expense.

(c) State—Twelve dollars for each case of family maternity benefit.

(d) Local Government—In certain cases where contributions fail to provide the minimum benefits required the communes must make up the difference.

Administration.

(a) Local—Territorial (both rural and urban), works, guild, miners' ⁸ and mutual benefit funds. Funds may form federations, usually covering the district of a local insurance office. Contributions are remitted directly to the fund by the employers on specified pay days not more than one month apart.

(b) Central—Local insurance offices, grouped in turn under regional offices, all being under the Federal (State⁹) Office, which is composed of public officials and elected representatives of employees and employers and is supervised by the Ministry of Labor. Attached to each supervisory office are corresponding judicial bodies to handle disputes.

(c) Medical Services—Funds contract with and pay doctors in accordance with provisions laid down by a Federal (State⁹) Committee, consisting of 5 representatives of medical organizations, 5 of sickness funds, and 3 ministerial appointees. Disputes are handled by various arbitration boards—central and local.

JUGO-SLAVIA—1922.¹⁰

Scope.

All paid workers irrespective of earnings. Public servants entitled to at least 26 weeks' pay when ill get medical, funeral and maternity benefits only. Agricultural and home workers are excluded temporarily.

Benefits and Conditions for Benefit.

(a) Cash Sickness Payments—Two-thirds of basic daily wage for 26 weeks, payable from first day for sickness lasting more than 3 days. Reduced payment made to dependents if insured is in hospital. Payments may be reduced or refused if insured delays cure by disregarding doctor's orders.

(b) Medical Care—Medical treatment, drugs and minor appliances for 26 weeks. Dependents covered.

(c) Maternity Benefit—Medical attendance and midwife, lump sum of 14 times daily wage, and $\frac{1}{2}$ of wage for 2 months before, and 2 months after, confinement.

¹⁰ The original Serbian law dated from 1910.

Nursing bonus not exceeding 58 cents a day. Dependents get medical attendance and midwife with 29 cents a day for one month before and one month after confinement.

(d) Funeral Benefit.—Thirty to forty-five times basic daily wage (ranging from $12 to $277 for lowest and highest paid persons) payable to dependent, pending if death occurs during membership, or within 2 years of the expiry of sickness payments, from the same illness for which payments were made. Same benefit as for insured at death of adult dependent, $9.65 at death of newborn child, $19.20 for child under 4, and $38.59 for child aged 5 to 14.

Contributions.

(a) Insured Person.—Half of contribution, which never can exceed 7% or fall below 4% of basic wage (averages 6%).

(b) Employer.—Half of contribution. Entire contribution for very low paid employees or those whose remuneration is not paid in cash.

(c) State.—None.

(d) Local Government.—None.

Administration.

(a) Local.—Twenty-six local offices. These are merely agencies of the system as the sole insurance carrier. Hence no federations required. Contributions are paid to special collectors, and not through the employer.

(b) Central.—Central Workers' Insurance Institution under Ministry of Health and Social Welfare. Disputes between funds and insured persons are handled by special insurance courts, one for each local office, with appeal to a Supreme Workers' Insurance Court attached to the Central Institution. Disputes regarding contribution (e.g., between employers and insured regarding contributions), are dealt with by the ordinary administrative authority with appeal to the Minister.

(c) Medical Services.—The local offices direct doctors and midwives to contribute to the number of persons for whom each is responsible. There are general practitioners in towns and industrial districts, sometimes equipped with specialist, dental, X-ray and other departments. Practically no choice of doctor is possible.

NORWAY—1915.

Scope.

All wage-earners and salaried employees over age 15, with an income limit, earned or otherwise, of about $1,400 a year in the case of salaried employees. Children working at home without fixed wage and sailors making voyages lasting more than 10 days are excluded.

Benefits and Conditions for Benefit.

(a) Cash Sickness Payments.—Varies from 21 cents a day for persons earning between $80 and $160 a year to $1.07 a day for persons earning over $750 a year. Payable from 4th day of sickness up to 26 weeks (30 weeks in case of tuberculosis, cancer, or recurring illness). Payments may be reduced or refused for culpable sickness. No cash payments to persons earning less than $80 a year. Reduced payments to dependents if insured is in hospital.

(b) Medical Care.—Medical, dental (extractions only), and hospital treatment for as long as membership lasts. No drugs supplied. Medical and dental treatment for wife and children under 15.

(c) Maternity Benefit.—Midwife and usual sickness payment for 2 weeks before and 6 weeks after confinement. An insured wife who is not a wage-earner, or whose income does not exceed $80 a year, gets a lump sum of $8. Maternity and care in a maternity home may be substituted for above benefits at option of fund, with an allowance if necessary, for support of dependents. Qualifying period of 10 months required. Uninsured wife gets midwife and lump sum of $8, or hospital treatment up to 15 days, if husband has been insured 12 months.

(d) Funeral Benefit.—Twenty dollars payable to relatives if death occurs during membership, or within one year of the expiry of sickness payments, from the same illness for which payments were made. Funeral expenses only, if no relatives. Same amount at death of wife, and $13.40 at death of child.

Contributions.

(a) Insured Person.—Six-tenths of contribution in district funds, 2/6 in other funds. Each fund fixes the contribution in accordance with its experience and the member's income. The law prescribes a "normal" rate to which funds must keep as nearly as possible. If the actual rate exceeds the normal by more than 50%, the excess must be borne by the insured person only.

(b) Employer.—One-tenth of contribution in district funds, 1/6 in other funds. Entire contribution for persons not paid in cash or earning less than $80 a year.

(c) State.—Two-tenths of contribution in district funds, 2/6 in other funds.

(d) Local Government.—Commune pays: One-tenth of contribution in district funds, 1/6 in other funds.

Administration.

(a) Local—Territorial (district), works, and trade union funds, also funds for teachers and railway employees supervised locally by communal councils. As a rule only one fund is allowed in each district and this handles invalidity and old-age pensions in addition to sickness insurance. Contributions are remitted directly to the funds by the employers. There are no federations of funds. A committee of three consisting of a member of the communal council, an employer, and a member of the district fund, handles local disputes, with appeal to the State Insurance Institution.

(b) Central—State Insurance Institution managed by three public officials and under Ministry of Social Affairs. This institution decides in disputes between district funds, or between a district fund and a commune. Appeals against its decisions are carried to a State Insurance Appeal Commission consisting of 7 members—a presiding judge, a medical practitioner, a governmental social insurance expert, 2 employers and 2 insured persons' representatives.

(c) Medical Services—Law requires funds to provide medical care through contracts with doctors, etc., but where contracts can not be concluded they may continue the previous system whereby insured pays his own doctor and is reimbursed by the fund in accordance with a fixed scale (giving returns often lower than the actual charge). Insured has free choice of doctor owing to sparsity of population. Funds usually pay for hospital treatment at full rates.

POLAND—1920; 1930.¹¹Scope.

All paid workers under contract of service, whatever their remuneration, apprentices, home workers and temporary workers. Persons included above who earn more than $840 a year may be exempted on request, while any person not under contract of service and not earning more than this amount may insure voluntarily. Appointive state and railway officers get medical care only. Agricultural workers are excluded in practice.

Benefits and Conditions for Benefit.

(a) Cash Sickness Payments—Sixty per cent of basic daily wage from 3d day of sickness for 26 or 39 weeks, according as fund has been operating for less or longer than 3 years. Half cash benefit if insured is in hospital and has dependents, and 10% if no dependents. No payment if insured is imprisoned or refuses to enter a hospital for infectious disease. If the condition of the fund allows, period of benefit may be increased to 52 weeks, or amount increased for each child by 5% of the normal, provided total does not exceed $\frac{2}{3}$ of basic daily wage.

(b) Medical Care—Medical treatment, drugs, appliances, and hospital treatment with reduced cash benefits, for a period of 26 weeks, which is increased to 39 weeks if fund has been in operation for more than 3 years, and may be extended to 52 weeks at option of fund. Dependents covered only for 13 weeks.

(c) Maternity Benefit—Medical attendance and full basic wage for 2 weeks before, and 6 weeks after, confinement if voluntarily insured for 8 months, or compulsorily insured for 4 out of 12 months. Nursing bonus, varying from 2 to 6 cents a day, for not more than 12 weeks. Dependents get full medical attendance and half the nursing bonus for insured. Alternatively, hospital care, or home treatment with nurse, with cash benefit reduced by half.

(d) Funeral Benefit—Twenty-one times basic daily wage, payable to persons who defray burial costs, if death occurs during membership, or within 6 months of the expiry of sickness payments, from the same illness for which payments were made. Half the above benefit at death of a dependent.

Contributions.

(a) Insured Person—Two-fifths of contribution, which is normally 6 $\frac{1}{4}$ % of basic wage, but may be reduced or increased according to fund's experience.

(b) Employer—Three-fifths of contribution. Entire contribution for apprentices not paid in cash.

(c) State—Half of cash maternity benefits and nursing bonus. Entire cost of medical care for the unemployed and their families.

(d) Local Government—None.

Administration.

(a) Local—Territorial funds, with special funds for miners, railway men, and State employees. Owing to criticism of their methods, funds have in certain cases been deprived of their autonomy and put under government commissioners. Meanwhile funds are being reorganized and their numbers reduced by amalgamation. An arbitration committee of 5 members (2 insured persons, 2 employees' representatives and one neutral) is set up in connection with each fund to handle disputes concerning benefits, and its decisions are final. Each fund must belong to a provincial federation, and this in turn to a National Federation.

(b) Central—District offices under Ministry of Labor and Social Welfare. Ministry is advised by a Social Insurance Council of 40 members, appointed by the ¹¹ This law only deals with administrative reorganization. It did not change benefits or contributions.

Minister, 12 representing wage-earners and salaried employees, 12 employers, and 16 chosen from among social insurance workers.

(c) Medical Service. Funds usually provide doctors, dentists, nurses, pharmacists, etc. Contribution contracted in which salaried employees and firms are equally represented are not so for the patients, comprising almost no family doctors between practitioners and funds.

ROUMANIA¹⁹—1912; 1923; 1932.²⁰

Scope.

Until recently Members of handicraft guilds including employees and casual apprentices, rural craftsmen, employing farmers, and apprentices and workers in factories, mines and quarries. Agricultural commercial treatment and domestic workers excluded. Since 1932 law. All wage-earners in industry and commerce, irrespective of age or sex, with percentage extension to other wage-earners and members of liberal professions for whose insurance funds could be set up.

Benefits and Conditions for Benefit

(a) Cash Sickness Payments. 20% or 25% of basic daily wage according to insured is with or without dependents, from first day of sickness for 16 weeks. Reduced to 25% or 10% respectively if insured is a husband. Payments for first 3 days if sickness lasts more than 8 days. May be increased if receipt of land warrant. Funds may grant additional cash or medical benefits. After sickness payments lapse and invalidity benefits can not be claimed. Qualifying period 45 weeks required.

(b) Medical Care—Medical treatment, home or hospital treatment if necessary, drugs and minor appliances, for 16 weeks, medical certification is made within 4 weeks of last contribution payment. With and without dependents covered for dispensary treatment and home attendance, if necessary, with drugs or medical fees.

(c) Maternity Benefit. Cash payments for 2 weeks before and 6 weeks after confinement conditional on 26 weekly contributions. Nursing bonus for 3 months. Dependents get medical attendance and drugs.

(d) Funeral Benefit—$7.50 to $18, payable to survivors of persons not have been insured a year.

Contributions.

(a) Insured Person—Whole cost, which varies from 75 of a cent to 6 cents a week in five wage classes.

(b) Employer—None.

(c) State—None.

(d) Local Governments—None.

Administration.

(a) Local—Craft guilds and mutual benefit funds, neither of which have any autonomy but act merely as organs for the Central Office. An arbitration board, set up in each district, handles disputes between employers, funds and insured persons. Appeals against its decisions are taken to the Administrative Council of the Central Insurance Office whose decisions can be appealed to the ordinary law courts. Contributions are collected by the Central Office through the sale of stamps, and distributed by it to the funds as required.

(b) Central—Central Office for Crafts, Guilds and Workers Insurance, managed by an administrative council (employers, workers and mutualist members) appointments being confirmed by Royal Decree) under the Ministry of Labor, Cooperation and Social Insurance.

(c) Medical Services—Insured may choose doctor from among those with whom his fund has contracted.

RUSSIA—1911; 1922; 1931.

Scope.

All employed persons irrespective of nature and duration of employment and method of remuneration.

Benefits and Conditions for Benefit.

(a) Cash Sickness Payments—A proportion of wages depending on many factors—e.g., length, continuity and type of employment, duration of sickness, whether or not the worker is a trade-unionist, and whether he is employed in a socialist or in private employment.

(b) Medical Care—Medical treatment, drugs, minor appliances and home nursing for as long as membership lasts. Hospital treatment, if necessary, and dental service, if specially prescribed. Admission to rest homes, sanatoria, camps, etc., for not more than 3½ months, with precedence for trade-unionists.

²⁰ The 1932 law aimed at facilitating the introduction of a unified social insurance system for the whole country.

(c) Maternity Benefit—Medical or other treatment in maternity home or creche. Cash payments for eight weeks before and eight weeks after, confinement. (Four weeks less for nonmanual workers.) Nursing bonus of $23.16 payable in two installments, $16.48 towards cost of layette. Qualifying periods as follows: "Shock brigades," four months; other union workers—eight months; nonunionists—12 months; special cases—none.

(d) Funeral Benefit—Payable as follows to persons who defray burial costs: Urban Centers: Over age 10, $16.58; under age 10, $8.29. Rural Districts: Over age 10, $8.29; under age 10, $4.15.

Contributions.

(a) Insured Person—None.

(b) Employer—The whole cost, which depends on wages and type of undertaking. A single contribution to a so-called working fund covers invalidity, unemployment and sickness benefits other than medical care. Only expenditure for medical care is kept separate. Contributions may be raised or lowered not more than 25% according to health conditions in an undertaking.

(c) State—State pays only in the capacity of employer. The insurance institutions generally must grant special subsidies to funds in the heavy industries (coal mining, metal, chemical, engineering) and transport. These funds are further subsidized by the trade unions.

(d) Local Governments—None.

Administration.

(a) Local—Federal occupational funds for rail and water transportation, metal, engineering, mining and chemical industries, each administered by a committee elected by the Trade Union Congress. Territorial funds for all other workers. Funds have no financial autonomy. Surplus may be shifted from one to another by the supervising authorities. In public undertakings benefits are payable directly by the undertaking, the amounts paid being deducted from contributions payable. In other cases the funds set up offices for the payment of benefits.¹⁴

(b) Central—Central Social Insurance Department under the U. S. S. R. Commissariat of Labor, assisted by a Federal Social Insurance Council. The territorial general funds in each of the six Federal Republics are combined into a single territorial fund for the Republic in question. Occupational funds are directly supervised by the Central Social Insurance Department. The general social insurance budget and the distribution of funds between the different republics and districts is determined by the General Council of Trade Unions and the Commissariat of Labor with the approval of the Council of People's Commissaires of the Soviet Union.

(c) Medical Services—Medical service is supplied by the Commissariat of Public Health, which receives from the Social Insurance Department funds set aside for the purpose.

¹⁴ Offices for paying benefits are set up for funds in large or medium-sized industrial and transport undertakings, in large building undertakings, and in Soviet farms. These offices are competent to settle all disputes relating to benefits. Half the savings effected by them go to improve the living conditions of workers.

HEALTH INSURANCE SYSTEMS IN GREAT BRITAIN AND DENMARK

Confederation of Recognized Sickness Funds responsible to the Minister of Social Welfare; also in charge of sickness insurance. Sickness Funds Committee elected by individual communities.

APPENDIX G.

Anachronistic Attitude of A. M. A. at Chicago.

Physicians of California, hospital associations, unions and others connected to the service of the sick have convinced this Senate committee that the American Medical Association interpretation of the viewpoint of California is particularly and the negative opinion of organized medicine in general, at the meeting of the House or Delegates of the A. M. A., at Chicago, February 15 and 16, 1935. The House of Delegates of the American Medical Association declared "its opposition to all forms of compulsory sickness insurance whether administered by the Federal Government, the government of individual States or any individual industry, community or similar body." Gentlemen of the A. M. A. House at Chicago prefer "compulsory sickness" to "compulsory health."

The president of the American Medical Association several years ago announced at the A. M. A. National convention with resounding emphasis: "The medical profession stands ready to render complete protection and service on terms within the people's means." This lofty, but unopposed and most recent announced sentiment applies. The over-simplified plan of the classical physician was paralleled in the days when the physician could carry his instruments of precision in his vest pocket and his full equipment in his saddle bags. The modern physician of economic class and his handicapped by atrophic traditions that are cultural only because of their antiquity. The law of the Moses and the Pericles which although not was followed by the A. M. A. House of Delegates at Chicago in reiterating "its opposition to all forms of compulsory sickness insurance." The A. M. A. delegates in Chicago wanted the travelers described by Newman: "Nothing which meets them carries them forward or backward to any place beyond themselves."

One of the returning delegates expressed the opinion that those distinguished doctors were men of personal character and culture and essentially and basically self-assured. It is not surprising that these delegates with sympathy, sympathy among citizens with ample means fail to grasp the pressing problem of the lower income groups. They are not socially conscious of the grinding evils of the present system which are revealed by tales contained in the report of this Senate committee. They would not, of course, posing the agency caused by the present system if they understood the problem. If they understood the problem they would follow the leadership of the members of the House of Delegates of the California Medical Association who have looked ahead with clear vision, and seeing that the present system must be changed to meet the demands of today, recommended compulsory health insurance (see resolution in Appendix C) so that citizens within the lower income brackets may be assured adequate care or prices they can easily afford.

What the American Medical Association did at Chicago, February 16, 1935, is "opposition to all forms of sickness insurance whether administered by the Federal Government, the government of the individual States or any individual industry, community or similar body" was significant.

But what the California Medical Association did only two weeks later, at Los Angeles, March 3, 1935, is far more significant. The physicians of California recognized that there is a real social, economic and professional problem of medical care that does not belong exclusively to the medical profession but is also the concern of the State and a proper subject for the consideration and action of the Legislature, and that no group, least of all one vested with a public function, whose privilege to practice is prescribed and regulated by the State for the promotion and protection of the health of the citizens, can isolate itself and arrogantly assume that it can dictate. When a private organization like the American Medical Association attempts to invade or usurp the right of the State, no matter how spacious the language of its resolution, we must reemphasize that the State must never grant to private interests the public interest and, above all, must guard such a precious possession as the health of its citizens.

The American Medical Association violated a policy determined in 1930 by its House of Delegates. In 1930 the A. M. A. resolved that each State should be left free to formulate its own health program. Of course, the Chicago resolution of February 16th could not have any binding force on anyone in California. The A. M. A. resolution is just one more turn of the highly colored Chicago kaleidoscopic machinery. The American Medical Association can not exercise dogmatic authority over its membership, and the California Medical Association in repudiating the changeless conservatism of the A. M. A. House of Delegates demonstrated its progressive independence, and its clearer understanding of the problems of medical care, and its sympathetic interest in the middle-class folk who are told they are the heart and backbone of the country but who can't afford to pay under the present system the charges when their own hearts or backbones require the doctor's attention.

According to the A. M. A. meeting at Chicago: "The primary considerations of the physicians constituting the American Medical Association are the welfare of the people, the preservation of their health and their care in sickness, the advancement of medical science, the improvement of medical care, and the provision of adequate medical service to all the people. These physicians are the only body in the United States qualified by experience and training to guide and suitably control plans for the provision of medical care. The fact that the quality of medical service to the people of the United States today is better than that of any other country in the world is evidence of the extent to which the American medical profession has fulfilled its obligations."

If it is the function of the A. M. A. to provide adequate medical service to all the people, the A. M. A. is incorrect in concluding that "the American medical profession has fulfilled its obligations." If this were the case there would be no problem of providing for the medical care of those in the low income brackets. However, the important question is whether this problem, which the A. M. A. can not deny exists and which it assumes the responsibility of solving, is essentially a medical problem. No one denies the high quality of medical service in the United States and in California the scientific service of our doctors is second to none, and no one denies the need of this service on the part of those in the low income brackets; the problem is how to put this excellent service in operation upon this needful part of the population. If this is supposed to be a medical problem, it might be wondered why it should ever be raised; a doctor who did not know how to put his excellent service in operation upon a patient ready at hand would simply not be a doctor worthy of the name. But the problem, as all doctors and all patients know, is not medical but economic. The patient can not pay for the service and the doctor can not render it without just remuneration, since the dispensing of such service is his function with respect to his fellow man and hence the means of his own livelihood.

But is it not the height of presumption on the part of the A. M. A. to declare that this problem, which is an aspect of the larger question of the proper distribution of the burdens and benefits of civilization, is exclusively within their ken as physicians? It is only by resort to arrogant assumption that it can even be made to appear so. In the passage quoted, does the phrase "the provision of adequate medical service to all the people" refer to the character of the service as medical or as a form of economic quid pro quo, as a form of exchange of services between free and supposedly equal members of a democratic commonwealth? The doctors must have the former reference in mind, for they offer the excellent quality of medical service in the United States as evidence that they have fulfilled their obligation to provide adequate medical service to all the people—that is, to all who can pay the price.

Testimony given by California physicians at the public hearing of the Senate Committee in San Francisco showed the extensive propaganda against health insurance conducted by the A. M. A. in this State. We are informed by members of the California Medical Association that Dr. Morris Fishbein's address on health insurance before the Dental Association in Oakland did not have any official sanction of the medical profession. In fact, Dr. Fishbein, although editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, failed to get an invitation to address any of the constituent county societies of the California Medical Association. Dr. Fishbein is an entertaining talker and California welcomes every visitor. The California Medical Association, after due deliberation, having gone on record for compulsory health insurance very consistently refused to permit Dr. Fishbein to confuse the issue by inciting prejudice and opposition. Dr. Fishbein's anti-health insurance addresses in California would not merit our attention if they were not designed to undermine the constructive action of the California Medical Association. The A. M. A. was powerful enough to make the American College of Surgeons recede from its position on health insurance; it was potent enough to make the Michigan State Medical Society lay down and turn face downward its expensive survey and report on health insurance but the A. M. A. was impotent to delay or dismay the California Medical Association by ukase. The narrow viewpoint of the official A. M. A. on the shores of Lake Michigan compare in breadth and depth with the broader vision of the C. M. A. on the shores of the Pacific as the lake compares to the ocean.

There seems to be something about Chicago, Ill., that adversely affects the minds of medical men. This is not the first time that Chicago doctors indicated that they are not constructively interested in the problem of reduction of the high costs of illness.

The Sacramento Bee had a forceful editorial April 27, 1929, under the appropriate title:

"IS IT A CRIME TO SEEK TO REDUCE SICKNESS COST?"

"Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, nationally known specialist and man of the highest standing as a citizen in Chicago, recently was expelled from the Chicago Medical Society, and hence also from the American Medical Association.

At a meeting behind closed doors, from which newspaper men were barred, a majority of the doctors present decided that he had violated the ethics of the profession by advertising, through the Illinois Social Hygiene League, of which he is president, that victims of social diseases could receive treatment at the Public Health Institute, an institution of the highest order, supported by Chicago philanthropists and not operated for profit.

This advertising was not of a personal character. It has no reference whatever to Dr. Schmidt himself or his practice.

It merely made known to the victims of these diseases that opportunity for help for them was at hand and that at a very small cost. Apparently, Dr. Schmidt's crime was that he dared to attempt to reduce the cost of being sick.

Dr. Schmidt, in an eloquent defense of his action, told his fellow physicians:

"The time will come when both the profession and the public will be better served. If we organize to bring the cost of hospital, laboratory and medical care within the purse of all that great majority of our people known as the middle classes, all reputable, capable physicians will prosper greatly.

Such a plan will take the business of meeting the health problems of these people with special revenues away from the quacks and charlatans, who now prey upon a public which has no other place to turn. The millions of dollars now given to these disreputable quacks will then be given to medical men.

Honest, ethical physicians will be treating these thousands of sick people, because the cost of that treatment can be lowered, and because we shall find the means, by ethical advertising, to lead them away from the quacks and to our profession.

Are such views criminal?

But no amount of eloquence or reason can change the minds of men already made up.

Yet the questions raised by Dr. Schmidt are not answered by his casting. Dr. Charles Mayo of Rochester, Minnesota, has come to his defense. So has President Walter Dell Scott of Northwestern University, whom he is a professor, and great numbers of middle-class citizens in Chicago to whom the prospect of illness under present day conditions is appalling in its costliness, have rallied to his support.

For Dr. Schmidt has repeatedly asserted that medical, hospital and laboratory care of the sick, which now costs people with incomes from $3,000 to $5,000 a year $20 a day in Chicago, could be furnished at a cost of $5 a day if properly organized and directed.

People not living even in Chicago will sympathize with the efforts of any man directed to an end so desirable, and they will wish him well."

REACTIONARY DR. FISHBEIN

"Coming so immediately after the reactionary action of the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association at Chicago, the action of the Western Hospital Association at San Francisco in declaring emphatically for health insurance is a refreshing and encouraging contrast.

California was one of the States which took the lead in workmen's compensation insurance, which is now the settled policy of every enlightened State. It can well assume the responsibility of leading also in the expansion of the same principle to cover sickness generally. That, too, is already the policy of all other enlightened Nations. America, by following in the rear, will at least not be breaking the speed limit.

Now we have thousands of physicians who can not make a living, and millions of people who, though they can care for themselves when well, have no reserve with which to meet the costs and the losses of sickness. The emergency is immediate, practical and personal. Therefore we are open to consider methods of meeting it.

The official obstacle is a small group of ultra-conservatives, headed by Dr. Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association. They have set themselves obstinately against this obvious next step, and have secured the support of many physicians, who would rather go on in the old way, or change it as little as possible.

Their preference is quite natural. All of us would rather go on in the old ways, if we could. But, since we can not, and since we do not have to invent the new way to meet the new conditions, but find it already at hand, developed by the experimentation of other Nations, the obvious course is to go ahead.

If it were a matter of medical science, this would have been done long ago, with the American medical profession in the lead.

But, since it is a matter of medical business, America will be doing well in even tardily following."—San Francisco Chronicle.

THE PRACTICAL ISSUE.

"The underlying practical issue in Chicago is described by the Chicago News, which says that 'at the bottom that is whether the profession itself, by cooperation, organization and economical use of modern equipment shall attack the problem of reducing the high cost of services required by persons suffering from disease, or whether benevolent lay associations shall perform the task. Clinics and hospitals of the new type will be established, whether the profession favors them or not."

MEDICAL ETHICS AND THE SICK.

"Social organization is changing, and the changes will include the care of sufferers. The meeting of the Chicago Medical Society Tuesday 'took no action on the high cost of medical care, except to issue a statement that physicians have no control over the costs of hospital and laboratory services.' But it threw out a physician employed by an institute which takes care of the sick at moderate costs. Action like that calls for something more than a pretended explanation which insults public intelligence.

Men and women and children learn to love their doctors. This calling which so often demands sacrifice wins gratitude and praise above other callings. But its ethics ought not to be above public comprehension. We read somewhere: 'His disciples said, "Master, we saw one casting out devils in Thy name. And we forbade him because he followeth not with us." And Jesus said, "Forbid them not; for there is no one who shall do a miracle in my name that can lightly speak evil of me."'

The British situation is evidence of what has been said to the physicians in America—that treatments provided at great expense are not now available to many people who need them and that they can not be provided unless some plan is worked out to put the financing of medical care on a different basis. Some will argue that the British plan is just another tendency toward State medicine. It need not be that. Whether or not State medicine comes will depend, more than anything else, on the doctors themselves. If they just stand on their own conception of medical ethics to block any move to bring the applications of science to the man of average means, they will probably get State medicine. If, on the other hand, they meet this problem as they have done in the splendid way they have cooperated for furthering the prevention of disease, they will in reality strengthen their position as a profession."—Milwaukee Journal.

FIGHT FOR LOWER MEDICAL COSTS.

The Chicago Association of Commerce passed a resolution on this serious question which may be quoted appropriately.

"The resolution, upon which there was only one negative vote, is as follows:

"The Chicago Medical Society, by various resolutions, including two additional statements of policies published in a bulletin for April 6; and by charges of alleged 'unethical' professional services against Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, and his expulsion from the society, has raised a serious question which affects the entire program of local medical charity for persons of moderate means.

Certain of the institutions directly affected or mentioned in this connection, notably the Public Health Institute, Illinois Social Hygienic League, Infant Welfare Society, Visiting Nurse Association, St. Luke's Hospital, and the Chicago Lying-In Hospital, all of which are endorsed by this association, as well as other public and philanthropic organizations, such as the University of Chicago and Northwestern University, the University of Wisconsin, and the Rosenwald Foundation, all of which are rendering valuable service to this community and are affected by this attitude.

It is vital that such disinterested and humanitarian agencies as the foregoing endeavoring to promote the health and welfare of Chicago should be supported in that endeavor by public opinion and their work carried on.

If such needs are not being met by any other associations or professions involved, then obviously the community itself through such agencies as the foregoing must ultimately meet the responsibility.

Therefore, be it resolved, that the Chicago Association of Commerce expresses its continued confidence in the institutions named, and reaffirms its endorsement of the medical charities on its approved list; and also expresses its hope that the Chicago Medical Society will endeavor to work out its problems of professional ethics without interfering with well established and highly valuable institutions conducted with the approval and financial support of our leading citizens.

Apparently there has arisen a situation with reference to this matter calling for disinterested and unbiased consideration.

So be it further resolved, that the Association of Commerce appoint a special committee to take up the matter with the Chicago Medical Society and try, if possible, to get it to bring its action with reference to the public institutions involved more in line, without sacrificing its own standards, with what the association believes the welfare of this community requires in the way of medical care and assistance.

And be it further resolved, that the Association of Commerce, having had its attention called to Senate Bill No. 231, intended to prevent medical work being carried on under the auspices of corporations, even though they are civic and philanthropic institutions, concerned for public welfare, have with disapproval upon such bill and urges the Legislature to defeat it."

HIGH COST OF CARE

"Expulsion of Dr. Louis F. Schmidt, eminent specialist, from the Chicago Medical Society, has caused a storm of protest in that city. The case is attracting attention throughout the country because it goes to the heart of the problem of excessive fees for medical and hospital care. The outcome may have a vital influence on the present campaign in many cities to make the services of reliable physicians and hospitals available to citizens in moderate circumstances."

The situation has brought a sentiment from Dr. Schmidt to the effect that "present rates of medical care are such that families of moderate circumstances are forced to quit hospital and patient medicine in their efforts to heal sickness." —Washington Post.

OUSTER MOTIVES AVOIDED

"Dr. Yarros, in her letter of resignation addressed to the Chicago Medical Society, recalled the motives of the physicians in ousting Dr. Schmidt."

"As a resident of Hull House for several years, Dr. Yarros will working during this period in obstetrics among the poor and working classes. I learned from my own experience the need for lowering medical fees. The obstetrical care in that community (poor) was being given by midwives, with a resulting high mortality of mother and child, and yet vigorous protest was made by the same physicians when the Young In dispensary and the dispensary of the medical department of the University of Illinois were established."

But that did not deter us from doing steady, painful public service." —Chicago Tribune.

A. M. A. STANDING IN ITS OWN LIGHT

"Many members of the American Medical Association favor a fee-fixing system that differs little from the police 'steering' in its effect on the victim. The association's office promotes and enforces it."

The average man who has had to do with the medical profession knows what it is. When he goes to pay a bill, coming by him Bradstreet written all over him, he is turned over to an assistant. Taken into an anteroom and subjected to a systematic routine that would fill to shame the income tax collector's headquarters. He is asked, by a man in voice that makes him feel like he had been caught in the wrong business for a while to buy a cup of coffee, thus fulfilling the request he is so anxious usually about five times what the coffee is worth to pay for. He will be given a discount if he is unable to pay.

Rather than lower his self-respect by pleading inability to pay, he agrees to "the request" for if it is an urgent case. In it is not of these operations that would be paid a little longer, as slips and as much as possible and sometimes treatment must last for the treatment and maintenance of the medical profession's practices and "all of which" might have added several years to a happy life.

The system makes it impossible for the family with an income of less than $5,000 a year to enjoy the luxury of a consultant physician's care. And because the middle-classes can not afford to support him, it is necessary for the physician to operate his sliding-scale fee system. It is a vicious circle.

There are many physicians today who are as socially-minded as the country doctor who never refused to answer a call and who gave collected for his services. They feel the desire to serve, and they try to serve by "making the rich man's appendix pay for the poor man's." But they limit their potential field of service so greatly by isolating themselves, and by leaving the impression that they are available only to the rich, that their good intentions often go for naught.

The medical profession needs more American vision. The mass production also would help it infinitely to get away from its sliding scale and to fulfill its inherent desire to be of service. The American people would still be making in bargains of pathological discoveries had been treated as medical discoveries are. The American Medical Association is standing in its own light." —Des Moines Capital.

Science is making steady advancement in the prevention and cure of disease and further discoveries in this field may be expected from the large number engaged in medical research. However, the discovery of medicines does not always make them available to the public. The usefulness of any discovery depends upon its adaptation to the public need. Thousands of lives are lost annually because remedies of science are not available to the victims of disease.

The statistics from surveys printed in this report of the Senate Committee on the Investigation of the High Cost of Sickness are designed to show what percentage of the population can not afford medical and hospital treatment. Without question there is need for a plan making scientific remedies and expert treatment available to more people. Wider use of present knowledge for promotion of health will prove of greater value than new discoveries. If health service insurance which the Senate committee recommends is fairly applied to the patients who pay the bills, to the physicians to whom the bills are paid, and the Health Service Insurance Commission as the official agent of California sees to it that the public interests are at all times safeguarded and all engaged in the work are prevented from exploitation of the sick, the plan will work and develop constructively for the benefit of all. The policy of health service insurance which this Senate committee recommends will mould our destiny for generations. We realize that our bill is not perfect, because whoever thinks a perfect bill to see, thinks what ne'er was, nor is, nor e'er shall be.

APPENDIX H.

THE DOCTOR AND THE STATE.*

By Morris Fishbein, M.D., Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association.

Since November, 1932, when the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care promulgated its majority and minority reports to the medical profession and to the public of this country, the relationship which the State should bear to the medical profession has been a much debated topic in this country. Many of those who participate in the program here today have on previous occasions recorded their views. Not only have articles been published in periodicals for the public, for the medical profession and for economists, sociologists and lawyers; programs devoted to medical economics have been offered to medical societies, congresses on education and innumerable lay organizations. In the program presented here today there has been much public exposure and airing of medical linen, but largely by laundrymen who, for the most part, do not appear to be members of the family. Thus the audience has been intrigued, if not embarrassed, by the spectacle of father's red flannels and daughter's scanties displayed in a manner which might not have been so scandalous had the family wash been subjected to the sympathetic attention of mother or some other member of the family. Indeed, the attitude of many of those who have addressed you concerning the medical profession today might well be defined by the celebrated epigram from the oration over Julius Caesar by Mark Antony, in which he said: "I come to bury Caesar, not to praise him."

The points of view of those who speak are fundamental in the appraisal of any consideration of this subject. The medical profession has insisted with remarkable unanimity that no other group except physicians is really entitled to say how medicine shall be practiced, for only the physicians are competent by training and experience to judge adequately the quality of medical care. There is no criterion of adequate medical care except the quality of the care that is rendered.

For some months now audience after audience, viewing a play on Broadway called "Men in White," has burst spontaneously into applause after a bit of dialogue in the first act. The resident physician of a hospital, Ferguson, is talking to Levine, a doctor who practices on the east side of New York. Ferguson has been describing the difficulties under which his father, a country physician upstate, had endeavored to practice medicine. The motto of this country doctor had been: "Above all is humanity." The old man died poor and in the harness. Levine says: "A doctor shouldn't have to worry about money. That's one disease he's not trained to fight. It either corrupts him—or it destroys him." And then he reflects: "Well, maybe some day the State will take over medicine." To this Ferguson replies: "Before we let the State control medicine we'd have to put every politician on the operating table and cut out his acquisitive instincts." And here each audience bursts into applause. This applause need not necessarily be taken as the attitude of the public toward State medicine, but it may represent the attitude of the public toward politicians.

The relationship of the State to the practice of medicine is no new subject to the medical profession either in this country or abroad. The time has long since passed when the family doctor in his relationships to his patients represented complete medical responsibility and care. When great plagues swept across Europe in the Middle Ages, devastating the populations, the State organized the attack against those plagues. In fact, when Moses led the Children of Israel out of the land of Egypt he laid down certain health laws, as a representative of the State, which have been recognized ever since that time as reasonable responsibilities of the State in regard to medical care. He was concerned with rest, with food and water and with communicable disease. From the first, the medical profession has recognized the right of the State to an interest in medicine as it concerns the community in the mass. However, the medical profession has, during the past quarter century, been confronted with many facts indicating the desirability of the State to enter more fully into the problems of medical care. It has seen, the extension of free clinics. It has participated in a multitude of surveys and demonstrations. It has witnessed innumerable attempts by the State to conduct for medical care under a variety of conditions. It has observed the establishment by most of the large universities in this country of health services which undertake to provide complete medical care for the students of these universities.

The medical profession has noted also the attempts of health officers in some communities to broaden unduly the scope of their work. Indeed, Dr. Thomas Parran, at a recent meeting of the American Medical Association, stressed the many ways in which, in the State of New York, the government has increased participation in medical practice. All these things medicine has witnessed, and in many of them it has given largely of its services, making for their success.

Without the cooperation of the medical profession no system of medical practice can succeed. One listens with amusement, if not with amazement, therefore, to the threats of many of the leaders of the organizations that have been conducting widespread propaganda for nationalization of property and socialization of political service, when they say to the medical profession that unless it surrenders itself, socialization will be forced upon it. No well organized body can be forced into any position. The medical profession, as an intimate part of our nation, will too surely participate, indeed already has, in the general trend of our government. There has been in our government a trend toward socialization for some twenty years. It is interesting to realize, as was pointed out by the president of the Federal State Medical Association in a recent address, that all but two of the planks in the Socialistic platform of 1912 have today become part of the law of our land. Nevertheless, those who know and understand the nature of medical care, including particularly the diagnosis and treatment of disease in the individual, are inclined to believe that the last stand of the citizen in maintaining his status as an individual human being is going to be in times of disease. A man at work in a gang along the side of the road, a soldier who is a fragment of humanity in a regiment of disease fodder, a robot in one of our great industrial plants who spends minutes after minutes day after day, performing the same mechanical functions, has but little opportunity to feel that he is an individual human being. But when a splinter of steel flies into his eye, when his shoulder begins to ache with the stress of the park and travel, or when he inadvertently takes into his system a large dose of Escherichia beginning with drinking water which he has been assured by the State is quite free from contamination, he begins to realize that there are parts of his body that have no realization of the State's desire to care for him. Those parts make their presence known in a most disagreeable manner. At such times he seems to prefer a physician who will look at his eye not as an eye belonging to the State but as an eye belonging to John Smith. He prefers a physician who will treat his amoebic dysentery without any relationship to the State's responsibility for having permitted the conditions that caused that dysentery to develop. He finds himself in his relationship to the State exactly as he finds himself in his relationship to an employer who wants from his labor all the work that he can get but who wants to pay to his labor the least that can be paid. Those who have watched the tender care of the State for the public in times of stress realize that the sympathy, the understanding, and the humanity of State employees toward the unfortunate is not always manifested with what might be called humanism. Those who have read in "Little Man, What Now?" the experience of the German laborer who was trying to get from his government something in the way of benefits under the insurance act in Germany will find a startling example of the way in which bureaucratic employees under most circumstances concern themselves with the problem of the individual sick man.

There is hardly one of the socialized medical services and the State medical services that have been developed in various parts of the world that has not constantly been subjected to criticism of political manipulation. The answer of those who would socialize medicine to the charge that under a system conducted by physicians politics would not enter into the picture is in itself too naive to merit consideration. In Brooklyn there seems to be in process of formation a medical league for socialized medicine, which attempts in one of its prospectuses an answer to this fundamental question:

"Under socialized medicine you would not substitute an evil (politics) for something that does not exist in the present system. Politics can not be worse under socialized medicine than exists today. It is a fact that no doctor can advance much without hospital affiliation. It is no secret that he has to play politics (social, financial, and political) in order to be connected, to advance or to hang onto his position. This is also true of other medical institutions, insurance companies, and all forms of present-day contract practice. It is true even of much of our private practice."

As long as men are human beings they will continue to react personally on each other. As long as Nations are subject to political manipulation, contracts between a Nation and the individual in the Nation are merely matters of form. Consider what happened in Germany to its social insurance scheme when the Hitler regime took over the reins. What then of the contracts held by physicians with various sickness organizations? What then of the high standard of medical practice set up in Germany under a different reign? What of the resolution which was promulgated by the new government, licensing 5000 naturopathists and telling the medical profession to turn its face to the naturopathic system of practice? Such are the possibilities in medical care when a nonmedical government is in the saddle.

What of Russia with its Sovietized system of Red medicine, so sympathetically and joyously considered in the recent writings of Messrs. Newsholme and Kingsbury? Their 9000 mile jaunt in four weeks obviously gave them opportunity to see all the best that Red medicine had to offer; but the review of their observations in the New York Times brings to light the remarkable vagaries of their health inspection tour and leads an enlightened reviewer to conclude that it resembles nothing like a scientific investigation of the facts. What about the examination of that Communist student of physiology who was flunked by his professor when he gave the composition of air as 10 per cent oxygen, 5 per cent hydrogen, 65 per cent nitrogen, and 10 per cent temperature? The professor was then ordered by the government to reexamine the youth on the same subject two weeks later after he had had time to look up the answers and inform himself as to his error. What about the patients of this young man some years later when he has been appointed by his government to take care of a considerable number of them? Will they have opportunity to cry out from their tombs against governmental appointment of incompetent doctors? Alas, we know only too well that there is no raising from the dead!

If there is any one fact apparent in relationship to all of the systems of State and socialized medicine that have been developed throughout the world, it is that not one of them has been established as a success. There is not one of even the most prejudiced investigators of such systems who is willing to say that the United States today should establish a similar system for the people of this country. But with the folly that has inevitably characterized the projectors of fantastic schemes for social reorganization, perhaps with an inordinate pride in American democracy, those who urge the socialization of medicine insist that where others have failed with such systems Americans will be sure to succeed. Have they any evidence that there is any reason to anticipate such success?

In 1917, the following resolution was offered to the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association and adopted by them. It was just after the British system had begun to function and at a time when the insurance system seemed to answer for the public the problem of medical care. The resolution read:

"Resolved, That the House of Delegates of the American Medical Association in the interests of both the wage earners and the medical profession authorize its council of health and public instruction to continue to study and to make reports on the future development of social insurance legislation and to cooperate, when possible, in the molding of these laws that the health of the community may be properly safeguarded, and the interests of the medical profession protected; and be it further Resolved, That the House of Delegates instruct its council on health and public instruction to insist that such legislation shall provide for freedom of choice of physician by the insured; payment of the physician in proportion to the amount of work done; the separation of the functions of medical supervision from the function of the daily care of the sick; and adequate representation of the medical profession on the appropriate administrative bodies."

In the 16 years that have intervened the medical profession seems to have become more definitely opposed to nation-wide social insurance and State medicine than it was then. In 1927 the funds were collected for establishing the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care, and in 1932 the majority of that committee brought in its report favoring essentially a system of socialized medicine. Nevertheless, by 1932 the Nation was in the midst of an economic depression from which there is doubt as yet that it has wholly emerged. Perhaps the economists will function satisfactorily as physicians to the Nation in its time of depression, but it is doubted that they have the knowledge to cure the social evils which are basic in the nature of man. It is doubted that they know enough about the mind and body of a man diseased to organize a system for his cure. Indeed, even the methods of cure for the economic difficulties of the Nation are in that stage of science in which medicine was at the time of Hippocrates. They offer remedies for the Nation's economic troubles as the physician of today endeavors to treat arthritis—knowing of no specific cause of arthritis, he recommends salicylates and cinchopen; he uses hydrotherapy, diathermy and rest in bed, and massage, and then is still ready to send the patient to a hot climate and to recommend consultation with three more specialists.

However, the treatment of the economic illnesses of a Nation is not to be compared wholly with the diagnosis and treatment of the disease of an individual human being. That is an intensely personal matter. Indeed, the best evidence of the exceedingly personal character of such attention may be found in the demonstration of National and personal prejudice in relationship to medical care manifested in the classified advertisements published in the columns of The Journal of the American Medical Association. Bear in mind that the population of the United States is not homogeneous. The statement that Great Britain, France, Germany and similar countries have had even partial success with systems of National medical care is no guarantee that these systems would work even partially in the United States. In the classified advertisements referred to, one physician asks for an assistant in his practice who must be a third degree Mason, another requires a Shriner, a third says only a Catholic will serve, and a fourth feels that the assistant must be a woman. These men who are advertising for assistants to aid them in the care of the sick in their particular province in the community know that personal relationships will enter into medical care which are as fundamental in securing a result in many cases as is the diphtheria antitoxin in a case of diphtheria. They know that human beings are composed of both a mind and a body and that any attempt in the present state of medical knowledge to treat the body alone and not to treat the human being as a whole will lower the standards of quality of medical care. Again I would emphasize that only by the quality of medical care is it possible to judge medical service.

I have spoken thus far largely in generalities, because it seemed to me that the prime purpose of this meeting was to lay before the public an understanding of the situation which exists today. I have said that the question of the attitudes of the speakers is fundamental to a consideration of the subject. Any one who has studied the bibliographies of the members of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care could have told long before its report was issued what the nature of the reports would be. Since the announcement of the meetings held here today physicians have written in considerable numbers pointing out that the program seemed to be stacked against the medical profession, for the medical profession as a whole is quite familiar with the points of view not only of its own representatives on this program but also of Drs. Sydenstricker, Michael Davis, and Parran, and with the views of Mr. William T. Foster, who follows me.

It is not surprising to hear Dr. Sydenstricker assert that the profession is bound by taboos and traditions which must be overthrown, neither is it remarkable to hear him insinuate that our entire economic, social and political system needs reorganizing. It is annoying, however, to have him center his attention on medicine and want to begin all the reorganization with the medical profession. Yet as an employee of the Milbank Foundation what other course is open to him? The foundation is pledged to a program for socialization of medical care and its executive secretary, Mr. Kingsbury, has become enamored of what was shown to him in a personally conducted tour of Russia.

No better proof of the necessity for medical advice in a study of medical matters could be offered than Professor Rossard's analysis of the distribution of physicians and hospitals in Philadelphia, of his attempt to trace an analogy between university health services and military medical services offered to special classes of the population under peculiar conditions with the medical care that must be given to people generally, living in their own homes and subject to all of the vicissitudes of existence, such as lack of fuel, bad housing, improper nutrition and want of some of the other necessities of a bare existence. He points out that the poor suffer much more with illness than do the rich, but he does not attempt to cure them of the cause of their illness which lies largely in their poverty. Quite unscientifically and wholly unmedically he would not attack the cause of their illness, but worries about diagnosis and treatment after the illnesses develop. His maps of the distribution of physicians in Philadelphia prove just one thing—that a patient will travel many miles and pass by the offices of innumerable competent doctors from a legal and scientific and educational point of view to get the doctor that he wants to take care of him. And Professor Rossard ends his discussion with the same old threat: If the doctors do not give us what we want there may be violence. Well, the doctors in Germany and France and in England have been giving the people what the politicians and the economists said the people wanted and there is violence. And a hundred competent observers including many in high places do not find the vast majority of the people of the United States dissatisfied with the type of medical care available to most of them today.

It is asserted by both Messrs. Sydenstricker and Davis that the organized medical profession does not today represent the majority of physicians. If it does not then the Congress and Senate and the President of the United States do not represent the people because the American Medical Association has been since 1901 organized and conducted on a strictly democratic representative basis. He accuses the secretary of the association and myself as editor of having failed to represent conditions here and abroad adequately to the profession and then he fills his manuscript with quotations from the Journal of the American Medical Association to prove the value of the foreign systems of practice that he supports. Mr. Davis indicts the medical profession because of its opposition to certain plans of hospital insurance. He fails to point out that in the period of prosperity, when money was spent in madness, hospitals overexpanded, attempted to ape the wealthiest hotels in their constructions, provided for nurses in their competition to get free nursing service with dance halls, swimming pools, libraries and great reception halls, and then, when caught by the depression, in many instances tried to save themselves from bankruptcy through the development of schemes which would disrupt, disorganize and exploit the medical profession. He forgets that the quality of service rendered by any hospital can be measured only by the quality of physicians who compose its staff. And finally he fails to state how many of the experimental schemes to which he points with pride were initiated by personal visitations from members of the Milbank and Rosenwald funds, subsidized with money coming from these funds and promoted with propaganda paid for by these funds. In so far as any of the experiments has succeeded, and no one can say now whether or not any of them will succeed, they have been made possible by the tolerance and cooperation of the organized medical profession.

The American Medical Association has never opposed honest scientific experimentation. But it has asked that the game be played according to the rules laid down by a thousand years of tradition and experiment. The rules were made to safeguard the interests of the sick individual, not, like the rules of so many of our philanthropies, to make a vast number of people, dissatisfied with their hours of work and the wages they receive, complacent because somebody else pays for the costs of their illnesses. The sociologist E. A. Ross, talking of philanthropy with strings, points out that medical care on a philanthropic basis has come to be the philanthropists' panacea for social unrest.

It is useless to attempt to distinguish between the content of medical practice and the method of administration. The whole question of mutual responsibility between patient and physician is basic. Shall the doctor be responsible to the patient whom he serves, protecting the interests of the patient and considering those interests first or shall he be responsible to the industry which employs the patient, the insurance company which insures him, the government which dictates to him, or the hospital to which he consigns his body in times of sickness? Shall the doctor or the insurance adjuster say how long the patient is to lie in bed after an operation for appendicitis? Shall the doctor or the employer say when the sick man is able to come back to work? I must insist that these are questions which only a physician with the patient as his first interest is able to answer satisfactorily for that patient.

The medical profession has witnessed some interesting spectacles of late. It has seen a Hugh Cabot who argued for social insurance and State medicine come back from abroad and announce that the standard of medical care in the United States today is better than he found it in five foreign countries. It has seen England disturbed for fear that its system of compulsory health insurance would bankrupt the Nation as it has already bankrupted the voluntary hospitals, and it has seen politicians offering as a cure for the situation more social insurance. Similia similibus curantur.

The majority of American physicians have not been greatly concerned about the entrance of the State into medical practice; and Walter Lippmann says that the people generally are even less concerned. In most communities there have been departments of public health which are able to accomplish results in preventive medicine by cooperation with the medical profession. Some of these departments have entered much more fully into medical practice than others. Eventually the Vaughan plan was developed in Detroit, under which physicians immunized individual patients against infectious disease and were paid for the service by the State when payment could not be made by the patient himself. At the same time, of course, the State supplied the materials for such immunization. Gradually health departments in some places encroached on the province of the medical profession. When money was freely available some even attempted to conduct periodic physical examinations. Then came the depression, and with the depression a tremendous lowering of budgets of health departments. When these budgets were lowered health departments discontinued most of their services to the individual and concerned themselves more and more with those functions involving the prevention of disease by the control of the water supply and of the food supply, the disposal of sewage and the control of epidemics. These may be considered well established functions of health departments. Moreover, the health departments continue to devote themselves largely to education of the public in the nature of disease and in the desirability of early consultation with the family physician.

Beyond these phases of government participation in medical care there was also the Veterans' Bureau. When the depression arrived the government was able to see the folly of giving complete medical and surgical care to men who had been veterans and who were well able to pay for such care when the illness or disability bore no relationship whatever to the government service.

Under the Federal Emergency Relief Administration arrangements are being made by county medical societies with county administrators of relief for the care of the indigent sick, and the fees to be paid are adjusted between the parties concerned either at a fixed rate or according to some percentage of the usual fee in that community. The government has insisted that the expenses of hospitalization are beyond the funds available, and hospital fees and specialist care are not provided for under the FERA. Our FERA differs from the British panel system only in the fact that the patient is completely taken care of with funds supplied by the government whereas the British system collects something from the patient himself and from the employer. On the other hand, the FERA provides for the wife and children as well as for the employed worker. The British panel system provides free choice of physician and our indigents are sent to physicians listed in order of listing.

Under the CWA it is found that since these persons are government employees they are entitled to care for injuries or sickness arising through their occupation in government hospitals and by government physicians when such are available, but when not available arrangements are again made by the government with the local medical organizations. Thus again the State enters into medical practice, but of course with the understanding that these are emergency measures and are not to obtain if, as and when the emergency passes.

In all of these efforts of the government the medical profession has participated, realizing the existence of the emergency. No doubt the entire program has been in itself a sort of insidious propaganda for State medicine among the persons who received the benefit and among a considerable number of almost indigent physicians who have been enabled thereby to benefit somewhat their financial status.

The medical profession has, moreover, been lending itself in various ways in various parts of this country to innumerable other experiments in medical care. Contract practice, industrial practice, hospital insurance schemes, university practice, lodge practice and group clinics are a few of the many forms of medical care now available in various communities, and these simply could not exist without the services of some of the medical profession.

There are certain criteria by which scientists measure the results of various experiments. In consideration of many of these sociomedical experiments the scientific criteria have been waived or overlooked. It would be desirable to know first of all whether morbidity and mortality rates in communities where these experiments exist are lower than those in other communities in which the old form of medical practice prevails. Actually, however, no satisfactory scientific statistical data are available to show that sickness and death, even among the low-income classes, are lessened after any of these plans for the distribution of medical costs are put into effect.

It is realized that advance payment covering the cost of sickness is likely to prolong the illness. It is realized that advance payment is likely to cause the patient to consult the physician much more frequently than he would otherwise. This very psychology in itself tends to invalidate much of the statistical data that are made available.

In European countries with compulsory health insurance schemes the amount of sickness has not been reduced. Moreover, the death rate, which is much more accurate, does not seem to be affected in any measurable manner by the introduction of these schemes or by any other method of paying for medical care. In fact, it is safe to say that the mortality and morbidity rates in the United States are as low as, or lower than, those of most civilized countries.

In reading a vast amount of literary material on this subject I have been struck repeatedly by the statement appearing in the papers of most of the socially-minded writers to the effect that medicine is proceeding in a stagecoach or on a bicycle while the world is traveling on an express train or in an airplane. Medicine has always been rather proud of its conservatism. If it had leaped at once to embrace all of the half-baked schemes that have been offered for changing the nature of practice, if it had hastened in its acceptance of thousands of theories of the causation of disease and of millions of panaceas and cures for various disorders, the effects on humanity would have been disastrous. Nevertheless, medicine points with pride to the fact that it has made more progress within the last 50 years than in all the previous years of its existence. As a result of this progress, increasing years of life have been conferred on most of civilized humanity, and the fear of pain, disease and death has been abolished. No doubt the very abolition of this fear has given the world the opportunity for most of the progress that it has made in other fields.

Nevertheless, with all of the progress that it has made, medicine is not yet ready to say to the world that it has standardized mankind. It still finds individual human beings so definitely individual in times of illness that they are not to be handled in the mass. True, even when they are handled in the mass it is possible to benefit ailing human bodies. But there is a great distinction between the quality of medical care that can be rendered to mankind in the mass and the quality that is given to an individual. As I have said previously, medical care can be judged only on the basis of the quality of the service rendered.

It is conceivable that out of many of the experiments that have been made and that are being made, out of the scientific advancement of medicine itself, there may develop a greater and greater tendency toward discounting individuality in medical care. However, the scientific studies of recent years reveal no such tendency. We have seen instead in this period the growth of a method like psychoanalysis which requires the closest possible communion between an individual physician and an individual patient for hundreds of hours in order to get at the basis of a great deal of physical and mental disease. Under no system of State medical care is there provision for adequate psychologic investigation and mental hygiene.

We have seen in this period a reaction of the body of man to this new speed of civilization. A lowering of life expectancy at birth instead of a continued increase begins to reveal itself. Perhaps the machine age is bad for the health of man. Is it not conceivable that the great machine age in which we take such pride, that the great production in industry which seems to some men, to represent the apotheosis of the purpose of mankind in this world, represents a wrong philosophy of human life? The medical profession feels that the sick man is still an individual, a human being. Until it is convinced by properly controlled scientific data that its point of view is wrong, it is likely to continue to insist on the basic idea of personal relationship between doctor and patient as the necessary foundation for good medical care. It has shown repeatedly its willingness to work with economists, sociologists and statesmen toward schemes for making such individual medical care possible for the vast majority of our people.

DOCTORS, PATIENTS AND THE COMMUNITY.*

By William Trufant Foster, LL.D., Director of the Pollak Foundation for Economic Research, Formerly President of Reed College.

Dr. Cumming, Ladies and Gentlemen: I have listened, in the speech of Dr. Fishbein who preceded me, for a statement of the grave deficiencies in medical care which it should be the dominant purpose of this meeting to consider. No one would imagine, from anything that he has said, that in this country at the present time there are millions of people with virtually no medical care whatever. No one would imagine that in this country, which leads the world in the profession of dentistry, there are not three persons out of ten whose teeth are adequately taken care of. No one would suppose, from anything that has been said, that in this country, which leads the world in preventive medicine, not one person out of ten has even one adequate, complete physical examination each year—and that, we must admit, is a prerequisite of preventive medicine; or that there are thousands of sufferers who eagerly want and need hospital care yet can not get it, while one bed out of three in the private hospitals is unoccupied; or that a large proportion of our nurses are sitting at the telephone, waiting, in the hope that possibly they may get an opportunity to render the service they are eager to give, and which suffering humanity is eager to have.

Is there, ladies and gentlemen, no problem whatever of the economics of medical care?

It seems that I belong to that group which has just been scathingly referred to by Dr. Fishbein—those who try to foment discontent with conditions as they are in the United States! I do belong to that group, and I am proud to belong to it. I would not care to belong to any group, in the medical profession, or in the teaching profession, or in the banking profession, or in any other profession, which is seeking to preserve things as they are.

The need for discontent is not confined to medicine. With a superabundance of milk, we have malnutrition of infants. With a capacity which we are told is sufficient to produce three times as many shoes as we could wear, we have tens of thousands who can not get shoes. What is the trouble? Everywhere we hear questions and answers which sound like the riddles of the mad hatter. Why must anyone go hungry? That is because we have produced too much food. But why must we go with shabby clothing? That, we are told, is because we have too much cotton, too much wool, too many cotton mills and woolen mills. Why these shabby houses? That's because we have produced too much lumber, steel, cement, too many tools, too many carpenters, plumbers, architects and contractors.

The whole story makes no sense. It ought to be called Alice in Blunderland!

Yet we hear the same story in the domain of medical service. When we ask why teeth are neglected, the answer is that we have too many dentists. When we ask why we have to go without nurses, we find it is because we have trained too many nurses. Nobody questions our ability to care for all who need care. We have the personnel and the equipment and the knowledge. If we could answer the economic riddle, we could render adequate medical service to our 120,000,000 people. Yet we do not do it.

* Delivered at a meeting of the Academy of Political and Social Science, in Philadelphia, February 7, 1934.

The most obvious thing in this whole situation is that in the United States we possess everything that is necessary to solve the economic problem. Yet, as I pointed out, it is the interesting address of the present speaker, I found not a single constructive, largescale proposal for attacking this problem. The primary defect as is the physical well being of a hundred and twenty million persons. We possess, I repeat, every material requisite for rendering these persons happy, contented. We have the men and women, eager and able to make. We have all the material resources that we ever had. God has not gone back on us! We have the accumulated knowledge of the centuries. We have all the results of research in this great university and in all the others. We have, in short, everything that we need for solving this problem—everything except a largescale, bold, constructive program for positive action.

Why, then, have we sat around these weary years, bemoaning our fate, and doing nothing about it? The answer is simple. In the present and past economy in which we live, producers continue to produce goods, employ men, order raw material, and build factories, as long as they can sell the product. They sell the product as long as people buy it. People buy it, as a rule, as long as they have the money.

Why, in this depression, have we not thought more? Mainly because the wherewithal to buy was crushed out of existence. With a money and credit system under the control of individual bankers, instead of under collective control, $9,000,000,000 of purchasing power were destroyed in two years. Nine billion dollars of wages, more or less, also disappeared. We do not have to look further for an explanation of the depression.

Yet money and credit are absolutely subject to human control. Trees do not grow on bushes! Greenbacks do not grow on green gage plants! Every dollar that goes out of circulation goes out because some human being puts it out. Every currency is a managed currency. The only question is whether we shall manage our currency intelligently, or the way we have managed it in the last five years!

Why, then, have we failed? Mainly, I think, because we have been brought up for generations to believe in the theory of laissez faire. We have thought that the best thing we could do was to leave each "rugged individual" alone to seek profits as he saw fit, and that somehow, beneficently, that would turn out to be the best thing for all of us. Everything is governed by natural law, and certainly it is sacrilegious to interfere with natural law.

It is easy to understand why this theory is popular. It lets everybody out. Nobody is responsible for natural law, so nobody has to do anything about anything; and some wise man, who had made some of those sociological studies to which the previous speaker referred, said long ago, "The most powerful impulse of the human race is the instinct to sit down."

Yet, in spite of the virtues of "rugged individualism," in spite of the natural desire to leave the job to the lazy fairies, the fact is that whenever a business depression starts in, and men are thrown out of work, and prices fall, and pessimism increases, every "rugged individual" does exactly the wrong thing. Each "rugged" consumer cuts down his buying; each "rugged" short-seller creates panic on the stock exchange; each "rugged" producer throws men out of work, refuses pay rolls, pays off bank loans, expresses expressions of the heart, and everything he does makes things worse for all of us. In this situation, each "rugged" banker hauls in the money and sits on it—that's what he calls "becoming liquid." So we go on, from bad to worse. In this condition, it is futile to rely on the individual, pursuing his own interests. The victory must come by collective action.

The initiative usually comes from outside the group, or from rebels within the group. That has been true of education. Progress has resulted mainly from the heresies of a few "wild-eyed radicals" among teachers, or has been imposed upon the schools by outsiders—consumers of education. What is true of educators is true of bankers. The American Bankers' Association opposed the introduction of the Federal Reserve System, because it was a change. Eighty per cent of the bankers opposed it. One year later, the bankers unanimously opposed any change in the Federal Reserve System, because it was a change. They are now having thrust upon them, by collective action inspired from outside their ranks, reforms which should have been made long ago.

The stock exchange likewise refused to make adequate reforms on its own initiative; reforms had to be thrust upon the exchange from outside.

What is true of these professions is true of the rest. Lawyers, notoriously, are loath to take action which is not based on precedent. The principle of the dangerous precedent, as you know, is that we must not do an admittedly right and new thing today, because in the future it might be used as a precedent for doing a wrong thing. Therefore, nothing should ever be done for the first time.

Doctors, as a group, do not greatly differ in this respect from educators or bankers, or lawyers or, indeed, from the various industrial groups—the manufacturers of cotton cloth, for example, or manufacturers of leather, or the producers of oil—who found it impossible to initiate within their own group the action which, collectively, is now being taken for their good and for the common good.

But the medical association insists that "medicine has a right to control its own affairs." That evades the question. Of course, medicine has the sole right to control its own affairs, so far as they have to do with medical science. Everything that Dr. Fishbein has said on that subject seems to me beside the point. He is putting up a straw figure and knocking it down with great gusto—and with humor. (We thank him for that!) But, after all, it is only a straw man. Nobody that I have heard of has proposed that the control of the science of medicine should be taken out of the hands of scientists. I have never heard anybody say that politicians should decide how soon a patient should be allowed to get up from an operation.

When, however, you interpret this demand, which I read again and again in the medical magazines, "Medicine has a right to control its own affairs"—when you interpret that to mean the economic aspects of medical care, that is another matter. Doctors have no special qualifications in that field; no right of eminent domain. We must draw this sharp line between the practice of medicine in its scientific aspects, and the economic means whereby individuals pay and doctors receive pay. Pray God that some day they may receive the pay which they deserve!

If "rugged individualism" actually had succeeded in solving this problem, we might leave the matter entirely to the doctors; just as, if "rugged individualism" among the bankers had solved the problem of money and credit, we could safely leave the control of money and credit to the bankers. But in neither case has the problem been solved.

The report of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care—discount it 50 per cent, if you want to—still would show that our tragic failure to use our available knowledge and services causes a vast amount of preventable physical pain and mental anguish, needless deaths, and economic waste. Present conditions call not merely for a little improvement here and there; they call for a far-reaching change.

The recent progress of the science of medicine has been little short of miraculous. Physicians and other men of science have shown an almost unparalleled professional spirit in making available for the benefit of mankind the results of their research. Physicians as a body, especially family doctors, have shown a willingness to risk their lives, and to serve suffering mankind, without regard to money rewards; indeed, they have rendered this service knowing for a certainty that, due to the chaotic economic condition of individual medical practice, a large proportion of patients would never pay bills. This is a record scarcely equalled by any business or even by any profession; and yet—I return to my first point—and yet, in the distribution of the benefits of this amazing advance, medicine has made intolerably slow progress.

Under the prevailing form of medical service—private individual practice—more than 50,000,000 persons in the United States either do not receive the care which they need, and with which they could readily be provided, or are heavily burdened by its costs, while many practitioners and agencies for health are underemployed and poorly paid. The barrier is mainly economic. It stands between the doctors and the dentists and the nurses who are able and eager to serve and the patients who are sorely in need of the service. Even in places where adequate medical care can be purchased, most of the persons in the lowest income groups do not get it. In spite of the large volume of free work, it appears that each year nearly half the individuals in the lowest income group receive no professional medical or dental attention. "Rugged individualism" has left us millions of far from rugged individuals.

What every sick person needs is a single agency, in one place, freed from every taint of commercialism, which will furnish him, through a general practitioner, preferably of his own choosing, all the necessary requirements.

The report of Hugh Cabot, which has just been referred to, seems to me beside the point. He says that in five of the countries he visited in Europe, he did not find medical care equal to that in the United States. Of course he didn't! It is also true that in the United States, even in the depths of the depression about a year ago, we had the highest standard of living of any country in the world. Were we satisfied with that? Of course we were not. The people of the United States, by an overwhelming majority, said so. We do not set our standards by those of any other country. The fact that we are better off than some other countries has nothing to do with the question. The question is how much better off we could be if we used our resources.

Again I say, we ought to be discontented, much more so than some of the leaders of the medical association seem to be, with the inadequacy of medical care in the United States; and the fact that conditions are worse in Russia or some other country has nothing to do with the question.

The problem is to bring doctors and dollars and diseases into such helpful and continuous contact with each other that the practice of medicine can keep pace with the science of medicine. This can be done only by collective action. Medical services, both preventive and therapeutic, should be furnished, wherever consumers desire to try out the method, by organized groups of physicians, dentists, nurses, pharmacists and other associated personnel. Such groups might well be organized around a hospital for rendering complete home, office and medical care.

Everybody agrees that the form of organization should encourage the maintenance of high standards and the development and preservation of a personal relation between patient and physician.

All I advocate is open-minded approach to the problem: Willingness to try, here and there, where the people want it, various plans for group practice and group payment, with the economic phases in charge of the public who pay the bills and who offer their bodies for the experiments, and with the physicians in complete control of the medical phases.

This is what the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care advocates in the report signed by the majority, including 17 physicians, eminent in their profession, and 22 laymen; including men like Morris Cooke of your own city of Philadelphia, so distinguished for enlightened and unselfish social service that the results of their five years of labor, freely given, deserve more than contemptuous rejection, or attempts at humorous reading out of the records. And certainly, this work deserves more than misrepresentation. Yet this mild proposal of the majority of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care—for voluntary action here and there, wherever groups of people desire to try it—this is called editorially, by the Journal of the American Medical Association, "socialism and communism—leading to revolution."

It has been asserted, over and over again, that the administration of the economic phases of medical care by group payment precludes the precious personal relation between the patient and his family doctor. My first reply to that contention is that there are literally millions of sufferers in the United States today who do not now get adequate medical care, with personal relations or without them, by a family physician or by any other kind of physician. This is the chief problem of medical care: we must not be misled from the central issue by any details.

My second reply is this: the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care propose, in the group plans, that each patient should be in charge of one general practitioner. There is nothing in this plan to prevent the best of personal relations. In fact, the personal relations under this plan might be even better than under the individual fee basis of medical practice, for—we may as well admit it—the greatest source of irritation between patients and doctors is, after all, the bills, and this irritation is removed by group practice, for bills are paid to the group on an insurance basis, and the physician is then free to devote himself wholly to the professional care of his patient. Yet the American Medical Association says that this method turns doctors into hirelings and treats patients like robots.

This noon I visited the Medical School of the University of Pennsylvania. Formerly each student in this school individually paid each professor, or he did not get any instruction. Now the school has group payment of the doctors. Has this destroyed the personal relation between doctor and student? Has it turned the doctors into hirelings and the students into robots? We know better. No professor of medicine in the United States wishes to return to the individual fee basis. We have had some humorous remarks about the man who gets a cinder in his eye. Must a doctor look at John Smith's eye as an eye belonging to the State, instead of to John Smith, merely because John Smith has joined with other consumers in an insurance plan which enables them to pay for the service when they get it? I can not see that the method of payment has anything to do with the patient's eye or the way the doctor looks at it.

My "remarkable solution," which has been promised you, is simply that the costs of medical care, which are unpredictable in their nature, which therefore the average individual consumer of medical care can not budget, should be placed on a group payment basis, wherever—again I say—wherever groups desire to try it, through the use of insurance or the use of taxation, or through the use of both these methods. And, mark you, this is not meant to preclude the continuation of medical service provided on an individual fee basis for those who prefer that method and can pay for it.

This mild proposal, however, is scorned by officers of the American Medical Association. They tell us that the report of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care is now languishing—to quote them exactly—"languishing into innocuous desuetude." They appear to me a "recalcitrant minority" of the profession, similar to the obstructive minorities which Mr. Roosevelt has deplored in certain industries. I have personal acquaintance with hundreds of physicians, and in my immediate family connections there have been 19. Virtually all the physicians whom I happen to know do not stand by the official position of the American Medical Association. I can not bring myself to believe that the association, in its present stand, truly represents the profession. I believe that the conflict is not between patients and doctors: the conflict is between reactionary doctors and progressive doctors. It is merely one phase of the war now being waged in every profession between those who imagine that we can still live in an economic age that is gone, and those who realize that we are living in a new economic age.

Fortunately, the progressive doctors are winning. The movement in the direction which I have indicated has already gone so far that it is only academic to debate about it. Since the publication of the report of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care, the State Medical Society of California has approved the plan, and group practice has spread all the way from Los Angeles to Seattle. In Portland, a very conservative city, 170 doctors are now operating under the plan which we advocate; in Seattle, over 200 doctors. This year, the Medical Society of New Jersey has also approved it, and group hospitalization plans have been approved by the Medical Society of the State of New York, by the Cleveland Academy of Medicine, and in at least 25 cities. This has all happened since the report of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care languished "into innocuous desuetude."

As your chairman has said, I have been working in Washington for several months as a member of the Consumers Advisory Board; and so I know more about consumer attitudes than I did. Consumers at last are becoming articulate. They are going to demand, and they are going to get, the kind of treatment which they should have; because all industry, and banking, and transportation, and legal services, as well as medical services, exist only for the sake of the consumer. If we could only start with that proposition and keep it constantly before us, whenever we consider what bankers should do, or what lawyers should do, we would be in a fair way to solve the problem. The trouble is we begin at the wrong end, instead of beginning with the consumer.

It is only yesterday, in the countless centuries of human history, that we took over the education of youth as a public responsibility. Before that, formal education was limited to those who could afford to pay for it. The private practice of education failed; and it failed through no fault of the private practitioners. Now, we all realize that the State, for its own protection, must require every one to go to school, whether or not he can pay the bills, and whether or not he wants to go. This is one of the fields in which individualism, however rugged, is not a sufficient protection of society.

This is equally true of medical care. For centuries we have relied mainly on individual initiative. For the most part, each individual has been left free to care for his health if he wanted to, or to neglect his health if he preferred to do that, or couldn't pay the bills. One result is the shocking condition of the rank and file of our citizens, as revealed by the physical examinations of the drafted men in our army and navy. Rugged individualism has failed. The private practice of medicine on an individual fee basis has failed to provide a large majority of our people with adequate care. This, I repeat, is through no fault of the private practitioners of medicine.

Yet health is not one of those personal matters with which we need not be collectively concerned. The health of the public is just as necessary for the safety of the State as is the education of the public. The analogy is sound in every essential. Perhaps that is the very reason why certain members of the medical profession vehemently object to any use of this analogy.

To assert that we can not collectively try out plans for buying and paying for medical service without plunging the country into socialism and "inciting it to revolution" is nonsense. It ignores what we have already done collectively without socialism; we have achieved, as Dr. Sydenstricker pointed out this morning, a far better socialization of our water supply than Russia has, without achieving communism. Moreover, we have long had group payment and group practice of medicine for millions of indigent and tubercular and mentally diseased patients and others; and yet, after generations of such "dangerous" experiments in socialism, we gave last year only a handful of votes to even so eminently fit a Socialist candidate as Norman Thomas. Society must look forward to providing for health, eventually, on the same basis as education, or else we must leave the medical profession in its present plight, which even the chairman of the minority group of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Service says is very unfortunate.

In conclusion, I insist again that Dr. Fishbein confuses the issue when he says that the right to say how medicine shall be practiced must remain with the medical profession. Nobody proposes that lay boards shall tell surgeons how to operate for cancer, or what to prescribe for pneumonia. Nobody suggests any interference with the science of medicine. On the contrary, the aim is to free the science of medicine from the present chaos of the economics of medicine. What the public does demand is the right to say, not how medicine shall be practiced, but how it shall be purchased and paid for; and who has a better right than those who do the paying? In any event, it is folly to burden physicians any longer with business affairs which they have notoriously mismanaged, for which they are not trained, in which they are not interested, and which interfere with that single-hearted devotion to patients which is the glory of their profession.

Second Reading of Senate Bills.

Senate Bill No. 454—An act to provide for the establishment and administration of a system of health insurance for persons in certain income groups.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Public Health and Quarantine, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 454 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, lines 2 and 3 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "health insurance for persons in certain income groups.", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "State health service insurance, including the establishing of a Health Service Insurance Commission and prescribing the powers, duties and functions thereof, the establishing of a health service insurance fund and providing for certain payments thereto, the prescribing of methods and conditions under which professional or other services may be rendered, the regulation of certain persons, firms, associations, and corporations, the making of an appropriation, the enforcement of the provisions hereof, penalties for the violation of the provisions hereof, and repealing acts in conflict herewith."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, insert after "Section 1.", the following: "This act is adopted by the people of the State of California to promote the comfort, health, safety and general welfare of the people of the State of California.

SEC. 2. This act shall be known and may be cited and referred to as "The Health Service Insurance Act."

SEC. 3. Words used in this act in the present tense include the future as well as the present; words used in the masculine gender include the feminine; the singular number includes the plural, and the plural the singular; "writing" includes "printing" and "typewriting"; the word "county" includes "city and county."

SEC. 4. Unless the context otherwise clearly indicates, as used in this act, the words and phrases defined in the sections immediately following shall have the meanings ascribed to them.

SEC. 5. "Benefit" means any medical, dental, hospital, or other service which is made available by this act for the diagnosis, treatment, or care of any person coming under the provisions of this act and includes:

(a) "Professional benefits", which consist only of the services of a physician or dentist, and which include all such services which either is entitled to render under the laws of the State of California.

(b) "Auxiliary benefits", which consist of maintenance and care in hospital, nursing care, drugs, medicines, physiotherapy, occupational therapy, transportation, material appliances and their upkeep.

The determination of the commission that a service is a professional benefit or an auxiliary benefit is final and conclusive.

SEC. 6. "Beneficiary" means any person entitled to receive a benefit under this act.

SEC. 7. "Commission" means the Health Service Insurance Commission.

SEC. 8. "Physician" means the holder of a valid and unrevoked "Physician and surgeon certificate" entitling him to practice medicine and surgery in the State of California.

SEC. 9. "Dentist" means the holder of a valid and unrevoked license entitling him to practice dentistry in the State of California.

SEC. 10. "Employer" means any employer of one or more employees, as the term "employee" is defined in this act, doing business in the State of California, and includes the State, every State agency, and each county, city and county, city, district having power to assess or levy taxes or assessments, or both, and all public or municipal corporations and quasi-public corporations and public agencies therein, and every person, firm, voluntary association, and private corporation, including any public service corporation, any trustee in bankruptcy, receiver, or trustee, and the legal representative of any deceased employer, but does not include the United States of America or any foreign State.

Sec. 11. "Employee" means every person, including those not so designated, receiving a wage at a rate which will yield a total amount not greater than three thousand dollars per year and whose net income from all sources together with that of his spouse is not in excess of three thousand dollars per year in the course of an employer, as defined in this act, under any appointment or contract of hire or apprenticeship, express or implied, oral or written, whether he holds an apprenticeship, employed, and all directed and approved paid persons, officers, and all officers of quasi-public or private corporations while rendering actual services for such corporations for pay, but excluding any person engaged in farming, fishing, logging, cutting for sale, or delivering directly to the public, any newspaper, magazine or periodical, where the title to such newspaper, magazine or periodical has passed to the person so engaged, and also excluding any person holding an appointment as a deputy clerk, deputy sheriff or deputy constable, or other deputy appointed by the commission of such appointee, who receives no compensation from the master, township or municipal corporation or from the citizens thereof for services as such deputy, and also excluding any person while both he and his dependents are absent from this State.

Any person who for hire renders services to another, other than as an independent contractor, or one who is expressly excluded hereby, is deemed to be an employee within the meaning of this act. The term "independent contractor" shall be taken to mean, for the purposes of this act, any person who renders service, other than manual labor, for a specified recompense for a specified result, under the control of his principal as to the result of his work only and not as to the means by which such result is accomplished.

An employee is a "casual" employee if, (a) in the usual and normal course of his employer's trade, business, profession, or occupation, the particular task to which said employee is assigned is begun and completed within one business calendar day; or (b) his employment is not in the course of the trade, business, profession, occupation, or domestic establishment of his employer. The term "course of trade, business, profession or occupation of his employer" shall be taken to include all activities tending toward the preservation, maintenance or enjoyment of the employer's business premises or business property of the employer. The term "trade, business, profession or occupation of his employer" shall be taken to include any undertaking actually engaged in by the employer with some degree of regularity, the trade, business, articles of incorporation or principal business of the employer to the contrary notwithstanding.

It shall not be a defense to the commission, the failure of a death-benefit or compensation, or to any health service association, that a person who rendered to whom any benefit is claimed was not lawfully employed, or that the payment of service or minor child of one not lawfully employed by reason of the violation of some law, service or other law, rule, or regulation respecting the hiring of workmen.

Workmen associating themselves under a partnership agreement, the principal purpose of which is the performance of the labor on a particular piece of work, shall be deemed employees of the person having such work executed.

Sec. 12. "Health service insurance" is the provision, by any means, be it by gift, loan, by or for any person or group of persons, of the right to receive, upon payment, the benefits of professional service practice and auxiliary insurance service as hereinafter defined, when the costs of such benefits and of their administration are defrayed from funds derived by any or more of the following means or from any one or more of the following sources:

(a) The issuance of memberships, certificates, contracts or other evidences of rights or privileges to participate in or use the benefits, services, insurance or privileges of the group or association or of any subsidiary, associated or affiliated firm, group, or association.

(b) Donations, contributions, or payments of money or other valuable consideration, mandatory or voluntary, from any source for the purpose of obtaining the benefits of professional service practice and auxiliary insurance service.

(c) Appropriations from any fund or funds of this State or of any political subdivision of this State or from any fund or funds of any instrumentality of this State.

(d) Any other form of common or pooled moneys, property, credit or other resources to be used to obtain or furnish any of the benefits, as defined by this act, for or to individual persons or groups of persons.

Sec. 13. "Fund" means the health service insurance fund.

Sec. 14. "Professional service practice" means the furnishing of any professional benefit under this act.

Sec. 15. "Auxiliary insurance service" means the furnishing by any person, firm, association or corporation of auxiliary benefits under this act.

Sec. 16. "Professional service practitioner" means any physician or dentist availing himself of the privilege to engage in professional service practice.

Sec. 17. "Auxiliary service association" means:

(a) Any person, firm, association or corporation furnishing for compensation any or all of the auxiliary benefits upon the basis of a health service insurance contract and not upon the basis of a service contract.

(b) For the purposes of this act, a county hospital or a municipal hospital or other public facility provided for rendering or actually rendering or provided for conferring or actually conferring for compensation any or all of the auxiliary benefits.

SEC. 18. "Health service insurance association" means any group of two or more persons, other than a person and his dependents, who associate themselves together to secure for themselves and their dependents, or others, by any lawful means or in any lawful form, the benefits of professional service practice or auxiliary insurance service, or both.

SEC. 19. "Certificate of compliance" means a certificate issued by the commission to a single employer or a group of employers who are affiliated by stock ownership or common financial interests, certifying:

(a) That the employees of such employer or group of employers have been and are receiving the benefits of medical, surgical, dental, hospital and other service, defined herein as professional service practice and auxiliary insurance service.

(b) That such service is being received from the hospital departments of railroad, industrial, or other private corporations which have heretofore furnished and at the time the enactment of this act are furnishing to the employees of the said employer or group of employers the same or equivalent services or treatment as would be required by this act.

(c) That such service is being rendered for no less than the same compensation, dues or payments by whomsoever paid, as would be required with respect to like groups of such employees if the contributions were paid into the health service insurance fund.

SEC. 20. "Member" means any person entitled to participate in or receive the use of benefits, services, facilities, or activities of a licensed health service insurance association.

SEC. 21. "Patient" means any person who needs or receives the professional services of a physician or dentist.

SEC. 22. "Wage" means every form of compensation paid by an employer to an employee as consideration for labor or services, and includes salaries, commissions, bonuses, and the reasonable money value of gifts, board, rent, housing, lodging, or other forms of consideration furnished by an employer.

SEC. 23. "Resident" means every natural person who has been physically within this State at least forty-eight weeks of the year next preceding the time when he is entitled to receive any benefit; but temporary absence from this State shall not affect a person's status as such resident if such person has been living in this State at least five years.

SEC. 24. "Dependent" means a dependent spouse or a dependent minor child.

SEC. 30. This act shall be administered by the Health Service Insurance Commission, which is hereby created.

SEC. 31. The commission shall be composed of five members, all of whom shall have been residents of California for at least a total of ten years, two of whom shall be physicians who have held the degree of doctor of medicine for not less than ten years.

SEC. 32. All commissioners shall be appointed by the Governor, with the consent of the Senate. The first commissioners shall be appointed within thirty days after the effective date of this act.

SEC. 33. The terms of the first commissioners shall expire: Two on February 28, 1937, and three on February 28, 1939. Upon the expiration of these terms, the term for each commissioner shall be four years. In the event of a vacancy in any term the Governor shall appoint a commissioner for the unexpired portion thereof.

SEC. 34. If there is a quorum, no vacancy shall impair the commission's powers. Three commissioners shall constitute a quorum.

SEC. 36. No commissioner shall hold any position of trust or profit or engage in any business, occupation, or profession the duties or functions of which are inconsistent with or interfere with his duties as such commissioner.

SEC. 37. Each commissioner shall execute an official bond in the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000).

SEC. 38. Each commissioner shall receive an annual salary of eight thousand dollars and his actual and necessary traveling expenses.

SEC. 39. Commissioners shall be liable to impeachment for any misdemeanor in office and shall be tried therefor in the manner prescribed in and subject to the provisions of Article IV, sections 17 and 18, of the Constitution.

SEC. 40. The Attorney General of the State of California shall be the attorney for the commission and he may assign from his staff such assistants or deputies as may be necessary.

SEC. 41. The commission shall appoint a chief medical officer and fix his compensation. He shall be a physician, shall hold the degree of doctor of medicine and shall have been engaged in the practice of medicine or in medical administration for at least ten years during the period of twelve years immediately preceding his appointment, not less than three years of which shall have been in the State of California. Upon making public the reason therefor the commission may remove the chief medical officer from such office. During the time he holds office the chief medical officer shall:

(a) Hold no other position of trust or profit, but shall devote his entire time to the performance of his official duties; and

(b) Be the chief administrative officer under this act with respect to all benefits conferred by this act and have all the duties, powers, and authority which may be delegated to him by the commission to carry out the purposes of this act.

SEC. 42. Subject to civil service laws, the commission may from time to time appoint a general finance officer and such assistants and other employees as may be necessary for the general financial administration of this act and may fix the method and amount of their compensation and assign their duties and require from them security for the faithful performance thereof.

SEC. 43. Subject to civil service laws, the commission may from time to time appoint or employ such assistants and other employees as may be required for the administration of this act and may assign their duties and fix the method and amount of their compensation and require of them security for the faithful performance of their duties.

SEC. 44. The commission may engage the services of and accept the reports and advice of experts concerning technical, scientific, sociological, industrial, and other matters pertaining to the administration of this act.

SEC. 45. The commission shall designate a member to act as chairman. The chairman may from time to time divide the commission into subcommittees of one or more members, for the purpose of conducting any investigation, inquiry, hearing or review which may come under the jurisdiction of the commission, assign the members of the commission thereto, and, in case of a subcommittee of more than one member, designate the chief thereof. A subcommittee shall hear and make a determination upon any proceeding instituted by or before the commission assigned to such subcommittee by the chairman, and shall make its report to the commission. Subcommittees consisting of professional members only, to be known as professional subcommittees, shall be assigned to conduct, hear and determine all investigations, inquiries, hearings or reviews relating to professional matters including matters relating to standards, service and compensation. The report of a subcommittee shall become the final determination of the commission within thirty days after said report is filed with the commission by the subcommittee unless, within such period, the chairman or any member of the commission has directed that such report shall be reviewed by the commission as a whole, provided that no subcommittee shall be assigned, without the unanimous assent of its members, to conduct any such investigation, inquiry, hearing or review, and provided that if such assent is not given, the commission shall sit en banc.

SEC. 50. There is hereby created a Health Insurance Advisory Council, hereinafter referred to as the "council," consisting of ten members, who shall be appointed by, and serve at the pleasure of, the commission.

SEC. 51. The membership of the council shall include at least two representatives from the California Medical Association, and representatives of the most important professions, and of hospitals, employers, employees, and agriculture. Every such representative shall be actively engaged in the business, profession, or pursuit of which he is a representative.

SEC. 52. The council shall consider and shall advise the commission on such matters connected with the financial and medical administration of this act as may be submitted to it by the commission. Upon its own motion it may also submit to the commission such changes in the financial and medical administration of this act as it deems necessary. When directed by the commission to make an investigation in connection with the administration of this act, the council shall have the powers of the head of a department as such powers are specified in section 353 of the Political Code.

SEC. 53. The members of the council shall be paid their actual and necessary traveling and other necessary expenses incurred in connection with any activity under the provisions of this act.

SEC. 54. Five councillors shall constitute a quorum.

SEC. 60. The commission shall procure and have offices in the city of Sacramento and in such other places as it may require in its discretion.

SEC. 61. The commission shall have full power and authority uniformly to administer and enforce the provisions of this act, to make, amend, modify, repeal, and enforce rules and regulations consistent with the provisions of this act for its administration and enforcement, to perform all acts and exercise all powers, whether herein specifically designated, or in addition thereto, which are necessary or convenient to accomplish the purposes of this act, and to delegate to others such powers as may be necessary in administering this act.

SEC. 62. The commission shall promptly promulgate all rules and regulations adopted by it pursuant to this act and all amendments thereto and modifications or repeals thereof. For the purposes of this section a rule or a regulation shall be deemed to be in full force and effect from the time of its promulgation to the time of

(1) Promulgation of an amendment thereto, or

(2) Promulgation of a modification or repeal thereto, or

(3) A judicial declaration by a court of competent jurisdiction to the effect that said rule or regulation was in excess of the authority of the commission, whichever is earlier.

An amendment or modification of a rule or regulation is a rule or regulation for the purposes of this section. No act not otherwise unlawful done by any person in good faith under the apparent authority of any rule or regulation adopted by the commission, while such rule or regulation is in effect, shall give rise to any liability, either civil or criminal, on the part of any person so acting.

SEC. 63. The commission shall have power to regulate and control professional service practice and auxiliary insurance service, to investigate, regulate and control the operations and affairs of all professional service practitioners, auxiliary service associations and health service insurance associations and to prescribe and enforce rates or fees to be charged or paid for all services to be furnished under this act. In prescribing such fees, rates, or charges, the commission shall have regard for the necessity of furnishing proper and adequate benefits to beneficiaries and for providing adequate, but not excessive, compensation therefore to professional service practitioners and auxiliary service associations. The commission may, to accomplish the purposes hereof, prescribe, maintain and enforce reasonable rules and regulations.

SEC. 64. The commission shall have the further power to investigate, regulate and control the operations and affairs of all persons, firms and corporations, including public corporations, offering to furnish or furnishing any service of a kind defined in this act as a benefit, or any other medical, dental, or hospital service, under any form of organization, including, but not restricted to, the forms of organization defined herein as an auxiliary service association or health service insurance association, without regard to the amount of compensation paid to any employee or to the amount of the net income of any person entitled to receive any such benefit thereunder.

SEC. 65. The commission may cooperate with public health officers and agents, both public and private, in the improvement of public health and sanitation and in the promotion of public education on all matters pertaining to health.

SEC. 66. The commission may accept and take and hold in public trust, either by purchase or by donation or gift, testamentary or otherwise, or in any other manner, without restrictions, all real and personal property for the benefit of this health service insurance system. The commission shall be vested with the legal title, as trustee for the public, and with the management and disposition of all of the property acquired by it pursuant to this section.

SEC. 67. The commission shall have power to institute and prosecute actions and proceedings involving any provision of this act or the administration thereof; and the commission may defend any action or proceeding brought against it for any cause whatever.

SEC. 68. The commission shall have the powers of the head of a department as such powers are specified in section 353 of the Political Code.

SEC. 69. In the administration of this act, the commission may hold and conduct hearings on any disputed matter arising under the provisions of this act.

SEC. 71. Claims shall be filed at such place, in such form, within such time and in such manner as the commission shall prescribe. The commission shall have power to determine all controverted claims and all other controversies arising under this act, and shall adopt such reasonable rules and regulations as may be necessary to establish a uniform system therefor throughout the State, and may designate referees to hear and determine, in the first instance, any such controverted claim or other controversy.

SEC. 72. Any person adversely affected by a decision of a referee may, within fourteen days after written notice of such decision, request a rehearing by the referee who made the decision. Thereupon such referee shall conduct such rehearing upon the matter after giving reasonable written notice thereof to all persons affected thereby who appeared at such prior hearing. Such referee shall render a decision on his rehearing within such uniform time as the commission may prescribe and shall give notice thereof to all persons interested who have appeared therein.

All notices required to be given by this act or by any rule or regulation of the commission shall be in writing and may be served personally, or deposited in the United States registered mail addressed to the party to be notified at his last known address.

SEC. 73. Any person adversely affected by a decision upon a rehearing, may within fourteen days after written notice of such decision, request the commission to review such decision by filing notice to that effect with the referee who conducted such rehearing, and by filing a copy of such notice in an office of the commission. Thereupon the commission or any subcommission thereof shall conduct a hearing upon the matter after giving reasonable written notice thereof to all persons affected by the decision to be reviewed who have appeared at either or both of such hearing and rehearing. The commission or any subcommission thereof shall render a decision within thirty days after its hearing is completed, and shall give written notice of its decision to all persons affected thereby who appeared thereat and to all persons who appeared at either or both of such prior hearing and rehearing.

SEC. 74. Any party aggrieved by such action of the commission may make a written demand for a certified transcript of all the papers on file in the commission's office affecting or relating to such action and all the evidence taken on the hearing. Such party shall pay such reasonable fee as the commission may prescribe for every folio of the transcript and one dollar for certification thereof. Thereupon the commission shall, within thirty days, make and certify such transcript.

SEC. 75. Any party affected by a decision of the commission may apply to any court of competent jurisdiction for a writ of review for the purpose of testing the lawfulness of the original order, rule, regulation or decision on substance implied into and determined. Such review shall not be extended further than to determine whether or not:

1. The commission acted without or in excess of its powers;
2. The order or decision was procured by fraud;
3. The order, decision, rule or regulation was unreasonable;

4. If findings of fact were made, such findings of fact support the order or decision under review.

The findings of the commission on questions of fact shall be conclusive and final and shall not be subject to review. The commission and each party to the proceeding before the commission shall have the right to appear in the review proceeding.

The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure of this State relating to writs of review shall, so far as applicable and not in conflict with this act, apply to proceedings in the courts under the provisions of this section.

Such writ of review shall be issued if, but only if, applied for within the sixty days next succeeding any one of the following occurrences:

(a) Notice of a denial by the commission of an application for an original hearing;

(b) Notice of a denial by the commission of an application for a review by the commission of a decision made by a referee upon a rehearing;

(c) Notice of a decision by the commission on any matter heard by the commission either originally or upon a review after a hearing or rehearing by a referee.

Deposit in the United States registered mail addressed to the last address of the applicant made known by him to the commission, shall constitute notification of notice within the intent of this section.

SEC. 76. The following decisions are final and not subject to review:

(a) The determination of a referee unless proceedings for rehearing or review thereof are taken as herein provided.

(b) The action of the commission in denying or granting a privilege or a license or making a decision on a claim, complaint or controversy unless proceedings for review thereof is made to a court of competent jurisdiction within the time specified in this act.

SEC. 77. The commission and its delegated representatives shall, in administering any provision of this act or conducting any hearing or investigation hereunder, have power to administer oaths and examine under oath any person or persons, certify to all official acts, take depositions and issue subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, accounts, documents, records or other papers.

SEC. 78. In any hearing in any part of the State, the process of the commission shall extend to all parts of the State and may be served by any person capable of serving civil process, such person to receive such compensation as may be allowed by the commission but not to exceed the fees allowed by law for similar service.

SEC. 79. Each witness who shall appear in response to a subpoena shall receive for his attendance the fees and mileage allowed by law to a witness in a civil action.

SEC. 80. In case of the refusal of any witness to attend or testify or produce any papers as required by such subpoena, the commission may petition the superior court, in and for the county in which the particular matter is pending, for its order requiring the obedience of the witness to the subpoena. The court shall order the witness to appear at the time and place designated in such order, which time shall be not more than ten days from the date of the order, and cause to show cause why he has not obeyed the subpoena, a copy of which order shall be served upon such witness. If it shall appear to the court that such subpoena was regularly issued under this act, the court shall order such witness to obey such subpoena at a time and place to be designated in such order.

SEC. 81. Depositions of witnesses within or without the State may be taken in the manner prescribed by law for like depositions in civil actions in the superior court.

SEC. 82. Any party to a hearing under this act shall have the right to reasonable notice thereof and of a written copy of all charges or other matters of concern to such party which will be presented at such hearing.

SEC. 83. Any party to a hearing under the provisions of this act shall have the right to the attendance of witnesses in his behalf at such hearing or upon deposition upon making request that designated persons be subpoenaed. But the commission may require that any party who requests the issuance of a subpoena for any attending witness shall pay the mileage and witness fees of such witness if it shall be made satisfactorily evident, and the commission finds, that the said party had no reasonable ground for believing that the said witness could give competent, material or relevant evidence substantially tending to establish such party's claim or answer.

SEC. 84. No exceptions need be entered to any ruling made in any hearing under this act.

SEC. 85. Evidence shall be governed by the rules of the commission and shall not be subject to common law or statutory rules of evidence and procedure; but such competent, relevant and material evidence is admissible as will serve to obtain and preserve the substantial rights of the parties.

SEC. 86. The commission shall have power to require a bond in a reasonable amount of any claimant making application for a rehearing before a referee or review before the commission, and may assess costs, including attorney's fees against a claimant whose claim is disallowed upon such rehearing or review, but these powers shall be exercised only in those instances in which the claim is made on trivial grounds, or in which there is satisfactory evidence and the commission finds an intent on the part of the claimant to harass the commission in the discharge of its duties or maliciously to harass an opposing party in interest.

SEC. 87. Attorneys appearing for or on behalf of any beneficiary under the provisions of this act shall receive only such compensation therefor from said party as may be fixed, both as to amount and manner of payment, by the rules of the commission. The charging or receipt of any other amount of compensation by such attorney is unlawful.

SEC. 88. It shall be a misdemeanor to solicit, by agent or otherwise, for the purpose of appearing for or on behalf of any party in any matter instituted by or before the commission or its referees.

SEC. 100. The commission shall prescribe, maintain and enforce reasonable rules and regulations for professional service practice and the obtaining thereof by individuals and health service insurance associations, including, but not restricted to, the ratio of the number of physicians or dentists to the number of members.

SEC. 101. No professional service practitioner shall render any professional services under this act other than personally; and nothing in this act shall be construed to authorize payment of compensation to any physician or dentist for professional services rendered under this act not rendered by him personally; provided, however, that the commission may in its discretion recognize not more than two bona fide professional assistants of any physician or dentist rendering such services under this act, when it is established to the satisfaction of the commission that these assistants are not supplanting the personal services of such physician or dentist.

SEC. 102. The rendering of services under this act is a privilege and any physician or dentist and any regularly established hospital, or laboratory, or any other person or agency able and desiring to render services necessary for the proper furnishing of benefits, shall be entitled to render services in accordance with the provisions of this act; provided, however, that the commission, after notice and a full opportunity to be heard pursuant to the provisions of this act may, upon determining that good and sufficient cause exists, revoke such privilege. The following shall be deemed to be good and sufficient cause for revocation of the privilege of rendering services under this act: fraud, deceit, intent to defraud, gross neglect, habitual intemperance, habitual use of narcotic drugs, rebate of fees or charges that will result in the actual rendering of services at rates below those for fees or charges that may be established by the commission, solicitation of patients, or any violation of the Medical Practice Act or Dental Practice Act of this State; provided, that none of the aforementioned causes shall justify the revocation of such privilege unless done or committed while the physician, dentist, hospital, laboratory or other person or agency was rendering services under the provisions of this act.

SEC. 103. In addition to its own action against a physician or dentist for any of the causes specified as sufficient for the revocation of the privilege of rendering services under this act, the commission shall file a complaint with the State Board of Medical Examiners or the State Board of Dental Examiners, as the case may be, against any physician or dentist found by the commission to be guilty of any of the acts specified in the State Medical Practice Act or State Dental Practice Act as cause for revocation of license.

SEC. 110. Any professional service practitioner proposing to furnish or furnishing any service of a kind defined in this act as a professional benefit to the members of any health service insurance association shall first obtain a license from the commission so to do.

SEC. 111. Any person, firm, or corporation proposing to furnish, or furnishing, any service of a kind defined in this act as an auxiliary benefit to members of any health service insurance association shall first obtain a license from the commission to operate as an auxiliary service association.

SEC. 112. Any group of persons proposing to operate, or operating, in a manner or for a purpose defined in this act as a health service insurance association shall first obtain a license from the commission so to do.

SEC. 113. Any person, firm, association, or corporation which, on the effective date of this act, is furnishing to or obtaining for any person or group of persons any service of a kind defined in this act as a professional or auxiliary benefit is a health service insurance association when the costs of such service or services and the administration thereof are defrayed from funds derived by any one or more of the following means or from any one or more of the following sources:

(a) The issuance of memberships, certificates, contracts, or other evidences of rights or privileges to participate in or use the benefits, services, facilities or activities of the group or association or of any subsidiary, associated, or affiliated firm, group, association, or corporation.

(b) Donations or contributions from any source for the purpose of obtaining the benefits of professional service practice or auxiliary insurance service.

(c) Appropriations from any fund, except the health service insurance fund of this State or any political subdivision or instrumentality of this State.

(d) Any other form of common or pooled monies, property, assets, or other resources to be used to obtain or furnish any benefit, as defined by this act, or to a person or group of persons.

SEC. 114. Any person, firm, association or corporation desiring to this act to obtain a license must make written application, therefore to the commission, which application shall be verified by or on behalf of the applicant in two sworn oaths, as pleadings are verified in civil actions, and then filed in the office of the commission.

SEC. 115. In such form and in addition to such other information as the commission may require, such application with respect to a professional service practitioner shall specify:

(a) The rate of compensation to be received in return for services;

(b) References to the character, reputation for personal integrity and standing of the applicant;

(c) Information with respect to the means by which applicant intends or proposes the fulfillment of any contract that applicant may undertake to become the provider of professional service practice.

SEC. 116. In such form and in addition to such other information as the commission may require, such application with respect to auxiliary service associations shall specify:

(a) A description of the types and kinds of service to be furnished to those persons entitled to participate in the benefits of auxiliary service practice.

(b) A description of the physical facilities to be used in rendering or furnishing such service;

(c) The names and office and residence addresses of the persons who will conduct the business of the association and a succinct statement of their experience and training;

(d) A statement of the fees, dues, rates or other charges imposed upon members of such association.

SEC. 117. In such form and in addition to such other information as the commission may require, such application with respect to health service insurance associations shall specify:

(a) A description of the types of service to be rendered by those persons entitled to participate in the benefits or activities of such association.

(b) A description of the physical facilities to be used in rendering such service.

(c) The names and office and residence addresses of the persons who will conduct the business of the association and a succinct statement of their experience and training; and the names and office and residence addresses of the persons who will furnish the benefits of professional service practice to the members of such association and the method of compensation by which they propose to be paid therefor; and the means and agencies by which the applicant intends to furnish to its members the benefits of auxiliary insurance service.

(d) The names and office and residence addresses of the persons who will conduct the business of the association, and a succinct statement of their experience and training.

(e) A statement of the fees, dues, rates, or other charges imposed upon members of such association and of the fees, rates or other considerations to be paid for services rendered to the members.

SEC. 118. Upon the filing of an application for any of the licenses hereinafter required, the commission shall examine it and any other papers and documents filed therewith. The commission may also require, at the actual expense reasonably incurred and borne by the applicant, a detailed examination, audit, and investigation of the applicant and its affairs.

SEC. 119. Before issuing a license to an applicant for any of the licenses hereinafter above required, the commission must find that at least the following conditions exist:

(a) That the proposed plan of applicant's operations and activities is fair, just, and equitable.

(b) That applicant is not engaged in, and does not propose to engage in, subordination, directly or through agents, of members, subscribers or beneficiaries.

(c) If the application is for either a license to operate an auxiliary service association or a health service insurance association, that the memberships, certificates, contracts, or other evidences of rights or privileges for participation in, or use of the benefits, services, facilities, or activities of the association, which the applicant proposes to issue, and the method whereby the same are proposed to be issued, conform to the rules and regulations of the commission in regard thereto promulgated pursuant to the provisions of this act, and are not such as will work a fraud or injustice upon any member, intended beneficiary, or other person.

(d) If the application is for a license to operate a health service insurance association, that applicant is able to provide adequate benefits of professional service practice or auxiliary insurance service, or both, as the case may be, and properly to care for its members according to the standards of service prescribed by the commission.

(e) If the application is for a license to operate a health service insurance association, that applicant has made, and/or proposes to make, all investments of funds derived from members in compliance with the provisions of section 574 of the Civil Code, as therein prescribed for investments by savings and loan corporations.

SEC. 120. When the commission has determined that an applicant for any of the licenses hereinabove required is otherwise entitled to a license, it shall require the applicant to file with it a bond conditioned both: (1) upon the compliance by applicant with the provisions of this act and with the rules and regulations of the commission; and (2) upon the protection of those with whom applicant may have any dealing against fraud or damage by reason of the applicant's activities. The penal sum of such bond shall be such sum as the commission may find to be reasonable but not to exceed twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000), and shall be executed by a corporation authorized to become a surety upon bonds or undertakings required or authorized by the laws of this State.

In any action against the applicant covered by the conditions of said bond, the surety thereon may be joined with the applicant, in which case the surety, to the amount of the bond, will be jointly and severally liable with applicant for the payment of any judgment rendered against applicant in such action.

SEC. 121. Before granting any license to any applicant, the commission shall require the applicant to pay to the commission a minimum original fee of:

- (a) Five dollars, for a professional service practitioner's license.
- (b) Twenty dollars, for an auxiliary service association's license.
- (c) Fifty dollars, for a health service insurance association's license.

In addition to such minimum original fees, the commission may charge and collect such fees as may be necessary to defray the necessary expenses incident to supervision, control, and regulation of each of said classes of such licenses respectively.

SEC. 122. When the commission has approved the bond which has been filed by the applicant and when the applicant has paid the prescribed fee therefor, the commission shall issue to the applicant a license. Such license shall remain in force and effect unless suspended or revoked until the thirtieth day of June next following; and thereafter the licensee must renew its license annually subject to the same conditions as applied to its original license, each renewal to expire on the succeeding thirtieth day of June. The commission before renewing a license shall require the licensee to pay the commission a renewal fee. The amount of such renewal fee shall be fixed in the same manner and subject to the same requirements as are herein prescribed for original fees.

SEC. 123. After notice and hearing, the commission may suspend or revoke the license of any licensee for failing to conform to any of the standards prescribed by this act or to any of the rules or regulations of the commission promulgated pursuant to the provisions of this act. Any such hearing shall be subject to all the provisions of this act relating to hearings before the commission and review thereof.

SEC. 124. Every representation by a health service insurance association, with respect to the diagnosis, treatment, or other medical or dental services available to its members, must include a statement containing the name and address of each physician or dentist by whom such diagnosis, treatment or service will be given.

SEC. 130. Benefits shall be available to the extent and under the conditions of this act at a time set by the commission, and not later than December 1, 1936, to an employee and his dependent spouse and minor children. An employee or his dependent spouse or minor child shall not be entitled to benefits under this act unless he or she shall be or become a resident of and physically within this State or unless he or she shall be physically within this State and shall have satisfactorily passed such physical examination as the commission may prescribe, within ten days immediately preceding becoming so entitled. But no constrained inmate of a penal institution or of an institution for the insane and no person committed to an institution for the feeble-minded shall become entitled to receive any benefits provided in this act.

SEC. 131. No benefits shall be paid for by the commission unless:

(a) There shall be paid by or on behalf of the beneficiary to the commission for any one sickness or injury, fifty per cent of the cost of the first professional visit and twenty-five per cent of the maintenance cost of the first day's hospitalization, collection thereof to be made at such time and in such manner as may be prescribed by the commission.

(b) If an employee, he has had not less than ten days of employment within the three months preceding the day on which benefits are claimed.

(c) He be the dependent of an employee, and such employee has had not less than ten days of employment within the three months preceding the day on which benefits are claimed.

SEC. 132. Primary benefits shall include:

Class One: The services of a physician who is a professional service practitioner and who shall be chosen by the patient, who shall give preventive, diagnostic, or therapeutic treatment and care to the patient at the physician's office, the patient's home, a hospital, or elsewhere as the case, in the opinion of the physician, may warrant.

Class Two: The services of laboratories when prescribed by the attending physician.

Class Three: The services of a dentist who is a professional service institution and who shall be chosen by the patient, for the extraction of teeth, and on the prescription of the attending physician, such other therapeutic dental services as may be authorized by the commission.

Class Four: Prenatal and maternity treatment and care at the physician's office, at home, in hospital, or elsewhere as the case, in the opinion of the physician, may warrant.

Class Five: Maintenance and care in hospital and nursing care as may be prescribed by the attending physician.

Class Six: Infants and children up to fourteen years of age shall receive not only sickness and injury benefits, but health supervision and preventive medical care on the commission's plan of prescription.

Class Seven: Essential drugs and medical care.

SEC. 133. The amounts of primary benefits to be furnished to a patient suffering from any one illness or injury shall be limited as follows:

Class One: Twenty-six weeks.

Class Two: On the prescription of the attending physician.

Class Three: On the prescription of the attending physician except for the extraction of teeth.

Class Four: When necessary, maintenance and care in hospital and nursing care limited as in class five hereunder.

Class Five: One hundred and eleven days, of which the last seventy-one days shall be without charge to the patient except for charges separately imposed by this act, and the remaining forty days at a charge to be fixed without limit by fifteen per cent (15%) of the daily maintenance cost of such patient. Payment of benefits that any beneficiary over sixty-five years of age shall receive shall be limited to not exceed ninety days in any consecutive one hundred four weeks, subject to the same provisions for the first twenty-one days and the last sixty-nine days as are above set forth; provided, that any beneficiary not at his expense receive other benefits beyond the limits above specified at the same time maintenance and paid by the commission.

Class Six: For sickness and injury, as above specified; for health supervision and preventive medical care, as the commission may determine.

Class Seven: On the prescription of the attending physician, under medical rules and regulations to be prescribed by the commission.

The foregoing periods and services may be shortened and reduced by the commission by reasonable uniform regulations, if the resources of the fund make such action necessary or advisable in its opinion.

SEC. 134. Whenever the commission finds that the revenues of the fund justify provision of benefits in addition to the primary benefits it may from time to time provide for the furnishing of all or a part of the following additional benefits:

(a) Drugs and medicines other than those included in primary benefits and medical and surgical appliances as may be prescribed by the attending physician.

(b) Nursing service outside of the hospital as may be prescribed by the attending physician.

(c) Institutional care for convalescents.

(d) The commission shall designate types of dental restorations or replacements or other dental services to be allowed and others not to be so allowed. The commission shall, however, permit the beneficiary and his dentist to designate the type of dental restorations or replacements and other dental service or services.

The commission may:

(1) Pay the whole cost of the dental service rendered, or

(2) Such fractional cost thereof as the commission may determine, or

(3) Allow a maximum dental expenditure exclusive of dental extractions for each beneficiary for any given period or periods.

The benefits provided by this section may be referred to as "additional benefits."

SEC. 135. When a person ceases to be an employee, he shall, from the date he ceased to be such employee, nevertheless be considered an employee for an extended period equal to one week for every five weeks during which contributions with respect to such employee have been made; provided, that such extended period shall not become greater than one year. In the event of his death during such extended period, his dependents shall be entitled to all benefits to which they would have been entitled had he remained alive for the entire extended period.

SEC. 136. When an employer establishes to the satisfaction of the commission that its employees have been, and, on the effective date of this act, and at the time of such employer's application for the certificate provided for in this section, are receiving the same or equivalent medical, surgical, dental, hospital and other services, provided for other employees by this act, from its existing hospital department and the personnel thereof, as then organized, conducted and operated, the commission shall issue to said employer a certificate of compliance, and the employees of such employer may continue to receive the said benefits from and as furnished and provided by the hospital department of their said employer in lieu of the benefits furnished under the provisions of this act.

Under such conditions said employer and employees shall be considered as complying with this act; and provided further, that the commission shall have the power, by resolution after a hearing, to determine from time to time whether any such organization, hospital department or corporation and the employees contributing thereto, or the members thereof, are in compliance with this act.

The commission shall, when it issues such certificates of compliance, approve the reasonable sum paid to the hospital departments of such employer for the furnishing of the benefits extended by it to its employees, and arrange for the payment of the remainder of the contributions in respect to the said employees to the commission for the furnishing of the benefits of health service insurance to their spouses and dependent minor children under the provisions of this act; provided further, that if such employer so elects, and meets the standards of the commission, it may be licensed to serve as a health service insurance association to care for the employees and/or their spouses and dependent minor children.

SEC. 137. No similar benefits shall be provided or allowed for any person entitled, for the same physical causes, to medical, dental, hospital, or other treatment or care under any workmen's compensation insurance act or employer's liability act of this State or of the United States of America.

In the event of any doubt as to whether or not any beneficiary would be entitled, for the same physical causes, to a similar benefit from any other source, the benefits provided by this act shall be promptly furnished and the commission shall be reimbursed therefor as provided in this act.

SEC. 138. If any benefit is furnished to any person who, by reason of the same sickness or injury, has a claim for compensation or damages (including costs of or liability for medical care) under any workmen's compensation or insurance act or any employer's liability act of this State, or of the United States of America, or otherwise, against his employer or against any other person, firm, or corporation for causing such sickness or injury and for the damages resulting therefrom, the commission shall, to the extent of the disbursement for furnishing such benefit, have a prior right to be reimbursed from any sum or damages which such person is entitled to receive by way of compensation or damages, by suit, settlement, voluntary payment or judgment, and the commission shall, to such extent, be subrogated to such claim. After having received notice that the commission is entitled to reimbursement and is subrogated as provided in this section, the payment of any sum of money or delivery of any thing of value to such person by way of such compensation or damages without first reimbursing the commission for such disbursement shall render the employer or other person, firm, or corporation making such payment or delivery liable to damages, at the suit of the commission, in such sum as may be necessary to reimburse the commission to the extent of such disbursement.

SEC. 139. If the person furnished such benefit and having such claim for compensation or damages (including costs of or liability for medical care) unreasonably refuses or neglects to commence action or to institute proceedings to enforce and collect such claim, the commission may either:

(a) Recover from the person furnished such benefit such sum as may be necessary to reimburse the commission to the extent of the disbursement for so furnishing the benefit to such person; or

(b) Take such action or institute such proceeding, in the name and on behalf of such person, to recover such claim for compensation or damages (including costs of or liability for medical care) from the one liable to such person therefor, in which case any sum recovered by settlement or judgment as the result of such action or proceeding, after deducting the costs, shall be used first to reimburse the commission to the extent of its disbursement, and any balance thereof remaining shall be paid to such person having such claim.

Nothing in this act shall affect or diminish any physician's, dentist's, nurse's, hospital's, or other agency's claim for the value of services rendered by them, whether or not paid for under this act, in any such action brought to recover such compensation or damages.

SEC. 140. If an employee himself pays for care or treatment when sick or injured because of a dispute over his right to be furnished such care or treatment under this act, he shall be reimbursed therefor by the commission from the fund when it is determined, at a hearing before the commission under its jurisdiction as elsewhere provided in this act, that he should have received such benefit under the provisions of this act.

SEC. 150. The commission shall be authorized to enter into contracts and agreements with persons, firms or corporations to furnish benefits upon the terms and conditions provided in this act. Said agreements shall provide for benefits for such periods of time and contain such other reasonable terms and provisions consistent with this act as the commission shall prescribe.

SEC. 151. The commission shall, by contractual engagements or other undertakings, make all the primary benefits enumerated in this act available to any resident of this State who is neither an employee nor the dependent of an employee within the meaning of this act, subject, however, to all of the following four enumerated conditions:

(a) The net annual income of the resident from all sources together with that of his spouse shall not be in excess of three thousand dollars; and

(b) The resident, or some person or agency as hereinafter described acting on his behalf, shall have paid in advance the premium or premiums prescribed by the commission; and

(c) Within ten days of the time at which he is to become a beneficiary the resident shall either:

(1) Have passed a physical examination prescribed by the commission; or

(2) Have been a beneficiary under the provisions of this act relating to widows and their dependents; or

(3) Have been born in the State of California to parents at least one of whom since the birth of said child has continued to be a beneficiary.

(d) The person is not a constituent inmate of any penal institution or of any institution for the insane and is not one committed to an institution for the feeble-minded.

SEC. 152. Subject to all of the conditions enumerated in this act, the following persons and entities may contract for health service insurance with the commission:

(a) A resident on his behalf, and on behalf of his dependents;

(b) The United States of America or any department, bureau or commission thereof or any foreign State upon behalf of any or all of its officials, employees and agents and their dependents who are residents of this State;

(c) Any political subdivision of this State and any instrumentality of this State on behalf of any of its residents; the rate of whose health or hospital expense is by law;

(d) Any competent person on behalf of any person who is made eligible for the benefits of this act subject to the provisions of this act not relating to conditions precedent to eligibility for the right to contract for insurance.

The commission shall also undertake under equitable conditions and for an equitable contribution from any lawful source or fund to meet the needs of this act available to any class of residents on whose behalf the State of California assumes the burden of providing the benefits enumerated in this act.

SEC. 153. The commission shall be authorized to enter into contractual engagements and other undertakings concerning health service insurance on behalf of the State of California, and any such contract or undertaking shall specify among other things:

(a) The length of time during which such engagements and undertakings shall subsist;

(b) The manner and time of paying premiums and other contributions under such engagements and undertakings;

(c) The amounts of premiums and other contributions to be paid under such engagements and undertakings;

(d) The manner and conditions of payment of such engagements and undertakings; and

(e) Such other conditions as may be reasonably necessary for the equitable administration of such engagements and undertakings.

SEC. 154. In order equitably to distribute the costs of benefits among those who contribute to the fund, whether as employees or otherwise, the commission may from time to time establish and alter systems of premium rates giving effect to differences of costs as between those who are required to be beneficiaries and those who become beneficiaries by contract or other undertakings with the commission pursuant to the provisions of this act. In fixing such premium rates established actuarial principles shall be followed, in determining differences in costs between those required to be beneficiaries and those who become beneficiaries by contract with the commission or by other undertakings, arising because of the following:

(a) Costs of making the physical examinations authorized by or provided in this act;

(b) Costs of administration;

(c) Average morbidity rates;

(d) Average number of dependents; and

(e) Such other differences as are necessary to uniform and equitable distribution of the costs of benefits.

In giving effect to the foregoing subsections of this section, all premiums shall be directly proportional to the average annual net income of the beneficiary and his spouse; provided that the minimum premium shall not be less than the premium determined with respect to an average net income of one thousand dollars a year. Premiums determined under this section shall not depend, in the instance of any particular family, upon the number of persons in a family composed of parents and dependent minor children.

When no general State tax on the annual net income of natural persons is in effect, the annual net income, for the purposes of this act, of a person and his spouse shall be determined with respect to the next preceding completed calendar year and shall be deemed to be the sum of the following enumerated items:

(a) Their total wage earnings, fees, and other emoluments for personal services received during the said calendar year, whether as employees or otherwise; plus

(b) An amount determined as follows:

(1) Their withdrawals in money or the equivalent from asset funds devoted, previously to the said withdrawals, to their principal trade, business, or other gainful occupation; minus

(2) Their investments during the year in money, or the equivalent in their principal trade, business or other gainful occupation, of any funds not devoted, previously to the said principal trade, business or other gainful occupation; and

(c) Plus an amount equal to seven per cent of all their real and personal property not primarily used or held for use either in their principal trade, business, or other gainful occupation or primarily used or held for use in their domestic establishment or for both such classes of use, valued at their reasonable market value as of December 31st of the said calendar year; provided that all choses in action shall be deemed to be property coming within the meaning of this subsection and subject to its provisions.

When the annual net income of natural persons is made the basis of any general State tax, the annual net income of a person and his spouse shall, for the purposes of this act, be determined with respect to the next preceding completed taxable year and shall be deemed to be the sum of the following enumerated items:

- (a) Their net taxable income under the said income tax act; plus
- (b) Their income from all sources, realized in money, that is either:
 - (1) Not taxable by the State; or
 - (2) Taxable by the State but not taxed under the said income tax act.

In no event shall the income of a person and his spouse, if neither is an employee, be deemed, for the purpose of determining any premium for voluntary health service insurance, to be less than one thousand dollars ($1,000) a year.

The commission shall have power to prescribe the forms requiring the disclosure of all facts material for determining net income, and the manner of reporting thereon, for all determinations of net incomes of persons for the purposes of this act and shall have power to withhold and shall withhold all benefits under this act from all persons who shall fail to present, under oath within a reasonable time after demand by the commissioner, signed statements in writing on the prescribed forms showing that their incomes entitle them to receive the benefits of this act; provided that during such time of withholding of benefits from any such person and his dependents, or any of them, the sums payable by employers with respect to employees under this act, or with respect to any person procuring voluntary health service insurance under this act, shall continue to be payable, but the commission shall hold all sums paid during such time in trust for the person paying said sums pending the establishment of the income status of the person from whom or from whose dependents benefits are being withheld.

The commission, for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any verified statement or for the purpose of making an estimate of the net income of any person, shall have power to examine or cause to be examined by any agent or representative designated by it for that purpose, any books, records or memoranda, bearing upon the matters required to be included in the verified statement.

SEC. 153. The commission shall by contractual engagements and other undertakings make available to employees and to other voluntary subscribers thereto any one or more of the additional benefits provided for by this act under the conditions set forth in this act with respect to primary benefits. The commission shall be competent to enter into such undertaking on behalf of the State of California in accordance with the conditions enumerated in this act with respect to contractual agreements and other undertakings relating to primary benefits.

In order equitably to distribute the cost of additional benefits to be made available to those voluntarily subscribing thereto, either on behalf of themselves, or on behalf of themselves and their dependents or on behalf of others, the commission may from time to time establish and alter systems of premium rates giving effect, in accordance with established actuarial principles, to the following variable characteristics:

- (a) Cost of physical examinations;
- (b) Differences of average morbidity rates as among the several items for which additional benefits may be authorized;
- (c) Differences in costs of the several benefit items which may be authorized; and
- (d) Differences in average number of persons per family as between those eligible for primary benefits and those subscribing for additional benefits.

But the premium rates determined for particular benefits or for particular combinations of benefits shall not depend upon the number of persons in a family consisting of parents and dependent minor children. The system of premium rates provided for in this section shall be such that the total cost of additional benefits subscribed to shall be borne by those who pay such premiums.

SEC. 156. The commission shall from time to time make rules for the reduction, postponement, suspension, or termination of the right of a resident and his dependents to receive any or all benefits hereunder because of nonpayment of premiums, for the methods by which unpaid premiums may be paid, and for the reinstatement of the right to receive all or a portion of such benefits by payment of past and present unpaid premiums.

SEC. 157. During the period of a resident's illness entitling her to benefits hereunder, payment by him of premiums for himself and his dependents may be suspended; premiums accruing during such period to be later paid as may reasonably be prescribed by the commission.

SEC. 158. If she engages in no gainful occupation during such period, a resident paying premiums hereunder shall not be entitled to pay any benefits with respect to the period beginning six weeks before childbirth and ending six weeks thereafter.

SEC. 170. There is hereby created the health service insurance fund which shall be administered by the commission.

SEC. 171. The liability of the State of California under any provisions of this act is limited to the resources of the fund and the State shall not be liable under any condition or in any circumstance for any amount which can not be recovered from or paid out of the fund.

SEC. 172. All moneys received by the commission shall be paid over to the State Controller and by him deposited in the State treasury of this State and credited to the "Health service insurance fund" hereinabove created and to the particular account specified by the commission.

Compensation for all benefits, all expenses of administration and all interest which accrue by reason of the provisions of this act shall be paid from the fund.

The Controller shall issue no warrants upon the Treasurer for any disbursement other than in the making of investments of surplus funds and of reserve funds, except upon the order of the commission. The commission shall allocate the fund to the respective fund accounts against which all warrants are to be drawn and shall allocate on each order upon the Controller the account against which the warrant is to be drawn.

SEC. 173. The State Treasurer shall be custodian of the fund and shall make disbursements therefrom only in the manner provided by law. He shall execute an additional official bond in the penal sum of fifty thousand dollars conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duties under this act. He shall deposit such portion of the fund as is not required for immediate use by the commission in the fund for other State funds in his custody. All interest earned thereby shall accrue to the fund and shall be credited to the several fund accounts in proportion to their average daily balances.

SEC. 174. In the manner provided by law, any surplus of moneys in the fund may be invested in securities which are legal investments for the State of California. Said securities may be converted into money. All such surplus or reserves shall remain in the custody of the State Treasurer regardless of whether they be in the form of cash or securities.

SEC. 175. All receipts and disbursements under the voluntary provisions of this act shall be accounted for separately from the receipts and disbursements under the mandatory provisions of this act. All costs of administration referable to the voluntary provisions of this act shall be charged to the expense accounts of voluntary health service insurance and all costs of administration referable to the mandatory provisions of this act shall be charged to the expense accounts of mandatory health service insurance.

All receipts and disbursements occurring by reason of additional benefits under this act shall be accounted for separately from receipts and disbursements occurring by reason of primary benefits under this act. All administrative costs referable to the administration of additional benefits shall be charged to the expense accounts of additional benefits.

All administrative expenses not directly attributable to or referable to any particular class of health service insurance shall be distributed by commission to their average daily balances, among the following classes of accounts:

- (a) Expense accounts for mandatory health service insurance of primary benefits;
- (b) Expense accounts for voluntary health service insurance of primary benefits;
- (c) Expense accounts for additional benefits.

SEC. 176. From and after ninety days after the effective date of this act, every employer other than the State, and other than an employer to whom a certificate of compliance has been issued and is in effect, shall pay to the commission an amount equal to five per cent of the wages paid to his employees, other than casual employees, during any calendar month; provided that, from the amount thus paid, such employer may deduct an amount equal to one-half of one per cent of the wages paid to those of his employees who are entitled to benefits under this act and any workmen's compensation or employer's liability act.

Said amounts, so adjusted by such deductions, shall be paid to the commission not later than the fifteenth day of the calendar month next following the month in which said wages were paid.

It shall be unlawful for any employer subject to this section to deduct from the wage of any employee, with respect to whom any amount is payable under this section, a sum greater than three and one-half per cent of the wage of such employee.

SEC. 177. From and after ninety days after the effective date of this act every employer, other than the State and other than one to whom a certificate of compliance has been issued and is in effect, shall pay to the commission with respect to each of his casual employees an amount equal to twelve cents per calendar day from and including the day on which the employment is begun to and including the day on which the employment is concluded. Such amounts shall be paid to the commission not later than the fifteenth day of the month next following the month in which the employer pays the wage of such casual employee.

If a casual employee concludes a casual employment and, on the same day, begins one or more other casual employments, only one payment to the commission with respect to that day shall be made; and such payment shall be made by the employer for whom the said employee first worked on that day. The commission may direct that at the conclusion of each casual employment the employer shall give to each casual employee a signed statement in writing on the form prescribed by it, showing the beginning date and the closing date of the employment.

SEC. 178. From and after ninety days after the effective date of this act, every employee of the State, other than a casual employee, whose wage is paid from funds directly controlled by the State shall pay to the commission such sum as will equal three and one-half per cent of his wage. The head of each State office or department shall apply such rate of payment to such employee's wage and shall certify to the State Controller on each and every pay roll the amount to be paid and shall furnish immediately to the commission a copy of each and every such pay roll; and each such amount shall be deducted by the head of each office or department and shall be remitted to the commission, and record thereof shall be made by the commission. Payment of salaries or wages less such payment shall be full and complete discharge and acquittance of all claims and demands whatsoever for the service rendered by employees during the period covered by such payment, except their claims to the benefits to which they may be entitled under the provisions of this act.

The provisions of this section shall apply to all casual employees of the State and payments for them to the commission except that, in lieu of three and one-half per cent of the wage, such casual employees shall pay twelve cents for each calendar day of employment from and including the day of beginning of the casual employment to and including the day of concluding such casual employment.

SEC. 179. From and after ninety days after the effective date of this act, there shall be paid into the health service insurance fund by the State from the general fund and from every other fund out of which wages are paid to employees, the following:

One and one-half per cent of all wages paid to employees other than casual employees; provided, that, from the amount thus made payable, there shall be an allowable deduction equal to one-half of one per cent paid to such employees as are entitled to benefits under this act and any workmen's compensation or employer's liability act.

SEC. 180. All the moneys now or hereafter paid into the health service insurance fund are hereby appropriated, to be expended by the commission in accordance with law for the administration of and to carry out the purposes of this act. Such moneys shall be paid into the fund from the following sources and subject to the following restrictions and conditions:

(a) On the date this act takes effect, there shall be transferred to the fund out of the general fund of the State, as a loan, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000). Thereafter, whenever on the last day of any month there is in the health service insurance fund the sum of six hundred thousand dollars ($600,000) in excess of the probable disbursements from the fund for the next succeeding month, the commission shall thereupon transfer the one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000), so borrowed, from the health insurance fund to the general fund.

(b) From and after ninety days after the effective date of this act, there shall be paid monthly out of the general fund into the health service insurance fund a sum equal to one and one-half per cent, less allowable deductions of one-half of one per cent, of the total wages paid to said employees, other than casual employees, subject to this act, whose wages are paid from the general fund. The commission shall certify to the State Controller at the end of each month the total amount of wages paid such employees, and the Controller shall thereupon transfer one and one-half per cent, less allowable deductions of one-half of one per cent, of the amount so certified from the general fund of the State to the health service insurance fund.

(c) From and after ninety days after the effective date of this act, in addition to such payments out of the general fund, there shall be paid monthly into the health service insurance fund out of every other fund in the State treasury from which the wages of employees, other than casual employees, subject to this act, are paid, a sum equal to one and one-half per cent, less allowable deductions of one-half of one per cent, of the total wages paid such employees from such fund. The commission shall certify to the State Controller at the end of each month the total amount of wages paid such employees from each such fund, and the Controller shall thereupon transfer one and one-half per cent, less allowable deductions of one-half of one per cent, of the amount so certified from each such fund respectively, to the health service insurance fund.

(d) Such other sources from which moneys are to be paid into the fund pursuant to this act.

SEC. 181. The commission may draw, without at the time furnishing vouchers and itemized statements, sums not to exceed in the aggregate five hundred thousand dollars, said sums so drawn to be used as a revolving fund.

SEC. 182. No injunction or writ of mandate or other legal or equitable process shall issue in any suit, action or proceeding in any court against the commission or against any officer or agent thereof to prevent or enjoin them from the collection of any payment sought to be collected, but after any such payment made under protest, duly verified and setting forth the grounds of objection to the legality of such payment, the person making such payment may bring an action against the commission in a court of competent jurisdiction in the county of Sacramento for the recovery of the payments so paid under protest. No such action may be instituted more than sixty days after the payment becomes due and payable, and failure to bring suit within said sixty days shall constitute waiver of any and all demands against this State on account of alleged overpayment hereunder. No grounds of illegality of the payment shall be considered by the court other than those set forth in the protest filed at the time of such payment.

If, in any such action, judgment is rendered for the plaintiff, the amount of the judgment shall first be credited on and properly due from the person making such act, and the balance of the judgment shall be refunded to the plaintiff. In any such judgment, interest shall be allowed at the rate of six per cent per annum upon the amount of payment found to have been illegally collected from the date of such payment to the date of allowance of credit on account of such judgment or to a date preceeding the date of the refund warrant by not more than thirty days, such date to be determined by the Controller.

In no case shall any judgment be rendered in favor of the plaintiff in any action brought against the commission to prevent and restrain hereunder, unless such action is brought by or in the name of an assignee of the person making such payment, or by any person other than the person who has made such payment.

SEC. 190. Every employer shall make and keep open for examination by the commission, such records of or payment of his employees, as shall be required by the commission, of sums paid to the commission by him pursuant to this act, and of such other employment and pay roll data as the commission may reasonably prescribe. Every employer shall make such reports to the commission concerning such records as the commission may prescribe. The records or reports so furnished to the commission and all other records and reports furnished to the commission shall be deemed to be confidential communications within the meaning of the Code of Civil Procedure, section 1881.

SEC. 191. The commission may compile information of the facts furnished by employers to the commission from records kept with respect to employees for the use and information of State departments and of the public, but such reports shall in no event be in such form as to enable such persons other than those charged with the administration of this act to identify therein any employee or any employer.

SEC. 192. Any patient who is falling or suffering in falling the consequences or course of treatment prescribed by the attending physician shall not be entitled to any further benefits for the particular sickness or injury.

SEC. 193. Nothing in this act shall be construed as preventing any physician or any person other than the holder of a valid and unrevoked "physician and surgeon certificate" or license to practice dentistry in the State of California, to practice medicine or dentistry, or to furnish the services of a physician or dentist.

SEC. 194. The commission shall make available, under reasonable rules and regulations, provision for medical or dental consultation at the request of the attending physician or dentist; and if in its own judgment such professional consultation is essential to the most effective application of the benefits provided by this act, it shall order such consultation as it deems necessary and may require compliance by the attending physician or dentist with the recommendations resulting therefrom.

SEC. 195. No act, rule, or regulation of the commission shall abridge, modify, curtail, derogate, prohibit, or in any way interfere with the right of a beneficiary to make a free choice of physicians, dentists, or hospitals entitled under this act to render services. Such choice may be restricted in the case of beneficiaries of an employer holding a certificate of compliance, but otherwise such selection shall not be restricted by the local area or district in which such beneficiary resides or works, being subject only to the consent of the physician, dentist, or hospital to render the necessary service.

SEC. 196. Such free choice may be subjected to inquiry by the commission if there is reason to believe that the services being rendered by such physician, dentist, or hospital are being improperly or negligently furnished or that such selection was entered into with fraudulent intent on the part of either, or both, the patient and physician, dentist, or hospital.

SEC. 197. Unless the physician, dentist, or hospital is paid directly or indirectly from the funds of a health service insurance association or the health service insurance fund or any other fund into which payments or contributions are made for the purpose of receiving, wholly or partially, directly or indirectly, the benefits enumerated in this act, nothing in this act shall apply to advice, diagnosis, treatment, or other service by a physician or dentist or to the furnishing of its facilities by a hospital.

SEC. 198. Every bond required by this act shall be approved by a judge of the superior court.

SEC. 199. The operations of professional service practitioners or auxiliary service association or health service insurance association are not to be deemed to be or construed as insurance business. No acts, statutes, or code provisions of this State relating to insurance shall be applicable to professional service practitioners, auxiliary service associations or health service insurance associations.

SEC. 200. Every payment, premium, contribution or donation made under the provisions of this act or to carry out the purposes thereof, shall be deductible from the amount of any income tax which may become due by reason of any such tax which is levied in this State.

SEC. 201. It shall be the duty of every member of a partnership, firm, or association and of the president, secretary, and general manager of every corporation to cause such partnership, firm, association, or corporation to comply with all provisions of this act.

SEC. 202. It is a misdemeanor to:

(a) Wilfully make any false statement or representation to obtain any benefit or payment, to obtain payment or compensation for services rendered or materials furnished, or to obtain a reduction in the amount of any contribution, payment or premium.

(b) Wilfully fail to make any payment required to be made by this act.

(c) Refuse to allow the commission, or its authorized representatives, to make any inspection necessary to be made for the proper administration of this act.

(d) Hinder the commission, or its authorized representatives, in the administration of this act.

(e) Violate any provision of this act by action or omission.

SEC. 203. Any person or officer responsible for the violation of this act by any firm, partnership, or corporation is guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 204. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, sentence, clause, and phrase hereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more other sections, subsections, sentences, clauses, or phrases be declared unconstitutional.

SEC. 205. All acts and portions of acts in conflict with this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 206. If in any proceeding or action arising under this act the intent of the Legislature relevant thereto is not fairly and clearly to be inferred from the text of the act, reference shall be made to those portions of the report of the Senate Interim Committee on the high cost of sickness under the captions "Basis" of legislation on health insurance and "Declaration of Public Policy" with respect to legislation on health insurance. The said portions of said report are hereby adopted, subject to the conditions expressed in this section, as declaratory of the intent of the Legislature in enacting this act.

SEC. 207. Nothing in this act shall be construed as affecting any workmen's compensation or employers' liability act of this State."

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on County Government, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 207 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 4 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "section 4239", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "sections 4239, 4239a, 4239b and 4239c, and to repeal sections 4239d, 4239e, 4239f, 4239g, 4239h, 4239i, 4239j, 4239k, 4239l, 4239m, 4239n, 4239o, 4239p, 4239q, 4239r, 4239s, 4239t, 4239u and 4239v."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 3, of the printed bill, after "4239", insert the following: "(1) In counties of the tenth class, the salaries, fees, mileage and commissions provided shall be in full for all official services performed. No county officer mentioned in this article shall receive from the county any salary, compensation, fees, commission or mileage except as in this article provided. All compensation, commissions, fees, and mileage now or hereafter provided by law to be paid to any county officer mentioned in this article for such official services, except as in this article otherwise provided, shall be paid from the county treasury to the credit of the general fund, unless some other fund is especially designated by law. All compensation, fees, commissions and mileage except as in this article otherwise provided, received by any county officer mentioned in this article, either as such officer or as the agent of the State of California, or of any county thereof, or as the agent of any political subdivision of the State of California, or of any officer thereof, shall be paid into the county treasury to the credit of the general fund, unless some other fund is especially designated by law. Until such county officer mentioned in this article shall pay into the county treasury all such compensation, commissions, fees and mileage as is required to be so paid, he shall receive no salary, and it shall be the duty of the auditor to refuse to deliver to him thereafter a salary warrant, and it shall be the duty of the treasurer to refuse to pay the same.

(2) All the deputies, assistants, employees, emergency help and clerks mentioned in this article shall perform, in addition to the duties herein enumerated, such other duties as their respective principals shall require, and they shall be paid out of the salary fund at the same time and in the same manner as the principals are paid.

(3) The bonds of the auditor, and district attorney, shall be executed with a reliable bond and surety company and the cost of said bond, when duly approved, shall be a charge against the county, and payable out of the general fund.

SEC. 2. Sections 4239a, 4239b and 4239c of the Political Code are hereby repealed.

SEC. 3. Section 4239d of the Political Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

4239d. In counties of the tenth class, the auditor shall receive a salary of three thousand two hundred four dollars ($3,204) per annum, and is allowed the following deputies and assistants at the salaries indicated:

One chief deputy, two thousand forty dollars ($2,040) per annum;

One second deputy, two thousand forty dollars ($2,040) per annum;

One chief accountant, two thousand forty dollars ($2,040) per annum;

One third deputy, one thousand eight hundred dollars ($1,800) per annum;

One deputy to be known as redemption clerk, one thousand eight hundred dollars ($1,800) per annum;

One stenographer, one thousand three hundred fifty dollars ($1,350) per annum;

Necessary assistants for the purpose of extending taxes and in cases of emergency, not to exceed the sum of four dollars ($4) per diem each.

The aggregate compensation of said necessary assistants shall not exceed the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000) in any one calendar year.

The auditor shall also be allowed the necessary expenses other than attorney's fees incurred in the defense and prosecution of any action brought by or against said officer, for the purpose of testing the validity or constitutionality of any act of the Legislature providing for the payment of county funds or funds held in trust by the county.

SEC. 4. Sections 4239e, 4239f and 4239g of the Political Code are hereby repealed.

SEC. 5. Section 4239h of the Political Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

4239h. In counties of the tenth class the district attorney shall receive a salary of four thousand five hundred dollars ($4,500) per annum, and shall be allowed, in addition to the salary herein fixed, his traveling and other personal expenses incurred in criminal cases arising in the county and in civil actions and proceedings in which the county is interested, and all other expenses necessarily incurred by him in the detection of crime and the prosecution of criminal cases, and in civil actions and proceedings and all other matters in which the county is interested, all of which said charges and expenses incurred by him shall be a legal charge against the county. The district attorney shall not personally engage in private practice during office hours, but this shall not be construed to preclude him from nominal appearances in uncontested civil matters.

The district attorney shall be allowed the following deputies, assistants and employees at the salaries indicated:

One first assistant, two thousand seven hundred sixty dollars ($2,760) per annum;

One second assistant, two thousand four hundred dollars ($2,400) per annum;

One third assistant, two thousand two hundred eighty dollars ($2,280) per annum;

One fourth assistant, two thousand two hundred eighty dollars ($2,280) per annum;

One shorthand reporter, two thousand two hundred eighty ($2,280) per annum;

One county detective, who has all the powers of and is a peace officer, and has power of deputization, and who shall perform such duties as may be required of him by the district attorney, one thousand eight hundred dollars ($1,800) per annum;

One complaint clerk, one thousand eight hundred dollars ($1,800) per annum;

One secretary, one thousand three hundred fifty dollars ($1,350) per annum;

Two stenographers, one thousand two hundred dollars ($1,200) per annum each.

SEC. 6. Sections 4239i, 4239j and 4239k of the Political Code are hereby repealed.

SEC. 7. Section 4239l of the Political Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

4239l. In counties of the tenth class each member of the board of supervisors shall receive a salary of one thousand eight hundred dollars ($1,800) per annum. Each member shall also receive his necessary expenses when attending to the business of the county other than the meetings of the board, and seven cents per mile each way in traveling to and from his residence to the county seat, but not more than one mileage shall be allowed in any one calendar day for attendance at any regular adjourned or special meeting of the board.

SEC. 8. Sections 4239m, 4239n, 4239o, 4239p, 4239q, 4239r, 4239s, 4239t and 4239w of the Political Code are hereby repealed."

Relative to reports of the Department Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of California, the Assembly concurring. That there shall be printed as a public document five hundred copies of the ----- sessions of the Department Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic for the years 1935-6, together with illustrations, copies of general orders of the department and of the official rolls, two hundred and fifty copies for the use of the Assembly and two hundred and fifty copies for the use of the Senate, payable from legislative printing appropriation.

Resolution read and considered engrossed.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution.

The roll was called, and Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 27 adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Biggar, Crittenden, Duval, Edwards, Fletcher, Garrison, Gordon, Hulse, Jespersen, King, Knowland, McColl, McCormack, McGovern, McGuinness, Metzger, Mixter, Olson, Perry, Pierovich, Reindollar, Rich, Schottky, Slater, Snyder, Swing, Wagy, Williams, and Young—29.

NOES—None.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 27 ordered transmitted to the Assembly.

Introduction, First Reading and Reference of Bills.

By Senators Crittenden, Biggar, Difani, Fletcher, Garrison, Gordon, Hays, King, Knowland, McColl, McCormack, McGovern, McGuinness, Mixter, Perry, Powers, Schottky, Scollan, Seawell, Sharkey, Swing, Tickle, Wagy, and Williams: Senate Joint Resolution No. 14—Relative to memorializing and petitioning the President and the Congress of the United States to include the Central Valley Project in the National program of work-relief.

Consideration of Senate Joint Resolution No. 14.

Senator Crittenden asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent for the consideration of Senate Joint Resolution No. 14, without reference to committee for purpose of adoption.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 14.

Relative to memorializing and petitioning the President and the Congress of the United States to include the Central Valley Project in the National Program of Work Relief.

WHEREAS, California has one of the gravest unemployment problems in the United States, due to the fact that the State has become the haven of unemployed from every section of the country; and

WHEREAS, One of the most constructive methods of coping with the unemployment problem is the building of useful and necessary public works which will confer permanent and lasting benefits as well as afford immediate work relief; and

WHEREAS, California is in urgent need of the development, conservation and stabilization of its water resources to prevent the abandonment of thousands of farms and homes, and to avert tremendous financial losses; and

WHEREAS, The State of California has prepared a comprehensive coordinated plan for the progressive economic development of the water resources of the State, carefully formulated over a period of fourteen years, which provides for the control of floods and salinity encroachment, the improvement of navigation, the conservation and stabilization of water supplies for municipal, irrigation, industrial and mining uses, and for the generation of electric power; and

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California in 1933 passed the Central Valley Project Act which was signed by the Governor and was thereafter approved by vote of the people of the State at a special election held on December 19, 1933; and

WHEREAS, The said Central Valley Project Act created the Water Project Authority of the State of California, to execute and administer the Central Valley Project, which project is designated as the first step in the comprehensive plan for the Great Central Valley of California; and

WHEREAS, Said Central Valley Project has been investigated and approved by thirteen agencies of the Federal Government and has been recommended for Federal financing; and

WHEREAS, Said project has further been recommended by the President's Committee on Water Flow and by the National Resources Board as one of the country's foremost projects for a National Program of Public Works; and

WHEREAS, There is now pending before the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works an application by the Water Project Authority for a grant and loan of funds to construct said project; and

WHEREAS, The House of Representatives has passed H. R. 6732, authorizing the improvement of the Sacramento River in accordance with the plan as set forth in House of Representatives' Document numbered 35, Seventy-third Congress, which recommends a Federal contribution of $12,000,000 to the cost of the Kennett Dam of the Central Valley Project; and

WHEREAS, The said project will be self-liquidating under Public Works Administration financing, and the cost thereof will be returned with interest to the Federal Government from revenues obtained by the sale of water and power; and

WHEREAS, Said project is ready for immediate construction when funds are made available for such purpose; and

WHEREAS, The consummation of the said project will enable 50,000 American people to sustain themselves by their present means of livelihood and will prevent their being thrown into the ranks of the unemployed, and further will stop the reversion to desert of one-half million acres of highly developed and settled lands valued at $100,000,000; and

WHEREAS, A greater degree of flood protection in the Sacramento Valley is highly desirable as evidenced by the recent floods on the Sacramento River and its tributaries; and

WHEREAS, The construction of said project will give employment to thousands of workers, now unemployed, not only in California but throughout the Nation, thereby relieving unemployment in many branches of industry, particularly in the heavy manufacturing industries in the East and Middle West; and

WHEREAS, Congress has appropriated $4,880,000,000 for work relief, with the approval of the President of the United States a large portion of which is intended for projects of the nature of the Central Valley Project; and

WHEREAS, The public interest, welfare, convenience and necessity require immediate provision for adequate financing of said Central Valley Project; now therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate and the Assembly of the State of California, jointly. That the State of California, through its Legislature, recommends the Central Valley Project to the President and to the Congress of the United States as of great and prime importance to the State of California, and respectfully requests that adequate funds be made available from the work relief appropriations for immediate construction of the project, thereby conferring lasting benefits upon the people of the State of California and affording substantial unemployment relief now vitally necessary, all in a manner conforming admirably with the splendid program initiated by the President of the United States to speed National recovery; and be it further

Resolved. That the Governor is requested to transmit copies of this resolution to the President and to the Vice President of the United States, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and to the Senators and Representatives of the State of California in the Congress.

Resolution read and considered engrossed.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution

The roll was called, and Senate Joint Resolution No. 14 adopted by the following vote:

SEC. 2. A new chapter, to be numbered Chapter 8, to be added to Part 2 of Division 2 of the Insurance Code, comprising sections 10640 to 10780, inclusive, and to read as follows:

CHAPTER 8.

Article 1. Life Insurance upon the Mutual Benefit Association Plan.

10640. Every association having the following characteristics or doing business under the following conditions, is a mutual benefit life association subject to the business of life insurance upon the mutual benefit assessment plan, and shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter:

(a) Such association is organized either to insure the life of its members or to provide money benefits payable upon the death of its members.

(b) Such association provides for the payment of sum death benefits and the expenses of the management of the business by assessments, including the annual dues specified in this chapter, levied against the members of such association.

(c) The members' liability to contribute to the payment of losses assessed, or to accrue, is not a fixed sum.

10641. Mutual benefit life associations shall not be governed by the provisions of Chapters 9 or 10 of this part.

Article 2. Special Exemptions.

10650. Except as provided in section 10651, the provisions of this chapter shall not apply to the following associations:

(a) Fraternal benefit societies operating under "An act for the regulation and control of fraternal benefit societies," approved May 1, 1911.

(b) Benefit and relief associations formed by churches, lodges, labor unions, or employees of a common employer, the privileges and regulations for membership in which are confined to the members of such churches, lodges, or labor unions, or to employees of such common employer, or employees or officers of such common employer, or employees of companies or corporations of which a single employer owns at least one-quarter of the issued capital or voting stock.

10651. The provisions of sections 10660 and 10661 and Articles 4 and 13 of Chapter 1 of Part 2 of Division 1 of this code shall apply to associations exempted by the provisions of section 10650.

Article 3. Formation and Organization.

10660. Twenty-five or more persons may incorporate a mutual life association. The articles of incorporation shall contain the statements required by section 595 of the Civil Code, except that they shall provide that

(a) The voting power of the respective members is equal.

(b) The property rights of each member of the association are measured by that proportion of the total of the assets of the association represented by the proportion of the members' death benefit to the total of such benefits in all policies issued by the association and in force at the time when the determination of rights is made.

(c) If the association ceases to do business, the property rights of the members as to one another are those which exist at the time of such cessation of business.

10661. Any such association incorporated under the provisions of this chapter shall file with the commissioner:

(a) A certified copy of its articles of incorporation.

(b) A copy of its by-laws.

(c) A bond conditioned as provided in this article.

(d) Copies of any contracts or benefit certificates which it proposes to issue.

(e) Copies of applications for membership.

(f) A statement containing the names and addresses of its officers. All of such officers shall be bona fide residents of this State.

(g) A certified copy of any amendment or change in any matter set forth in any of the foregoing documents.

10662. Such association shall furnish a bond to the commissioner in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars in favor of the commissioner as trustee for all persons benefited by its terms. Such bond shall be executed by the association with any sureties thereon approved by the commissioner.

10664. Such bond shall provide that if the association fails, within one year after the issuance of the permit to solicit applications, to qualify as provided by Article 5 of this chapter, each applicant will be repaid the money which he pays to the association under the provisions of that article.

10665. After the documents required by this article are filed with him, the commissioner, at the request of the association, shall issue to it a permit to solicit applications for membership and insurance.

Article 4. Existing Corporations May Continue.

10669. Any domestic corporation now transacting business under the provisions of Chapter IV of Part IV, Title II, Division First of the Civil Code may carry to completion under the terms of that chapter the following contracts:

(a) Contracts existing on the date this section takes effect.

(b) After the lapse of any such existing contract, a contract which constitutes a reinstatement thereof within sixty days after such lapse, even though such lapse and reinstatement occurs after this section takes effect, and notwithstanding any provisions of such reinstatement contract which set forth that such contract shall take effect as a new contract from the date of such reinstatement.

10670. Any such existing association having assets, excluding any right of assessment, which, on the date this section takes effect, are not equal to its outstanding claims and debts, shall show to the satisfaction of the commissioner a continuous improvement in its condition and shall accumulate the benefit fund prescribed by section 10694 by June 30, 1936.

10671. Except as provided by this article, any such existing domestic corporation may continue to exercise all the rights, powers and privileges conferred by Chapter IV, Part IV, Title II, Division First of the Civil Code, by subject to this chapter.

10672. It is the intention of the Legislature, by the enactment of this article, to permit any existing domestic association now engaged in transacting business of life insurance on the mutual benefit assessment plan as defined in this chapter to continue its corporate existence and business under the provisions of this chapter without the necessity of reincorporating or requalifying, except as provided by this article.

Article 5. Commencement of Business.

10680. Any association hereafter organized shall not execute or issue any contract of insurance or benefit certificate until it qualifies by showing the following facts to the satisfaction of the commissioner:

(a) That a minimum of one thousand persons have applied in writing to the association for membership and insurance therein.

(b) That such applicants have each paid an amount of not less than five dollars nor more than ten dollars.

(c) That the association has on deposit in a bank or trust company authorized to do business in this State for the benefit fund an amount equal to the largest benefit contracted to be paid by it to any one person.

10681. Upon such qualification the commissioner shall issue a certificate of authority to the association to transact business under this chapter.

Article 6. Powers and Restrictions.

10690. The affairs of all such associations shall be governed by not less than three nor more than seven directors. Such directors shall be residents of this State and shall be elected from and by the members, present in person or by proxy, at such time and place and for such period not exceeding four years, as is prescribed in the by-laws. Not less than thirty days' notice of every election of directors shall be given by mail to the members. Any director shall be eligible for reelection and, as far as practicable, an equal number shall be elected at such election. Whenever the directors are elected, a certificate under the seal of the association shall be filed with the commissioner, stating the names of such directors. Vacancies in the board of directors shall be filled as provided in the by-laws.

10694. The association may:

(a) Make such by-laws as are necessary for the government and the transaction of its business, not inconsistent with the provisions of this chapter or the general laws.

(b) Sue and be sued in its own name.

(c) Keep and maintain a benefit fund.

(d) Keep and maintain an expense fund.

10695. The benefit fund of such association shall be used for the payment of claims arising out of contracts of insurance, for benefit certificates issued by it, and taxes applicable thereto. Within ninety days after the association receives the proof of any loss which amounts in amount to the benefit fund of the association, the president shall cause the directors of the association. Thereafter the directors shall levy an assessment against all members for an amount sufficient to pay such loss or all losses of the association accrued at the time and amount in such, and for an amount in excess thereof sufficient to maintain the minimum amount of the benefit fund prescribed in this chapter. Such assessment shall be levied either pro rata against all members of the association, or ratably according to the attained age of such members as provided in section 10696.

10696. In order to provide for the contingency of an unexpected number of deaths, any such association may levy assessments additional to those required by the preceding section, whenever the board of directors, in its discretion, deems such additional assessments to be advisable. All the proceeds of such additional assessments shall be placed entirely in the benefit fund and the benefit fund shall not in any case be permitted to exceed a sum greater than twenty-five thousand dollars.

10697. On and after June 30, 1936, the minimum amount of such benefit fund shall be the amount of the largest benefit certificate outstanding.

10698. Such fund may be held in trust or invested in any manner approved as legal for investment of all assets of domestic insurers by Article 3 of Chapter 2, Part 2, Division 1 of this code.

10699. Whenever the benefit fund of any association falls below the amount required by this chapter and it is not represented within ninety days the association is insolvent and the commissioners shall proceed against such association as provided for in Article 14 of Chapter 1, Part 2, Division 1 of this code.

10700. Every such association shall also, as expense fund out of which all operating expenses other than those chargeable to the benefit fund shall be paid. For the purpose of maintaining such fund the association may charge membership fees and dues to its members. Such dues, exclusive of initial membership fees payable in the first policy year, shall not exceed twenty dollars a year for each one thousand dollars or fraction thereof, of the benefit certificate to be paid.

10701. Whenever any assessment is levied the association shall immediately mail properly addressed notice thereof to each member. Such notice shall set forth the amount and the purpose of the assessment and shall also state the time when the payment of the assessment is to be made. For purposes stated shall not be more than thirty days from the date of such notice.

10702. The assessments authorized to be levied for mortuary purposes pursuant to the provisions of this chapter shall be in proportion to the face amount of the certificate held by each member. If the proceeds of any assessment levied for mortuary purposes under the provisions of this chapter are not sufficient to pay the claims for which such assessment is levied, additional assessments sufficient to meet such claims shall promptly be levied. At the option of the association, the assessments for mortuary purposes provided in this chapter may be graded according to the attained age of the member, in accordance with some accepted experience table of mortality. Every certificate hereafter issued by such association shall fully set forth the method by which it is to be determined the amount of any assessment to be levied against the member. Such association shall not concurrently issue certificates providing for more than one method of assessment.

10703. Those officers of such association who have the custody of its funds shall give bond to the association in the amount of the benefit fund as reported in the annual statement last filed with the commissioner, conditioned upon the faithful performance of their duties and the accounting for the funds delivered into their custody, with every surety thereon approved by the commissioner.

Article 7. Membership.

10710. Every such association shall maintain at least one thousand members in good standing.

10712. Upon revocation of its certificate of authority the association shall either liquidate and dissolve under the supervision of the commissioner, or merge or consolidate its business as provided in Article 9 of this chapter.

Article 8. Forms and Amount of Benefit Certificates.

10720. No association subject to the provisions of this chapter may hereafter issue or deliver in this State any policy or benefit certificate for an amount greater than three thousand dollars nor may it so issue or deliver such policy or certificate until after a copy of the form thereof, including the form of application and any rider or endorsement, is filed with and approved by the commissioner.

10723. Such policy or certificate shall not be issued or delivered unless it contains, in substance, the following provisions:

(a) A provision that the policy or certificate shall be incontestable after it has been in force during the lifetime of the insured member for a period of three years from its date of issue, or from the date of any reinstatement thereof, except for nonpayment of assessments made pursuant to the provisions of this chapter and except for violation of the conditions of the certificate relating to military and naval service in time of war.

(b) A provision that the policy or certificate constitutes the entire contract between the member and the association, but if the association desires to make the application a part of the contract or certificate, it may do so if a copy of such application is endorsed upon or securely attached to the certificate when issued. In such case, the policy or certificate shall contain a provision that it, with the application therefor, shall constitute the entire contract between the member and the association.

10724. No such policy or certificate hereafter issued may contain any provision purporting to provide for the payment of mortuary assessments or premiums in stipulated amounts at specific intervals, but shall clearly state that the member is subject to assessment at any time to cover his proportion of any claims occurring during his membership.

10725. If the commissioner fails to approve or disapproves any such form within thirty days after it is filed with him, his act or decision thereon shall be subject to review, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter I, Part III, Title I of the Code of Civil Procedure. Upon such review the burden of proof shall lie upon the appellant and the court shall receive and consider pertinent evidence, whether oral or documentary concerning the action of the commissioner under review, but shall be limited to a consideration and determination of the question whether there has been an abuse of discretion on the part of the commissioner in failing to approve or in disapproving any such form. No such certificate or form may be issued or delivered pending the final determination of any such review.

Article 9. Merger or Consolidation.

10730. Any such association may merge or consolidate with, or transfer its membership certificates and assets to, any other association operating under the provisions of this chapter.

10731. The agreement of merger, consolidation or transfer shall be submitted to and approved by a two-thirds vote of the members of the ceding association present in person or by proxy at a meeting called to consider that agreement. A written or printed notice of such meeting shall be mailed to each member at least thirty days before the day fixed for the meeting.

10732. Before the merger, consolidation or transfer is effected, the association which proposes to assume the liabilities of the ceding association shall submit to its members the question of merger, consolidation or transfer, as the case may be, and a similar notice shall be given and a similar vote required as in the case of members of the ceding association.

10733. If the vote in the case of both associations is in the affirmative by the required majority, a certified copy of all proceedings relating to the proposed merger, consolidation or transfer, shall be filed with the commissioner. If the commissioner finds that the proceedings have been in accordance with law, he shall approve the agreement.

10735. The approval of the commissioner of the agreement of merger, consolidation or transfer, shall operate to dissolve the ceding association, and all its liability upon its insurance contracts or benefit certificates shall thereupon cease, but its officers may thereafter perform any act necessary to close its affairs. The officers of the ceding association shall file a certified copy of the agreement and of the approval of the commissioner in the office of the Secretary of State. Such certified copy shall be in lieu of the certificate of dissolution required by the provisions of the general corporation laws.

10736. The consolidated association shall be entitled to all the assets of the ceding association and shall assume all its liabilities. The policies or benefit certificates in force at the date of the merger, consolidation or transfer shall continue in full force and effect in all their provisions, agreements and undertakings, and shall be construed according to the provisions of law under which they were issued.

Article 10. Transformation.

10740. Whenever any domestic association subject to the provisions of this chapter has accumulated a fund of twenty-five thousand dollars or more in excess of all liabilities for claims or expenses incurred and taxes, it may, at its option, elect to transform itself into and to operate as a mutual life and disability insurer on the stipulated premium plan with provision for assessments as defined in Chapter 9 of this part.

10741. Such action shall be taken by resolution adopted by not less than a two-thirds vote of the membership or certificate holders present in person or by proxy at a meeting duly called for that purpose. A written or printed notice of such meeting shall be mailed to each member or certificate holder at least thirty days before the date fixed for the meeting.

10742. A certified copy of all proceedings relative to such action shall be filed with the commissioner and, if he finds that the proceedings were held in accordance with law, the commissioner shall approve the resolution.

10744. Thereafter the transformed association shall not include in its contracts the provisions required by this chapter, but shall be subject to its subsequent business to the provisions of Chapter 9 or Part 2 of Division 2 of this code. The transformation of such association shall not affect the rights or obligations of the association to its members on any contract theretofore made.

Article 11. Contributions.

10745. Any person may advance any sum of money to any association operating under this chapter for the purpose of organization or to promote or conserve the association's business or to enable it to qualify as a mutual life and disability insurer on the stipulated premium plan with provision for assessments as defined in Chapter 9 of this part, or to comply with the laws of any State. The return of such money, together with such interest thereon as was agreed upon, not exceeding eight per cent per annum, shall be payable only out of surplus remaining after providing for all required reserves, surplus, or retention funds and other liabilities, whether required by the laws of this State or any other State in which the association does business. The obligation to return such money shall not be a liability or claim, whether as to principal or interest, against the association or any of its funds or assets.

10746. Commission or promotion expense shall not be paid in connection with the advance of any such money to the association.

10748. When any association authorized under this chapter discontinues business, after the payment of or provision for all claims or liabilities following a determination made by the commissioner, any surplus shall be returned to the person who advanced it. If the money advanced was repaid, then such surplus shall be distributed or disposed of as is determined by the superior court of the county in the State in which such association has its principal place of business.

The repayment, in whole or in part, of the principal of such contribution or advance shall not be made without prior approval in writing by the commissioner.

Article 12. Association Exceeding Its Powers. Liquidation.

10750. If the commissioner, on investigation, ascertains that any such association has exceeded its powers, has failed to comply with any provision of this chapter or the law under which it was organized, or is conducting its business fraudulently, he shall proceed in accordance with Article 14 of Chapter 1, Division 1, Part 2 of this code. Except as prescribed by this chapter, the commissioner may proceed against an association operating under this chapter upon any other ground specified in that article.

Article 13. Insurance Laws Applicable.

10770. Except as expressly provided to the contrary in this chapter or elsewhere, all insurance or benefit contracts hereafter made, relative to life insurance upon the mutual benefit assessment plan, and any association issuing such contracts within this State, shall be subject to all laws now in effect or hereafter enacted relating to life insurance.

10771. All agents of such associations in this State shall be subject to the provisions of Article 2 of Chapter 5, Part 2, Division 1 of this code.

Article 14. Penalty.

10880. Any such association or any officer or agent thereof refusing to comply with or violating any provision of this chapter is, except as otherwise provided, guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 2. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, sentence, clause, and phrase thereof irrespective of the fact that any one or more other sections, subsections, sentences, clauses, or phrases be declared unconstitutional."

Amendment No. 8.

On page 20, line 52, of the printed bill, strike out the following: "first, secured creditors; second, unsecured creditors; third, stockholders; and fourth, general creditors; and insert in lieu thereof the following: "first, secured creditors; second, investment certificate holders and investment certificates, without preference of one over the other, except and to the extent that the court shall deem such preference fair and equitable in view of all the facts and circumstances; third, stockholders; and fourth, stockholders, provided, however, that preference may be given to any such plan for the payment in full of all taxes, assessments, interest, dividends, repairs and other operating expenses, and for the payment of obligations in connection with such plan as approved by the commissioner and planned by the court."

Amendment No. 9.

On pages 23 and 24 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 51 and 52 on page 23, and all of lines 1 to 19 on page 24, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Sec. 16.11. Inspection of Association Records. Any investor or creditors holding two per cent or more in value of the aggregate outstanding free shares and investment certificates of an association may, by a verified petition, with the approval of the county wherein such association has an office, praying for an order directing such association to permit him or his agent to inspect the books of account, the files and the minutes of proceedings of the stockholders and of the directors of such association and to make lists and extracts therefrom, and directing such association to deliver to the commissioner a list showing the names and addresses of the stockholders, shareholders and certificate holders of such association.

Upon the filing of said petition the court may set aside for hearing, which hearing shall be held only after five days' written notice to the commissioner and to said association. The court, after said hearing, and upon being satisfied that the purpose of the petitioner or petitioners is to obtain and use such information solely in connection with the formulation, proposal and submission of a plan and that such an order is necessary and proper in the premises, may grant said order upon such terms and conditions as it may deem proper. The court shall set forth in any such order, limitations and restrictions upon the use of the information acquired pursuant thereto, and may prescribe that any violation of such limitations or restrictions shall be adjudged to have been committed in contempt of court and punished accordingly.

If such order shall direct the association to furnish the commissioner a list showing the names and addresses of the stockholders, shareholders and certificate holders of such association, the commissioner shall forward by mail to the investors of such association shown on such list any communications relative to such plan presented to him for such forwarding by such petitioner or petitioners, together with any comments of the commissioner with respect thereto, provided such petitioner or petitioners pay all mail and clerical expense in connection therewith. The commissioner shall be under no liability, either civil or criminal, for forwarding any communications presented to him as aforesaid."

Amendment No. 10.

On page 24 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 21 to 38, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Sec. 6.09. Delay in Paying. Irrespective of any other provision of law in this act or elsewhere, whenever an association, not exempted from the application of this section, shall have been an association on notice for a period of one year, the commissioner may in his discretion forthwith or at any time thereafter, so long as such association remains an association on notice, take possession of the property, business and assets of such association and retain such possession until its affairs be finally liquidated in the manner provided by law for the liquidation of associations by him, or until such association shall have been reorganized as elsewhere in this act provided, or until such association may otherwise be allowed to resume business upon such conditions as may be approved by the commissioner. The right of the commissioner to take possession under this section is not exclusive, but is additional to his right to take possession under each and every other provision of this act. This section shall be in effect only during the emergency period, which term is hereby defined to mean the period commencing with the effective date of this section 6.09, and ending February 1, 1937, and this section shall not be applicable to an association in any one or more of the following classes: (a) an association which is an "insured institution" as defined in Title IV of the National Housing Act; (b) an association not issuing either stock or investment certificates, the by-laws of which expressly provide that section 6.08 of this act shall be applicable to such association; or (c) an association which has not, since March 10, 1933, by reason of the authority granted the commissioner by section 8.09 of this act, reduced its interest on investment certificates or its dividends on shares below the rate of four per cent per year."

Amendment No. 11.

On page 24 of the printed bill, between lines 38 and 39, insert the following at the end of section 14:

"Sec. 15. Section 15.16 of the act cited in the title hereof, as amended, is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 15.16 State Supervision and Control. Borrowers' mutual building and loan associations as in this article defined, doing business in this State, shall be under the supervision and control of the Building and Loan Commissioner. Message from the Governor.

The following message from the Governor was received and read:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, April 17, 1935.

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate,
State of California,
Sacramento, California.*

GREETINGS: After careful study, and having weighed arguments presented both by its opponents and its proponents, I am returning herewith, without my approval, Senate Bill No. 24.

The reasons for withholding my signature from this measure—the so-called Train Limit Bill—are herein set forth and are based on my conception not only of the best interests of the railroad employees and of the railroads themselves, but of the people of California as a whole.

The chief and compelling objection to Senate Bill No. 24 is found in the fact that it seeks to establish within the borders of California by State law certain practices and regulations which can be effectively and equitably set up only by Federal statutes which shall be applicable not in one or two, but in all of the 48 States.

This single and basic factor outweighs all other considerations and is sufficient, standing alone, to indicate the desirability of an executive veto of the bill.

Conditions sought to be adjusted by the bill are not peculiar to California and are common generally in other sections of the country.

It is obvious that the relief asked by the sponsor of the bill should be sought from the National Congress, which can obtain from the Interstate Commerce Commission all information and facts essential to the drafting of such legislation as may prove desirable and workable.

Both the Interstate Commerce Commission, which has wide powers extending throughout the Nation, and the California Railroad Commission possess complete authority to investigate every aspect of this matter and to make suitable recommendations based on such investigation.

Legislation solely affecting railroad operation in this State, and seeking to establish here operative conditions not required or existing elsewhere in the Nation, would accomplish relatively little in the way of benefits for the great body of railroad employees.

On the other hand, such legislation, by imposing unusual and additional costs for the transportation of California products to the Middle West and the East, would represent a very definite menace to the economic well-being of agriculture and industry of the State's industries.

Particularly is this true with respect to the effects of such legislation on the agricultural population of California. The production of fruits and vegetables in this State would bear a disproportionate share of the extra costs involved in the application of this measure.

Such additional employment of railroad personnel as might be incident to the enactment of the bill would be more than offset by the seasonal unemployment of producers and shippers.

Until uniform practices and regulations shall be fixed by Federal action, such additional costs would represent actual discrimination against California markets and industries.

This danger is recognized by individuals, groups and agencies which represent practically all of the productive population of California.

Objections to the bill as submitted to me by this representative element of our citizenry are not prompted by self-interest, as I have been fortunate in being favorable to the opponents and proponents of Senate Bill No. 24.

Public opposition to the bill includes representatives such as the California Farm Bureau, the State Chamber of Commerce, the citrus growers, dairymen, fruit growers, vegetable growers, dairymen and egg producers, the marine industry, the Pacific Coast Transportation Advisory Board representing practically every branch of industry and husbandry in this State, and various other groups which are deeply and concerned in the economic security and advancement of California.

Without going into the merits of the contention that this measure is proposed primarily as an effective means for adding to the safety features of railroad operation, I desire to draw your attention to the fact that interested experts disagree on this point and that only by competent investigation can the truth be determined.

Having debated the general provisions of this bill, the members of the Senate and Assembly are acquainted with the principal supporting arguments made both for and against its enactment. I will not recite them here.

It is proper, however, that you should know that I have become convinced that this proposed law involves certain probable conflicts with the provisions of the Federal Constitution, indicating the likelihood of annulment of the proposed law in the event of a review by the Supreme Court of the United States.

Respectfully submitted

FRANK F. MERRIAM, Governor of California.

Motion by Senator Seawell.

On motion of Senator Seawell, the message from the Governor was placed on file as unfinished business.

Messages from the Assembly.

The following messages from the Assembly were received and read:

Amendment No. 2.

On page 5 of the printed bill, as amended, strike out lines 45 to 51, inclusive, and strike out all of pages 6 and 7, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. Section 194 of the Streets and Highways Code is amended to read as follows:

194. The commission shall allocate annually, and the department shall expend or cause to be expended within the cities of this State, from the State highway fund, an amount equal to the net revenue derived from one-quarter cent per gallon of tax on motor vehicle fuel.

Such expenditures shall be made within each city in the proportion that the total population of such city bears to the total population of all cities in this State. For the purpose of this section the population in each city is that determined by the last preceding Federal census. In the case of a city incorporated subsequent to the last census, or in the case of unincorporated territory being annexed to a city subsequent to the last census, the department shall ascertain the population of the city, or of the annexed territory, by multiplying the number of registered electors therein by three.

SEC. 2. Section 195 of the Streets and Highways Code is amended to read as follows:

195. Except as provided in section 200, all moneys allocated under the provisions of section 194 shall be expended for the acquisition of real property or interests therein for, or the construction, maintenance, or improvement of streets of major importance within such city, other than State highways, as are agreed upon by the department and the legislative body of the city.

Such expenditures shall be limited to that portion of the street available for use by vehicular traffic except that such funds may be expended for pedestrian underpasses or pedestrian overhead crossings and the installation and maintenance of traffic control devices, but such funds shall not be expended for street lighting, or for the construction or maintenance of sidewalks, or, except as hereinbefore expressly authorized, for the construction or maintenance of any structure or facility in, over, or under the street which is not of direct and primary service in providing a way for vehicular traffic. Sidewalks may be constructed with such funds to replace those removed or damaged by construction or improvement of the street.

SEC. 3. Section 196 of the Streets and Highways Code is amended to read as follows:

196. Any expenditure of money from the State highway fund, as provided in section 194, shall be delegated by the department to the governing body of such city if the department is satisfied that such city is equipped to conduct the particular work to be delegated in an efficient and economic manner and if the city has set up by ordinance a "Special gas tax street improvement fund."

No moneys shall be expended by the city from such fund except for items specified in the budget and approved by the department as required in this article.

In making any such delegated expenditure a city shall follow the law governing it in regard to the doing of the particular type of work in cases which are not exclusively municipal affairs.

No State officer or employee shall be liable for anything done, or omitted to be done, by any city in the performance of any delegated work.

SEC. 4. Section 197 of the Streets and Highways Code is amended to read as follows:

197. It shall be the duty of the legislative body of each city, on or before the first day of June of each year, to prepare and to submit to the department a budget on such basis as the department may specify, showing the estimated expenditure of such funds recommended to be made during the ensuing fiscal year.

The department may refuse to approve any such budget or any item thereof if in the opinion of the department the work proposed to be done or the expenditures proposed to be made, as outlined therein, do not comply with the requirements of this article as to the purposes for which such funds may be expended. The department may also refuse to approve any such budget or any item thereof if in the opinion of the department the proposed expenditure or expenditures are excessive for the work to be done, or if in the opinion of the department adequate provision has not been made in such budget to serve traffic on streets on which any previous expenditure of funds allocated under section 194 has been made, other than such expenditures previously made for maintenance.

SEC. 5. Section 198 of the Streets and Highways Code is amended to read as follows:

198. The department shall pay quarterly, as monies are received in the State highway fund, to each city to which any expenditure has been delegated, that proportion of its pro rata share which has been delegated, subject to different methods of payment as agreed upon between the city and the department. All payments received by a city shall be deposited in its "Special gas tax street improvement fund."

In the event that any sums are taken or borrowed from the State highway fund, or from the motor vehicle fuel fund, to augment the State general fund, or to give any appropriations made from the State general fund, the department is authorized to reduce the amounts expended in such proportion to the reduction in the State highway fund, such reduction to be made apportioned to the State highway fund is reimbursed from the State general fund.

SEC. 6. A new section is added to the Streets and Highways Code, to be numbered 199, and to read as follows:

199. Before expending any such funds for construction, or improvement of any street except for preliminary engineering, the city shall furnish to the department for approval such surveys, plans, specifications, and estimates of cost, together as the department may require. When the department has approved the plans, specifications, and estimates, the city may proceed to advertise for bids. The terms of payment of the department must be secured before any contract may be awarded for an amount in excess of the estimates of cost, or to other than the low bidder on the grounds that the low bidder is not responsible, or refuses to furnish cash for labor by day's labor.

The written consent of the department must be obtained before the amount of any item specified in the budget for construction or improvement of real property is exceeded.

SEC. 7. A new section is added to the Streets and Highways Code, to be numbered 200, and to read as follows:

200. To permit the accomplishment of a major project in its entirety, the governing body of a city may authorize the expenditure of money received over a period of years from the State highway fund. The legislative body of a city may include in its budget and the department may approve projects for the expenditure of any money accruing to the city under the provisions of this article upon any State or county highway or other major traffic artery, including those owned by the owner of such city.

SEC. 8. A new section is added to the Streets and Highways Code, to be numbered 201, and to read as follows:

201. Each city to which any expenditure or expenditure has been delegated shall file with the department annually at such time as the department may designate a report showing all expenditures made for maintenance in such fund as the department may require.

Within sixty days after the completion by any city of a delegated project for the acquisition of real property for, or for the construction or improvement of any street, such city shall file with the department a final report in respect thereto, in such detail as the department may require.

SEC. 9. A new section is added to the Streets and Highways Code, to be numbered 202, and to read as follows:

202. Any city may contract with the department for the performance by the department of any or all street work in such city and for such purpose may deliver to the department, for deposit in the State treasury, and monies available for expenditure by such city for street purposes.

Any city may with the approval of the department contract with the owner within which such city is located, for the performance by such owner of maintenance projects within such city, which projects have been approved by the department.

SEC. 10. A new section is added to the Streets and Highways Code, to be numbered 203, and to read as follows:

203. The commission shall allocate and the department shall expend, or cause to be expended, from the moneys required to be allocated by section 188, an amount not less than the net revenue derived from one-quarter-cent per gallon tax on motor vehicle fuel, on State highways within cities.

Any expenditure of moneys allocated under this section may be delegated by the department to the city, in the discretion of the department, and on such terms as may be agreed upon by the department and the city.

The provisions of this section guarantee and require the expenditure of not less than the amount specified herein but shall not be deemed to prevent the expenditure by the department of a larger amount on the State highways within the cities in this State. The expenditures required by this section shall be made for the acquisition of real property, or interests therein, for, or the construction, improvement, or maintenance of State highways within cities.

SEC. 11. A new section is added to the Streets and Highways Code, to be numbered 204, and to read as follows:

204. The department shall exercise the same powers and duties with respect to State highways within cities as with respect to other State highways.

SEC. 12. Section 188 of the Streets and Highways Code is amended to read as follows:

188. Subject to the provisions hereinafter contained in this article, all money in the State highway fund not expended for general administration purposes or for maintenance or for the purpose specified in section 194, shall be allocated and expended as follows:

(a) One-half such money shall be allocated to and expended upon primary State highways. The annual expenditures thereof shall be made within each county group enumerated in section 187 in amounts which shall bear the same proportion to the total amount available for primary State highways during the current year as the number of miles of primary State highways within each such group bears to the total number of miles of primary State highways in the State.

(b) The remaining one-half shall be allocated to and expended upon the secondary State highways. One-half of such expenditures shall be made in each county group enumerated in section 187. Not more than four per cent of the money allocated to the secondary State highways in a particular group may be used as State aid to joint highway districts within such group in accordance with the laws pertaining to the financing of highways within joint highway districts."

Consideration of Assembly Joint Resolution No. 49.

Senator Knowland asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent for the consideration of Assembly Joint Resolution No. 49, for purpose of adoption.

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 49.

Relative to memorializing the United States Forest Service to undertake the laying out of ski trails in the snow region of the National forests between Placerville and Auburn highways.

WHEREAS, Winter sport activities have been rapidly developing in the higher mountain regions of California, thereby contributing to both the recreational and economic development of this State; and

WHEREAS, The construction of a system of ski trails and ski huts is necessary to the adequate development of winter sports, and to secure access to the higher mountain regions in winter; and

WHEREAS, Such a trail system would facilitate the making of snow surveys for the purpose of determining the probable seasonal run-off, a determination which is vital to the irrigation and power interests of this State; and

WHEREAS, A summit trail and connecting laterals have been scouted and cabin locations selected by various interested organizations in that portion of the Sierra Nevada Mountains lying between the Placerville Highway and the Auburn Highway; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and Senate of the State of California, jointly. Senate Bill No. 507. An act to amend section 5 of and to add section 10 to, an act entitled "An act to regulate the practice of architecture," approved March 23, 1901, as amended.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Governmental Efficiency, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 507 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1 of the printed bill, as amended, strike out the title, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"An act to amend sections 5 and 9 of, to add sections 1a, 1b and 10 to, and to amend and renumber section 1 to be section 1a of an act entitled "An act to regulate the practice of architecture," approved March 23, 1901, as amended."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, as amended, strike out all of lines 1 to 19, inclusive, and also all of pages 2, 3, 4 and 5, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "A new section to be numbered 1a is hereby added to the act to read as follows:

SEC. 1a. This act may be known and cited as the State Architectural Practice Act.

A new section to be numbered 1b is hereby added to said act to read as follows:

SEC. 1b. Definitions: As used in and for the purpose of this act, including titles or words and phrases shall have the meanings or include the definition imparted to them, and certain provisions shall be construed as set out in this section, unless it shall be apparent from their context that they have a different meaning.

(a) Words used in the singular include the plural and the plural the singular, and words used in the present tense include the future tense and words in the future tense include the present tense.

(b) Words used in the masculine gender include the feminine.

(c) The word "person" shall mean a natural person.

(d) The term "political subdivision" shall include cities and counties and counties.

(e) The term "State board" means the California State Board of Architectural Examiners as by this act created and established.

(f) The term "district board" means a division of the California State Board of Architectural Examiners as determined and established by the provisions of this act.

(g) The term "building law" shall mean any legislative act, law, code, ordinance or other statute of this State, or of any political subdivision thereof, now existing or hereafter to be enacted, which regulates or governs the location, arrangement, construction, erection, alteration or completion of buildings, or which requires that a permit be first obtained before commencing or proceeding to construct, erect or alter buildings; or which requires that a certificate of final completion be issued or a permit be first obtained before occupying such buildings.

(h) The term "building department" shall mean any officer, inspector, board of public works, board of building and safety commissioners, housing commission, department or other lawful official or agency of this State, or of any political subdivision thereof, now or hereafter charged with the enforcement of building laws or empowered to grant permits to construct, erect or alter buildings or to issue permits of occupancy or certificates of final completion.

(i) The term "building" when used in an objective sense, shall mean any fixed, frames and homogeneous structure, erected upon or in any soil not a public thoroughfare, the bulk of which is above ground and designed for permanent use in its fixed position; provided the construction or arrangement of such structure is regulated or governed by, or a permit to construct, erect, alter, or occupy is required by any building law; and further provided, that it is intended primarily that such structure be ordinarily occupied by man for worship, shelter, business or pleasure.

Said term "building" shall include, subject to the foregoing provisos and conditions, any addition, annex or extension to an existing building; or any alteration or remodeling of an existing building which involves any rearrangement or change to its component parts.

(j) The term "instruments of service," shall mean such drawings, plans, elevations, sections, details, specifications, calculations or other information in whole or in part and in such detail and completeness as are by any building law or building department required to be submitted with or to be filed with or to accompany an application in order to obtain from a building department, a permit to construct, or erect or alter a building.

(k) The term "architecture," when used in an active sense, shall mean the art and science of designing and constructing buildings, in which art and science, certain functions of the architect, are hereinbelow described:

The designing of buildings and the manifestation thereof in the instruments of service are the principal functions of the architect:

The construction of buildings is a general province in which the function of the architect is the interpretation of instruments of service, the directive-supervision of construction and the general inspection of executed work.

(l) The phrase "to practice architecture" or "the practice of architecture" shall mean the preparation or furnishing, for or to others, of "instruments of service" or the directive-supervision of construction of building;.

(m) The word "architect," as used in this act, means a person who holds a certificate to practice architecture in the State of California, under authority of this act.

Section 1 of said act is hereby renumbered and amended to read as follows:

SEC. 1c. In order to safeguard life, health, property and public welfare, and in order to carry out the provisions of this act the Governor of the State shall appoint ten persons to constitute a board, which shall be known as California State Board of Architectural Examiners. Five members of said board shall be residents of the northern district of California, and shall constitute the Northern District Board, for the examination of applicants for certificates to practice architecture in the State of California and for the performance of such other duties as may be provided for in this act. The other five members of said State board shall be appointed from the southern district of California, and shall constitute the Southern District Board for the examination of applicants for certificates to practice architecture in this State and for the performance of such other duties as may be provided for in this act. The northern district shall consist of all that portion of the State north of the northerly lines of the counties of San Luis Obispo, Kern and San Bernardino; and the southern district shall consist of all that portion of the State south of the northerly lines of the said three counties.

Said California State Board of Architectural Examiners shall be appointed as follows: Five members shall be selected from the membership of the northern California chapter or chapters of the American Institute of Architects or other similar association of architects. Five members shall be selected from the membership of the southern California chapter or chapters of the American Institute of Architects or other similar association of architects. All appointees shall be members in good standing, of their respective organizations. The membership of the California State Board of Architectural Examiners shall be composed as herein set forth. Except as herein provided, the term of office of such members shall be four years and they shall hold office until the appointment and qualification of their successors. The terms of the members of the board in office when this amendment takes effect shall expire as follows: Two members, September 15, 1931; three members, January 15, 1932; three members, January 15, 1933, two members, January 15, 1934. Such terms shall expire in the same relative order as to such members as the terms for which they hold office before this amendment takes effect, except that members whose terms would have expired on the same day shall determine their relative order by lot. The terms commencing September 15, 1931, shall expire January 15, 1935. Vacancies occurring under the provisions of this section shall be filled by appointment for the unexpired term.

The members of the board shall serve without compensation. All expenses incurred by the board shall be paid out of the funds collected as hereinafter provided.

Section 5 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

SEC. 5. It shall be unlawful, and it shall be a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, to practice architecture in this State without a certificate, as herein provided, or for any person not an architect, or firm or corporation to advertise or put out any sign or card or any other device which might indicate to the public or to any person that he is an architect or that he is qualified to engage in the practice of architecture, or that he is practicing architecture, or for any architect to affix his name to any instruments of service, which have not been prepared by him and in the office of said architect or under his immediate responsible direction, or to permit his name to be used for the purpose of assisting others not architects to comply with the provisions of this act, or to sign structural drawings or calculations not prepared in his office or under his direct supervision, not bearing the signature of the actual maker thereof.

Nothing in this act shall apply to any person who is registered as or who holds a valid unrevoked certificate or license to practice as, and practice under the title "civil engineer", under authority of a law of this State governing or regulating the practice of civil engineering, in so far as such a person prepares or furnishes, for or to others, instruments of service for buildings which are incidental to some other "study or activity" of "civil engineering," as such term "civil engineering" is defined in an act regulating the practice of "civil engineering," nor to a person certificated to use the title "structural engineer" who practices as such under authority of a law of this State governing or regulating the practice of civil engineering. Chapter 801, Statutes of 1923, as amended in Statutes of 1931, Chapters 254, 844 and 891, and Statutes of 1933, Chapters 877 and 878, further, this act shall not apply to any person, firm or corporation furnishing plans, drawings, specifications, instruments of service or other data for labor and materials to be furnished by such person, firm or corporation, either alone or with subcontractors, for store fronts, interior alterations or additions, fixtures, cabinet work, furniture, or other appliances or equipment, or for any work necessary to provide for their installation, or for any alterations or additions to any building necessary to or attendant upon the installation of such store fronts, interior alterations or additions, fixtures, cabinet work, furniture, appliances or equipment; nor shall this act be deemed to prevent any such person, firm or corporation from advertising or putting out any sign or card or other device which might indicate to the public that such person, firm or corporation is qualified to furnish such plans, drawings, specifications, instruments of service or data; provided, however, any such person, firm or corporation exempted under the aforementioned provisions of this act do not use the title "architect" or appellation which connotes a modification or variation to be interpreted or otherwise the word "architect" on any instruments of service, sign, card or other device; and nothing in this act shall prevent an architect from forming a partnership with persons who are not architects, provided that the same person shall appear as the architect on all instruments of service and that no one other than the other members of such partnership be designated as architect, and nothing in this act shall prevent a person who is engaged in the practice of architecture within the State of California from preparing plans and specifications for a proposed building or other structure within this State; provided, that he shall present satisfactory evidence to the board of the district in which the structure is to be erected that he is competent to practice architecture, and such board has issued to such person temporary certificate for the stipulated sum and such person has paid to said board a fee of twenty-five dollars therefor.

Section 9 of this act is hereby amended to read as follows:

SEC. 9. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase in this act be for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act and each section, subsection, sentence, clause and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared unconstitutional.

A new section, to be known as section 10, is hereby added to this act, to read as follows:

SEC. 10. All acts or parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and referred to Committee on Governmental Efficiency.

In administering this policy, the emergency distress feature of the problem must be the first concern, to the end that eligible persons be provided with the necessities of life pending the establishment of the rehabilitation program, but this emergency relief shall be gradually withdrawn when rehabilitation by cooperative self-help shall become available under the provisions of this act."

Amendment No. 6.

Strike out all of page 2 of the printed bill, all of page 3, and all of page 4, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

Sec. 2. The provisions of this act shall be administered so as to conform to the policies set forth in section 1 hereof and so that Federal and State assistance to self-help cooperatives may be coordinated and the maximum benefits of Federal aid obtained. In addition to other powers and duties prescribed by law, the administrator shall have power and he is authorized:

(a) To cause exchange depots to be established wherever necessary throughout the State of California, wherein commodities and articles produced by cooperative groups operating under the provisions of this act may be disposed of or exchanged, and to provide methods which shall facilitate such exchange or disposal.

(b) To encourage by education the formation of self-help producer and consumer cooperatives; to assist them by educational methods to correlate their functions; to encourage in the interest of production efficiency the reorganization of present self help groups along occupational lines, to stimulate their growth and extend their efforts in such diversified channels as will promote and encourage the production, consumption and exchange of the widest practical range of necessary commodities.

(c) To purchase, lease or otherwise acquire in the name of the State of California land, factories, plants, machinery, facilities, tools, equipment and materials necessary or proper in carrying out the intent and spirit of this act, and for no other purpose.

(d) To lend or grant funds for the purchase, lease or acquisition of land, factories, plants, machinery, equipment, tools, facilities and materials and for nonpersonal items of administrative expense, or to lend or grant the use of funds and working capital goods purchased, leased or acquired as herein provided, or grant title thereto to eligible cooperatives, to require that funds or property purchased with State grants be held by the cooperatives to the use and benefit of the State of California Administrator, to set standards of maximum production costs and minimum production volume for each enterprise loaned or grant or loan and to assist cooperatives to attain such standards; to revoke grants in whole or in part, and repossess property and goods to which title is held by the State of California in event of failure to carry out the conditions of such grant or loan or failure to meet the standards established for cooperative enterprise. Whenever possible, aid to cooperatives shall be extended in the form of loans including in goods or services as the administrator shall prescribe, such goods and services to be valued at current prices in commercial markets; to require the accounting according to prescribed form for the use of funds and property loaned or granted while title to such funds or property remains in the State of California in that such funds or property are held to the use and benefit of the State as a conservator whose duty would be to protect such property and goods against loss when in his opinion such protection is necessary to the preservation of the public funds or capital made available to a cooperative enterprise.

(e) To purchase, acquire and provide farms and farms of land suitable for cooperative farming purposes together with water and water rights for use hereon, to subdivide the same into such acreage as shall be necessary to permit fit and fit persons entitled to relief under this act, to provide sufficient and necessary farming tools, machinery, seed, live stock, fowls and other equipment and things necessary to properly equip such farms for use and to carry out the intent and purposes of this act and to do such other things proper or convenient to attain the purposes therewith with the relief contemplated in this act and equipment, tools and equipment for the use and occupation of such farms and farms and conditions under which families occupying such farms may acquire title thereto.

(f) To provide technical personnel to aid, assist and supervise cooperative activities hereunder.

(g) To purchase or otherwise acquire consumable commodities for the purpose of advancing subsistence capital to eligible cooperatives to the extent it deems necessary.

(h) The administrator may sell or distribute goods donated in support of loans to State, county, municipal or other government units or tax-supported institutions and agencies, but not in competition with established business, and such units, institutions and agencies are hereby authorized to purchase or receive grants of such goods; or he may distribute such goods to unemployed or indigent persons.

(i) To make all necessary rules and regulations under which cooperative activities hereunder shall be governed, managed and controlled, and such rules and regulations as shall be necessary to properly govern and control grants and loans made hereunder.

(j) To appoint necessary subordinates and to fix their compensation.

(k) To do any and all other acts and things necessary, convenient or proper to carry out the purposes and intent or spirit of this act and in furthering the policy of rehabilitation herein set forth.

SEC. 3. The administrator and the State Relief Commission shall and they are authorized to set apart for carrying out the purposes of this act and for doing the things herein provided such part and portion of the monies under their control or their control now or that may hereafter be provided and/or appropriated either by the State or Federal Government for the relief of hardship and destitution caused by unemployment as said administrator shall deem necessary and proper for carrying out the intent and purposes of this act and doing the things herein provided for; and said administrator is authorized and empowered to expend such money so set aside as authorized in and by this act.

SEC. 4. The administrator shall not cause cooperative activities to compete with private industries nor shall he permit such competition except only in so far as it shall be necessary to relieve hardship and destitution caused by unemployment, and to obtain the safety and happiness of persons employed under the provisions of this act. The administrator shall direct cooperative activities toward the production of commodities for consumption within cooperative groups and for direct exchange and not for sale in a competitive market.

SEC. 5. The following qualifications are necessary to enable any organization to apply for aid under this act:

(a) It shall be incorporated under the nonprofit corporation laws of the State of California; provided, however, that the administrator may make exceptions, in his discretion, in case of nonprofit voluntary unincorporated associations.

(b) Its membership shall be made up of persons, a substantial proportion of whom have been on relief, eligible to relief, or prospectively eligible if it were not for their membership in the organization.

(c) Its articles of incorporation and by-laws shall contain such other provisions as, in the opinion of the State Relief Administrator, are necessary or advisable to insure the cooperative character of the organization.

(d) In the case of a producer cooperative, the experience and skills of its members shall be appropriate to the projected enterprise.

SEC. 6. Members in good standing of each cooperative group which shall have been certified by the administrator as a self-help cooperative eligible to loan or grant under the provisions of this act and subject to his supervision and control, shall not be classified as paupers or indigents and shall not be subject to the requirements and provisions of the act to provide for relief and aid of indigents approved June 5, 1933, Statutes 1933, page 2005.

SEC. 7. No persons employed under the provisions of this act shall be included in the State Civil Service or be subject to the Civil Service Laws of this State, but shall be exempt therefrom.

SEC. 8. Title to all property purchased or acquired by the administrator under the provisions of this act shall be in the State of California but may be sold, disposed of, bartered or exchanged under the direction of the administrator or may be otherwise disposed of as in this act provided.

SEC. 9. This act shall be known as the Self-help Cooperative Rehabilitation Act and may be cited as such.

SEC. 10. Whenever the word "administrator" is used herein it shall refer to and mean the State Relief Administrator and State Emergency Relief Administrator wherever those words are used in the Constitution or any statute.

SEC. 11. If any section, subsection, clause or phrase of this act is, for any reason, held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, each section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase thereof irrespective of the fact that any one or more of the sections, subsections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared unconstitutional.

SEC. 12. The provisions of this act and the power and authority herein conferred upon the administrator and or the State Relief Commission shall terminate and end on the first day of September, 1937, unless the provisions hereof and such power and authority are extended by an act of the Legislature adopted prior to such date.

SEC. 13. Any act, statute or law of this State, in conflict with the above provisions, is to the extent of such conflict hereby repealed.

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1 of the printed bill, as amended in Senate March 22, 1935, strike out lines 1 to 14, both inclusive, and strike out all the remainder of said bill, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. For the purposes of this act and unless otherwise required by the context:

- (a) The word "board" means State Board of Equalization.
- (b) The word "taxpayer" includes any individual or fiduciary subject to the tax imposed by this act.
- (c) The word "fiduciary" means guardian, trustee, executor, administrator, receiver, conservator, or any person, whether individual or corporate, acting in any fiduciary capacity for any person, estate or trust.
- (d) The word "person" includes individuals, fiduciaries, partnerships and corporations.
- (e) The word "corporation" includes joint stock companies or associations and insurance companies.
- (f) The words "taxable year" mean the calendar year, or the fiscal year ending during such calendar year, upon the basis of which the net income is computed under this act. "Taxable year" includes, in the case of a return made for a fractional part of a year under the provisions of this act or under regulations prescribed by the board, the period for which such return is made.

(g) The words "fiscal year" mean an accounting period of twelve months ending on the last day of any month other than December.

(h) The words "paid or incurred" and "paid or accrued" shall be construed according to the method of accounting upon the basis of which the net income is computed under this act.

(i) The word "resident" includes every natural person domiciled in the State of California and every other natural person who maintains a permanent place of abode within this State or spends in the aggregate more than seven months of the taxable year within this State. The word "nonresident" includes every natural person other than a resident.

(j) The words "foreign country" mean any jurisdiction other than one embraced within the United States. The words "United States" when used in a geographical sense, include the States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, the District of Columbia and the possessions of the United States.

(k) The words "trade or business" includes the performance of the functions of a public office.

(l) The term "partnership" includes a syndicate, group, pool, joint venture, or other unincorporated organization, through or by means of which any business, financial operation, or venture is carried on, and which is not, within the meaning of this act, a trust or estate or a corporation; and the term "partner" includes a member in such a syndicate, group, pool, joint venture, or organization.

(m) The term "personal holding company" means any corporation (other than a corporation exempt from taxation under section 101 of the Federal Revenue Act of 1934, and other than a bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of the United States or of any State or Territory, a substantial part of whose business is the receipt of deposits, and other than a life insurance company or surety company) if—(1) at least eighty per centum of its gross income for the taxable year is derived from royalties, dividends, interest, annuities, and (except in the case of regular dealers in stock of securities) gains from the sale of stock or securities, and (2) at any time during the last half of the taxable year more than fifty per centum in value of its outstanding stock is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for not more than five individuals. For the purpose of determining the ownership of stock in a personal holding company—(3) stock owned, directly or indirectly, by a corporation, partnership, estate, or trust shall be considered as being owned proportionately by its shareholders, partners, or beneficiaries; (4) an individual shall be considered as owning, to the exclusion of any other individual, the stock owned, directly or indirectly, by his family, and this rule shall be applied in such manner as to produce the smallest possible number of individuals owning, directly or indirectly, more than fifty per centum in value of the outstanding stock; and (5) the family of an individual shall include only his brothers and sisters (whether by the whole or half blood) spouse, ancestors, and lineal descendants.

SEC. 2. There shall be levied, collected and paid for each taxable year upon all the net income of every resident of this State and upon the net income of every nonresident which is derived from sources within this State, a normal tax of one and one-third per centum of the amount of the net income in excess of credits against net income provided in section 14.

SEC. 3. (a) As used in this section the term "surtax net income" means the amount of the net income in excess of credits against net income provided in section 14.

(b) There shall be levied, collected, and paid for each taxable year upon all the surtax net income of every resident of this State and upon the surtax net income of every nonresident which is derived from sources within this State a surtax as follows:

Upon a surtax net income of four thousand dollars there shall be no surtax; upon surtax net incomes in excess of four thousand dollars and not in excess of six thousand dollars, one and thirty-three hundredths per centum of such excess.

For the purpose of this study, the following definitions were used: active refers to the presence of at least one active (non-zero) element; inactive refers to the absence of active elements; inactive elements refer to elements of a matrix that are zero; active elements refer to elements of a matrix that are non-zero; active elements refer to elements of a matrix that are non-zero; active elements refer to elements of a matrix that are non-zero.

Since these elements are limited to only 100,000, any series of more than 100,000 per centages of first-kind-of-these elements, each one selected with frequency of $\frac{1}{100,000}$ of first-kind-of-these elements, will be a series of first-kind-of-these elements, and a series of per centages of first-kind-of-these elements.

These findings suggest that the use of a single, standardized, self-report measure of social support may not be sufficient to capture the complexity of social support in the context of HIV risk reduction. Future research should explore the use of multiple measures of social support, including both self-report and observational measures, to better understand the role of social support in HIV risk reduction.

THE FOLLOWING TABLES SHOW THE PERCENTAGE OF THE TOTAL SALES OF THE COMPANY FOR THE YEAR ENDED 1958, 1959, 1960, 1961, 1962, 1963, 1964, 1965, 1966, 1967, 1968, 1969, 1970, 1971, 1972, 1973, 1974, 1975, 1976, 1977, 1978, 1979, 1980, 1981, 1982, 1983, 1984, 1985, 1986, 1987, 1988, 1989, 1990, 1991, 1992, 1993, 1994, 1995, 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999, 2000, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018, 2019, 2020, 2021, 2022, 2023, 2024, 2025, 2026, 2027, 2028, 2029, 2030, 2031, 2032, 2033, 2034, 2035, 2036, 2037, 2038, 2039, 2040, 2041, 2042, 2043, 2044, 2045, 2046, 2047, 2048, 2049, 2050, 2051, 2052, 2053, 2054, 2055, 2056, 2057, 2058, 2059, 2060, 2061, 2062, 2063, 2064, 2065, 2066, 2067, 2068, 2069, 2070, 2071, 2072, 2073, 2074, 2075, 2076, 2077, 2078, 2079, 2080, 2081, 2082, 2083, 2084, 2085, 2086, 2087, 2088, 2089, 2090, 2091, 2092, 2093, 2094, 2095, 2096, 2097, 2098, 2099, 2100, 2101, 2102, 2103, 2104, 2105, 2106, 2107, 2108, 2109, 2110, 2111, 2112, 2113, 2114, 2115, 2116, 2117, 2118, 2119, 2120, 2121, 2122, 2123, 2124, 2125, 2126, 2127, 2128, 2129, 2130, 2131, 2132, 2133, 2134, 2135, 2136, 2137, 2138, 2139, 2140, 2141, 2142, 2143, 2144, 2145, 2146, 2147, 2148, 2149, 2150, 2151, 2152, 2153, 2154, 2155, 2156, 2157, 2158, 2159, 2160, 2161, 2162, 2163, 2164, 2165, 2166, 2167, 2168, 2169, 2170, 2171, 2172, 2173, 2174, 2175, 2176, 2177, 2178, 2179, 2180, 2181, 2182, 2183, 2184, 2185, 2186, 2187, 2188, 2189, 2190, 2191, 2192, 2193, 2194, 2195, 2196, 2197, 2198, 2199, 2200, 2201, 2202, 2203, 2204, 2205, 2206, 2207, 2208, 2209, 2210, 2211, 2212, 2213, 2214, 2215, 2216, 2217, 2218, 2219, 2220, 2221, 2222, 2223, 2224, 2225, 2226, 2227, 2228, 2229, 2230, 2231, 2232, 2233, 2234, 2235, 2236, 2237, 2238, 2239, 2240, 2241, 2242, 2243, 2244, 2245, 2246, 2247, 2248, 2249, 2250, 2251, 2252, 2253, 2254, 2255, 2256, 2257, 2258, 2259, 2260, 2261, 2262, 2263, 2264, 2265, 2266, 2267, 2268, 2269, 2270, 2271, 2272, 2273, 2274, 2275, 2276, 2277, 2278, 2279, 2280, 2281, 2282, 2283, 2284, 2285, 2286, 2287, 2288, 2289, 2290, 2291, 2292, 2293, 2294, 2295, 2296, 2297, 2298, 2299, 2300, 2301, 2302, 2303, 2304, 2305, 2306, 2307, 2308, 2309, 2310, 2311, 2312, 2313, 2314, 2315, 2316, 2317, 2318, 2319, 2320, 2321, 2322, 2323, 2324, 2325, 2326, 2327, 2328, 2329, 2330, 2331, 2332, 2333, 2334, 2335, 2336, 2337, 2338, 2339, 2340, 2341, 2342, 2343, 2344, 2345, 2346, 2347, 2348, 2349, 2350, 2351, 2352, 2353, 2354, 2355, 2356, 2357, 2358, 2359, 2360, 2361, 2362, 2363, 2364, 2365, 2366, 2367, 2368, 2369, 2370, 2371, 2372, 2373, 2374, 2375, 2376, 2377, 2378, 2379, 2380, 2381, 2382, 2383, 2384, 2385, 2386, 2387, 2388, 2389, 2390, 2391, 2392, 2393, 2394, 2395, 2396, 2397, 2398, 2399, 2400, 2401, 2402, 2403, 2404, 2405, 2406, 2407, 2408, 2409, 2410, 2411, 2412, 2413, 2414, 2415, 2416, 2417, 2418, 2419, 2420, 2421, 2422, 2423, 2424, 2425, 2426, 2427, 2428, 2429, 2430, 2431, 2432, 2433, 2434, 2435, 2436, 2437, 2438, 2439, 2440, 2441, 2442, 2443, 2444, 2445, 2446, 2447, 2448, 2449, 2450, 2451, 2452, 2453, 2454, 2455, 2456, 2457, 2458, 2459, 2460, 2461, 2462, 2463, 2464, 2465, 2466, 2467, 2468, 2469, 2470, 2471, 2472, 2473, 2474, 2475, 2476, 2477, 2478, 2479, 2480, 2481, 2482, 2483, 2484, 2485, 2486, 2487, 2488, 2489, 2490, 2491, 2492, 2493, 2494, 2495, 2496, 2497, 2498, 2499, 2500, 2501, 2502, 2503, 2504, 2505, 2506, 2507, 2508, 2509, 2510, 2511, 2512, 2513, 2514, 2515, 2516, 2517, 2518, 2519, 2520, 2521, 2522, 2523, 2524, 2525, 2526, 2527, 2528, 2529, 2530, 2531, 2532, 2533, 2534, 2535, 2536, 2537, 2538, 2539, 2540, 2541, 2542, 2543, 2544, 2545, 2546, 2547, 2548, 2549, 2550, 2551, 2552, 2553, 2554, 2555, 2556, 2557, 2558, 2559, 2560, 2561, 2562, 2563, 2564, 2565, 2566, 2567, 2568, 2569, 2570, 2571, 2572, 2573, 2574, 2575, 2576, 2577, 2578, 2579, 2580, 2581, 2582, 2583, 2584, 2585, 2586, 2587, 2588, 2589, 2590, 2591, 2592, 2593, 2594, 2595, 2596, 2597, 2598, 2599, 2600, 2601, 2602, 2603, 2604, 2605, 2606, 2607, 2608, 2609, 2610, 2611, 2612, 2613, 2614, 2615, 2616, 2617, 2618, 2619, 2620, 2621, 2622, 2623, 2624, 2625, 2626, 2627, 2628, 2629, 2630, 2631, 2632, 2633, 2634, 2635, 26

Step 9. The words "and normal" mean the gross weight compared under 500 tons (1 to 11) tonnes or, at least not less the minimum provided by section 12 of the Act.

(b) The value added taxes shall not be included in gross income and shall be exempt from taxation under this act.

(4) Amounts received under a life insurance contract paid by reason of the death of the insured whether in a single sum or otherwise, and if such amounts are paid to the insured under an agreement to pay interest thereon, the interest payments shall not be included in gross income.

[illegible]

(3) The value of property acquired by gift by most devise of inheritance (but the income from such property shall be deemed as gross income).

(4) Amounts received through payment on behalf of insurance or under workmen's compensation acts, as compensation for personal injuries or sickness, plus the amount of any damages received without by such an agreement on account of such injuries or sickness.

(5) The rental value of a dwelling house and appurtenances thereof furnished to a minister of the gospel as part of his compensation:

(16) Income which does not constitute a fixed or determinate right under the Constitution or laws of the United States of America or under the Constitution of this State.

only the gross income from sources within this State. Gross income from sources within and without this State shall be allocated and apportioned under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the board.

SEC. 6. Whenever in the opinion of the board the use of inventories is necessary in order clearly to determine the income of any taxpayer, inventories shall be taken by such taxpayer upon such basis as the board may prescribe as conforming to nearly as may be to the best accounting practice in the trade or business and as most clearly reflecting the income.

SEC. 7. The gain from the sale or other disposition of property shall be the excess of the amount realized therefrom over the adjusted basis provided in subsection (b) of section 9 for determining gain, and the loss shall be the excess of the adjusted basis provided in such subsection determining loss over the amount realized.

The amount realized from the sale or other disposition of property shall be the sum of any money received plus the fair market value of the property (other than money) received.

In the case of a sale or exchange, the extent to which the gain or loss determined under this subsection shall be recognized for the purposes of this act, shall be determined under the provisions of section 8.

Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent (in the case of property sold under contract providing for payment in installments) the taxation of that portion of any installment payment representing gain or profit in the year in which such payment is received.

SEC. 8. Upon the sale or exchange of property, the entire amount of the gain or loss, determined under section 7, shall be recognized, except that—

(a) No gain or loss shall be recognized if property held for productive use in trade or business or for investment just preceding such sale in trade or other property held primarily for sale, nor stock, bond, note, share in stock, certificate of trust or beneficial interest, or other security or evidence of indebtedness or interest is exchanged solely for property of a like kind to be held either for productive use in trade or business or for investment.

(b) No gain or loss shall be recognized if common stock in a corporation is exchanged solely for common stock in the same corporation, or if preferred stock in a corporation is exchanged solely for preferred stock in the same corporation.

(c) No gain or loss shall be recognized if stock or securities in a corporation are exchanged solely for stock or securities in such corporation or in another corporation a party to the reorganization.

(d) No gain or loss shall be recognized if a corporation or a party to a reorganization exchanges property in pursuance of the plan of reorganization, solely for stock or securities in another corporation or party to the reorganization.

(e) No gain or loss shall be recognized if property is transferred to a corporation by one or more persons solely in exchange for stock or securities in such corporation, and immediately after the exchange such person or persons are in control of the corporation, but in the case of an exchange by two or more persons this subsection shall apply only if the amount of the stock and securities received by each is substantially in proportion to his interest in the property prior to the exchange.

(f) If an exchange would be within the purview of subsections (a), (b), (c), (d), or (e) of this section if it were not for the fact that the property received in exchange consists not only of property permitted by such subsection to be received without the recognition of gain or loss, but also of other property or money, then the gain, if any, to the recipient shall be recognized, but in an amount not in excess of the sum of such money and the fair market value of such other property.

(g) If a distribution made in pursuance of a plan of reorganization is within the provision of subsection (f) of this section but has the effect of the distribution of a taxable dividend, then there shall be taxed as a dividend to each distributee such an amount of the gain recognized under subsection (f) as is not in excess of his ratable share of the undistributed earnings and profits of the corporation accumulated after February 28, 1913. The remainder, if any, of the gain recognized under subsection (f) shall be taxed as a gain from the exchange of property.

(h) If an exchange would be within the provisions of subsections (a), (b), (c), (d), or (e) of this section if it were not for the fact that the property received in exchange consists not only of property permitted by such subsections to be received without the recognition of gain or loss, but also of other property or money, then no loss from the exchange shall be recognized.

(i) If property (as a result of its destruction by fire or its theft or seizure, or an exercise of the power of possession or condemnation, or the threat or imminence thereof) is compulsorily or involuntarily converted into property similar or related in service or use to the property so converted, or into money which is forthwith in good faith, under regulations prescribed by the board, expended in the acquisition of other property similar or related in service or use to the property so converted, or in the acquisition or control of a corporation owning such other property, or in the establishment of a replacement fund, no gain or loss shall be recognized. If any part of the money is not so expended, the gain, if any, shall be recognized, but in an amount not in excess of the money which is not so expended.

(j) As used in this section and in section 9 of this act, the term "reorganization" means (1) a statutory merger or consolidation, or (2) the acquisition by one corporation in exchange solely for all or a part of its voting stock, of at least eighty per centum of the voting stock and at least eighty per centum of the total number of shares of all other classes of stock of another corporation; or of substantially all the properties of another corporation, or (3) a transfer by a corporation of all or a part of its assets to another corporation if immediately after the transfer the transferor or its stockholders or both are in control of the corporation to which the assets are transferred, or (4) a recapitalization, or (5) a mere change in identity, form, or place of organization, however effected.

The term "a party to a reorganization" includes a corporation resulting from a reorganization and includes both corporations in the case of a reorganization resulting from the acquisition by one corporation of stock or properties of another.

(k) As used in this section the term "control" means the ownership of at least eighty per centum of the voting stock and at least eighty per centum of the total number of shares of all other classes of stock of the corporation.

(l) In determining the extent to which gain shall be recognized in the case of any of the exchanges (made after the date of the enactment of this act) described in subsections (c), (d), or (e) of this section or described in so much of subsection (f) of this section as refers to subsection (c) or (e) of this section, a foreign corporation shall not be considered as a corporation unless prior to such exchange it has been established to the satisfaction of the board that such exchange is not in pursuance of a plan having as one of its principal purposes the avoidance of income taxes imposed by the State of California.

Sec. 9. (a) The basis of property shall be the cost of such property except that—

(1) If the property should have been included in the last inventory, the basis shall be the last inventory value thereof.

(2) If the property was acquired by gift after December 31, 1920, the basis shall be the same as it would be in the hands of the donor or the last preceding owner by whom it was not acquired by gift, except that for the purpose of determining loss the basis shall be the basis so determined or the fair market value of the property at the time of the gift, whichever is lower. If the facts necessary to determine the basis in the hands of the donor or the last preceding owner are unknown to the donee, the board shall if possible obtain such facts from such donor or last preceding owner, or any other person cognizant thereof. If the board finds it impossible to obtain such facts, the basis in the hands of such donor or last preceding owner shall be the fair market value of such property as found by the board as of the date or approximate date at which, according to the best information that the board is able to obtain, such property was acquired by such donor or last preceding owner.

(3) If the property was acquired after December 31, 1920, by a transfer in trust (other than by transfer in trust by a bequest or devise) the basis shall be the same as it would be in the hands of the grantor, increased in the amount of gain or decreased in the amount of loss recognized to the grantor upon such transfer under the law applicable to the year in which the transfer was made.

(4) If the property was acquired by gift or transfer in trust on or before December 31, 1920, the basis shall be the fair market value of such property at the time of such acquisition.

(5) If the property was acquired by bequest, devise, or inheritance, or by the decedent's estate from the decedent, the basis shall be the fair market value of such property at the time of such acquisition. In the case of property transferred in trust to pay the income for life to or upon the order or direction of the grantor, with the right reserved to the grantor at all times prior to his death to revoke the trust, the basis of such property in the hands of the persons entitled under the terms of the trust instrument to the property after the grantor's death shall, after such death, be the same as if the trust instrument had been a will executed on the day of the grantor's death. For the purpose of this subdivision property passing without full and adequate consideration under a general power of appointment exercised by will shall be deemed to be property passing from the individual exercising such power by bequest or devise.

(6) If the property was acquired after February 28, 1913, upon an exchange described in subsections (a) to (h), inclusive, of section 8 of this act, the basis shall be the same as in the case of property exchanged, decreased in the amount of any money received by the taxpayer and increased in the amount of gain or decreased in the amount of loss to the taxpayer that was recognized upon such exchange under the law applicable to the year in which the exchange was made. If the property so acquired consisted in part of the type of property permitted by subsections (a) to (e), inclusive, of section 8 of this act to be received without the recognition of gain or loss, and in part of other property, the basis provided in this subdivision shall be allocated between the properties (other than money) received, and for the purpose of the allocation there shall be assigned to such other property an amount equivalent to its fair market value at the date of the exchange. This subdivision shall not apply to property acquired by a corporation by the issuance of its stock or securities as the consideration in whole or in part for the transfer of the property to it.

(7) If the property was acquired after December 31, 1917, by a corporation in connection with a reorganization, and immediately after the transfer it is inherited or control in such property of fifty per centum or more is retained in the same persons or any of them, then the basis shall be the same as it would be in the hands of the transferor, increased in the amount of gain or decreased in the amount of loss recognized to the transferor upon such transfer under the law applicable to the year in which the transfer was made. This subsection shall not apply if the property is sold, exchanged, or given or conveyed in a reorganization to a party to the reorganization, unless required by the amount of stock or securities of the transferee as the consideration in which, or in part, for the transfer.

(8) If the property was acquired after December 31, 1919, by a corporation (A) by the issuance of its stock or securities in connection with a transaction described in subsection (c) of section 8 of this act (including when some share part of the consideration for the transfer of such property in the reorganization was property or money, in addition to such stock or securities), or (B) in 1919 or acquired or got a contribution to capital after the basis shall be the same as it would be in the hands of the transferor, increased in the amount of gain or decreased in the amount of loss recognized to the transferor upon such transfer under the law applicable to the year in which the transfer was made.

(9) If the property was acquired after February 28, 1913, as the result of a compulsory or involuntary conversion described in subsection (11) of section 8 of this act, the basis shall be the same as in the case of the property so converted, decreased in the amount of any money received by the taxpayer which was not expended in accordance with the provisions of law (applicable to the year in which such conversion was made) determining the taxable status of the gain or loss upon such conversion, and increased in the amount of gain or decreased in the amount of loss to the taxpayer recognized upon such conversion under the law applicable to the year in which such conversion was made.

(10) If the property consists of stock or securities the acquisition of which (or the contract or option to acquire which) resulted in the nondeductibility (under section 11 of this act) of the loss from the sale or other disposition of substantially identical stock or securities, then the basis shall be the basis of the stock or securities so sold or disposed of, increased or decreased, as the case may be, by the difference, if any, between the price at which the property was acquired and the price at which such substantially identical stock or securities were sold or otherwise disposed of.

(11) If the property was acquired after February 28, 1913, by a partnership, and the basis is not otherwise determined under any of the subdivisions (1) to (10), inclusive, of this subsection, then the basis shall be the same as it would be in the hands of the transferor, increased in the amount of gain or decreased in the amount of loss recognized to the transferor upon such transfer under the law applicable to the year in which the transfer was made. If the property was distributed in kind by a partnership to any partner, the basis of such property in the hands of the partner shall be such part of the basis in the hands of the partnership as would be properly allocable to such property.

(12) In the case of property acquired before March 1, 1913, if the basis otherwise determined under this subsection, adjusted (for the period prior to March 1, 1913) as provided in subsection (b) of this section, is less than the fair market value of the property as of March 1, 1913, then the basis for determining gain shall be such fair market value. In determining the fair market value of stock in a corporation as of March 1, 1913, due regard shall be given to the fair market value of the assets of the corporation as of that date.

(b) The adjusted basis for determining the gain or loss from the sale or other disposition of property, whenever acquired, shall be the basis determined under subsection (a) of this section, adjusted as hereinafter provided:

(1) Proper adjustment in respect of the property shall in all cases be made—

(A) For expenditures, receipts, losses, or other items, properly chargeable to capital account, including taxes and other carrying charges on investment and unproductive real property, but no such adjustment shall be made for taxes or other carrying charges for which deductions have been taken by the taxpayer in determining net income for the taxable year or prior taxable years;

(B) In respect of any period since February 28, 1913, for exhaustion, wear and tear, obsolescence, amortization, and depletion, to the extent allowed (but not less than the amount allowable) under this act. Where for any taxable year prior to the taxable year 1932 the depletion allowance was based on discovery value or a percentage of income, then the adjustment for depletion for such year shall be based on the depletion which would have been allowable for such year if computed without reference to discovery value or a percentage of income;

(C) In respect of any period prior to March 1, 1913, for exhaustion, wear and tear, obsolescence, amortization, and depletion, to the extent allowed;

(D) In the case of stock (to the extent not provided for in the foregoing paragraphs) for the amount of distributions previously made where under the law applicable to the year in which the distribution was made, either were tax-free or were applicable in calculation of basis (not including distributions made by a corporation which was treated as a personal service corporation under the provisions of the Federal Revenue Act of 1918 or 1921, out of its earnings or profits which were taxable in accordance with the provisions of section 218 of the Federal Revenue Act of 1918 or 1921).

(2) The term "substituted basis" as used in this subsection means a basis determined under any provision of subsection (a) of this section, providing that the basis shall be determined—

(A) By reference to the basis in the hands of a transferor, donor, or grantor, or

(B) By reference to other property held at any time by the person for whom the basis is to be determined.

Wherever it appears that the basis of property in the hands of the taxpayer is a substituted basis, then the computations provided in subsection (1) of this subsection shall be made after first making in respect of such substituted basis proper adjustments of a similar nature, in respect of the period during which the property was held by the transferor, donor, or grantor, or during which the other property was held by the person for whom the basis is to be determined. A similar rule shall be applied in the case of a series of substituted bases.

SEC. 10. (a) Only the following percentages of the gain or loss recognized upon the sale or exchange of a capital asset shall be taken into account in computing net income:

One hundred per centum if the capital asset has been held for not more than one year;

Eighty per centum if the capital asset has been held for more than one year but not for more than two years;

Sixty per centum if the capital asset has been held for more than two years but not for more than five years;

Forty per centum if the capital asset has been held for more than five years but not for more than ten years;

Thirty per centum if the capital asset has been held for more than ten years.

(b) For the purposes of this act "capital assets" means property held by the taxpayer (whether or not connected with his trade or business), but does not include stock in trade of the taxpayer or other property of a kind which would be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year, or property held by the taxpayer primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his trade or business.

(c) For the purpose of subsection (a)—

(1) In determining the period for which the taxpayer has held property received on an exchange there shall be included the period for which he held the property exchanged, if under the provisions of section 9 of this act, the property received has, for the purpose of determining gain or loss from a sale or exchange, the same basis in whole or in part in his hands as the property exchanged.

(2) In determining the period for which the taxpayer has held property however acquired there shall be included the period for which such property was held by any other person, if under the provisions of section 9 of this act, such property has, for the purpose of determining gain or loss from a sale or exchange, the same basis in whole or in part in his hands as it will have in the hands of such other person.

(3) In determining the period for which the taxpayer has held stock or securities received upon a distribution where no gain was recognized to the distributee under the provisions of section 112(a) of the Federal Revenue Act of 1928 or the Federal Revenue Act of 1932, there shall be included the period for which he held the stock or securities in the distributing corporation prior to the receipt of the stock or securities upon such distribution.

(4) In determining the period for which the taxpayer has held stock or securities the acquisition of which (or the contract or option to acquire which) resulted in the nondeductibility (under section 11 of this act or section 118 of the Federal Revenue Act of 1928 or the Federal Revenue Act of 1932, relating to wash sales) of the loss from the sale or other disposition of substantially identical stock or securities, there shall be included the period for which he held the stock or securities the loss from the sale or other disposition of which was not deductible.

(d) Gains from sales or exchanges of capital assets shall be allowed only to the extent of two thousand dollars plus the gains from such sales or exchanges.

(e) For the purpose of this act—

(1) Gains or losses from short sales of property shall be considered as gains or losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets; and

(2) Gains or losses attributable to the failure to exercise privileges or options to buy or sell property shall be considered as gains or losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets held for one year or less.

(f) For the purpose of this act, amounts received by the holder upon the retirement of bonds, debentures, notes, or certificates or other evidences of indebtedness issued by any corporation (including those issued by a government or political subdivision thereof) with interest coupons or in registered form, shall be considered as amounts received in exchange therefor.

SEC. 11. In the case of any loss sustained by an owner sustained from any cause or other disposition of shares of stock in a corporation where it appears that within a period beginning thirty days before the date of such loss or destruction and ending thirty days after such date, the corporation has acquired the proceeds or the net exchange upon which the entire amount of such loss has been compensated by such corporation, then no deduction for the loss shall be allowed under subsection (2) of subsection (d) of section 12.

If the amount of such loss sustained by an owner is ascertained by the taxpayer in option to acquire it, then the amount of such loss sustained shall be determined as follows: If the particular shares of stock or securities are sold from the sale or other disposition of which a loss is sustained, shall be determined under the regulations prescribed by the board.

If the amount of stock or securities acquired by an owner is ascertained by option to acquire it, then the amount of such loss sustained shall be determined as follows: If the contract or option to acquire such stock or securities is the result of a loss, the loss shall be determined under rules and regulations prescribed by the board.

SEC. 12. In computing net income there shall be included as deductions:

(a) All the ordinary and necessary expenses incurred in business during the taxable year in carrying on any trade or business, including a reasonable allowance for salaries or other compensation for personal services actually rendered, traveling expenses (including the entire amount expended for meals and lodging) while away from home in the pursuit of a trade or business, and interest on notes, bonds, and other securities required to be carried in connection with the carrying on of a business. For purposes of the trade or business of carrying on mining the treatment for and value of a mining taking title of or which he has acquired.

(b) All interest paid or accrued during the taxable year on indebtedness, except on indebtedness secured or guaranteed in part by a bond or mortgage. The amount hereof which is wholly exempt from the taxes imposed by this law.

(c) Taxes or license paid or incurred during the taxable year which have been paid to the State or to the city, and other local taxes not so levied by or levied by income or profits tax or special license tax, and taxes levied by the authority of (1) the Government of the United States and foreign countries, (2) the State, Territory, county, city and county, and (3) the authority of such taxing subdivision of any State or Territory, and other taxes, duties, interest charges and benefits of a kind tending to increase the cost of the property possessed, but this shall not exclude the allowance of a deduction of a stockholder's stock if he received special benefits as is properly allowable to the holder of a share of stock.

(d) Loss sustained during the taxable year and not compensated for by insurance or otherwise;

(1) If incurred in trade or business; or

(2) If incurred in any transaction entered into for profit, though not connected with the trade or business; or

(3) Of property not connected with the trade or business, if the loss arises from fires, storms, shipwreck, or other casualty or from theft.

(e) Losses from wasting transactions shall be allowed only to the extent of the gains from such transactions.

(f) The basis for determining the amount of deduction for losses sustained shall be allowed under subsection (d); shall be the adjusted basis provided in subsection (b) of section 9 for determining the loss from the sale or other disposition of property.

(g) For disallowance of loss deduction in the case of sale of stock in a corporation where within thirty days before or after the date of the sale the corporation has received substantially identical property, see section 11.

(h) Losses from sales or exchanges of personal assets shall be allowed only to the extent provided in subsection (d) of section 11.

(i) Debt's ascertained to be worthless and charged off within the taxable year (or in the discretion of the board a reasonable addition to a reserve for bad debts) and when ascertained that a debt is worthless, or, in part, the board may give such debt, in an amount not in excess of the part charged off within the taxable year, as a deduction.

(j) A reasonable allowance for the exhaustion, wear and tear of property used in the trade or business, including a reasonable allowance for depreciation. If the case of property held by one person for life with remainder to another person, the deduction shall be computed as if the life tenant were the sole owner of the property and shall be allowed to the life tenant. In the case of property held in trust the allowable deduction shall be apportioned between the income beneficiaries and the trustee in accordance with the pertinent provisions of the instrument creating the trust, or, in the absence of such provisions, on the basis of the trust income allocable to each.

(k) In the case of mines, oil and gas wells, other natural resources, and similar a reasonable allowance for depletion and for depreciation of improvements, according to the peculiar conditions in each case; such reasonable allowance in all cases to be made under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the board. In any case in which it is ascertained as a result of operations or of development work that the recoverable units are greater or less than the prior estimate thereof, then such prior estimate (but not the basis for depletion) shall be revised and the allowance under this subsection for subsequent taxable years shall be based upon such revised estimate. In the case of leases the deductions shall be equitably apportioned between the lessor and the lessee. In the case of property held by one person for life with remainder to another person, the deduction shall be computed as if the life tenant were the absolute owner of the property and shall be allowed to the life tenant. In the case of property held in trust the allowable deduction shall be apportioned between the income beneficiaries and the trustee in accordance with the pertinent provisions of the instrument creating the trust, or, in the absence of such provisions, on the basis of the trust income allocable to each. The percentage of depletion allowable under this subsection shall be computed in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs (B) and (C) of subdivision (2) of subsection (L) of this section.

(1) The basis upon which depletion, exhaustion, wear and tear, and obsolescence are to be allowed in respect of any property shall be as follows:

(1) The basis upon which exhaustion, wear and tear, and obsolescence are to be allowed in respect of any property shall be the adjusted basis provided in subsection (b) of section 9 for the purpose of determining the gain upon the sale or other disposition of such property.

(2) The basis upon which depletion is to be allowed in respect of any property shall be the adjusted basis provided in subsection (b) of section 9 for the purpose of determining the gain upon the sale or other disposition of such property, except as provided in paragraphs (A), (B), and (C) of this subdivision.

(A) In the case of mines (other than metal, coal or sulphur mines) discovered by the taxpayer after February 28, 1913, the basis for depletion shall be the fair market value of the property at the date of discovery or within thirty days thereafter, if such mines were not acquired as the result of purchase of a proven tract or lease, and if the fair market value of the property is materially disproportionate to the cost. The depletion allowance under subsection (k) of this section based on discovery value provided in this paragraph shall not exceed fifty per centum of the net income of the taxpayer (computed without allowance for depletion) from the property upon which the discovery was made, except that in no case shall the depletion allowance under subsection (k) of this section be less than it would be if computed without reference to discovery value. Discoveries shall include minerals in commercial quantities contained within a vein or deposit discovered in an existing mine or mining tract by the taxpayer after February 28, 1913, if the vein or deposit thus discovered was not merely the uninterrupted extension of a continuing commercial vein or deposit already known to exist, and if the discovered minerals are of sufficient value and quantity that they could be separately mined and marketed at a profit.

(B) In the case of oil and gas wells the allowance for depletion under subsection (k) of this section shall be twenty-seven and one-half per centum of the gross income from the property during the taxable year, excluding from such gross income an amount equal to any rents or royalties paid or incurred by the taxpayer in respect of the property. Such allowance shall not exceed fifty per centum of the net income of the taxpayer (computed without allowance for depletion) from the property, except that in no case shall the depletion allowance under subsection (k) of this section be less than it would be if computed without reference to this paragraph.

(C) The allowance for depletion under subsection (k) of this section shall be, in the case of coal mines, five per centum, in the case of metal mines, fifteen per centum, and, in the case of sulphur mines or deposits, twenty-three per centum of the gross income from the property during the taxable year, excluding from such gross income an amount equal to any rents or royalties paid or incurred by the taxpayer in respect of the property. Such allowance shall not exceed fifty per centum of the net income of the taxpayer (computed without allowance for depletion) from the property. A taxpayer making his first return under this act in respect of a property shall state whether he elects to have the depletion allowance for such property for the taxable year for which the return is made computed with or without regard to percentage depletion, and the depletion allowance in respect of such property for such year shall be computed according to the election thus made. If the taxpayer fails to make such statement in the return, the depletion allowance for such property for such year shall be computed without reference to percentage depletion. The method, determined as above, of computing the depletion allowance shall be applied in the case of the property for all taxable years in which it is in the hands of such taxpayer, or of any other person if the basis of the property (for determining gain) in his hands is, under section 9 of this act, determined by reference to the basis in the hands of such taxpayer, either directly or through one or more substituted bases, as defined in that section.

(m) In the case of an individual, contributions or gifts made within the taxable year to or for the use of:

(1) The United States, any State, Territory or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, for exclusively public purposes;

(2) A corporation, or trust, or community chest, fund, or foundation, organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private inalienable or hereditary individual, and no substantial part of the activities of which is carrying on propaganda, or otherwise attempting to influence legislation;

(3) The special fund for vocational rehabilitation authorized by section 12 of the World War Veterans' Act, 1924;

(4) Posts or organizations of war veterans, or auxiliary units or societies of any such posts or organizations, if such posts, organizations, units, or societies are organized in the United States or any of its possessions, and if no part of their net earnings inures to the benefit of any private inalienable or hereditary individual;

(5) A fraternal society, order, or association operating under the lodge system, but only if such contributions or gifts are to be used exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals.

The deductions under this subsection shall be allowed to an amount which in all the above cases combined does not exceed fifteen per centum of the taxpayer's net income as computed without the benefit of this subsection. Such contributions or gifts shall be allowed as deductions only if verified under rules and regulations prescribed by the board. In the case of an individual if in the taxable year and in each of the ten preceding taxable years the amount of the contributions or gifts described in this subsection plus the amount of income tax paid or taxes paid in the taxes paid during such year in respect of preceding taxable years, exceeds ninety per centum of the taxpayer's net income for each such year, as computed without the benefit of this subsection then the fifteen per centum limit imposed herein shall not be applicable.

In the case of a taxpayer other than a resident the deductions under this subsection shall be allowed only as to contributions or gifts made to corporations or associations incorporated by or organized under the laws of this State or to the vocational rehabilitation fund above mentioned or to the State or any political subdivision thereof for exclusively public purposes.

(n) An employer establishing or maintaining a pension trust to pay, or for the payment of reasonable pensions to his employees, for such trust is exempt from tax under section 24 relating to trusts created for the exclusive benefit of employees shall be allowed as a deduction (in addition to the contributions to such trust during the taxable year to cover the pension liability accruing during the year, allowed as a deduction under subsection (a) of this section) a reasonable amount transferred or paid into such trust during the taxable year in excess of such contributions, but only if such amount (1) has not theretofore been allowed as a deduction, and (2) is apportioned in equal parts over a period of two consecutive years beginning with the year in which the transfer or payment is made.

(o) In the case of a taxpayer other than a resident the deductions allowed by this section shall unless otherwise provided in this section be allowed only if and to the extent that they are connected with the income arising from sources within this State and taxable under this act to a permanent taxpayer, and the proper apportionment and allocation of the deductions with respect to sources of income within the without the State shall be determined under rules and regulations to be prescribed by the board.

SEC. 13. (a) In computing net income no deduction shall in any case be allowed in respect of—

(1) Personal, living, or family expenses;

(2) Any amount paid out for new buildings or for permanent improvements or betterments made to increase the value of any property or estate;

(3) Any amount expended in restoring property or in making good the exhaustion thereof for which an allowance is or has been made;

(4) Premiums paid on any life insurance policy covering the life of any officer of employee, or of any person financially interested in any trade or business carried on by the taxpayer, when the taxpayer is directly or indirectly a beneficiary under such policy;

(5) Any amount otherwise allowable as a deduction which is allowable to one or more classes of income other than interest (whether or not any amount of income of that class or classes is received or accrued) wholly exempt from the taxes imposed by this act; or

(6) Loss from sales or exchanges of property, directly or indirectly, (A) between members of a family, or (B) except in the case of distributions in liquidation, between an individual and a corporation in which such individual owns, directly or indirectly, more than fifty per centum in value of the outstanding stock. For the purpose of this paragraph—(C) an individual shall be considered as owning the stock owned, directly or indirectly, by his family; and (D) the family of an individual shall include only his brothers and sisters (whether by the whole or half blood), spouse, ancestors, and lineal descendants.

(b) Amounts paid under the laws of any State, Territory, District of Columbia, possession of the United States, or foreign country as income to the holder of a life or terminable interest acquired by gift, bequest, or inheritance shall not be reduced or diminished by any deduction for shrinkage (by whatever name called) in the value of such interest due to the lapse of time, nor by any deduction allowed by this act (except the deductions provided for in subsections (j) and (k) of section 12 for the purpose of computing the net income of an estate or trust but not allowed under the laws of such State, Territory, District of Columbia, possession of the United States, or foreign country for the purpose of computing the income to which such holder is entitled.

(c) The obligor of a covenant bond shall not be allowed a deduction for the payment of the tax imposed by this act, or any other tax paid pursuant to the tax-free covenant clause, nor shall such tax be included in the gross income of the obligee.

SEC. 14. (a) There shall be allowed for the purpose of the normal tax, but not for the surtax, the following credits against the net income:

(1) Ten per centum of the amount of the earned net income, but not in excess of ten per centum of the amount of net income.

(2) For the purposes of this section—

(A) "Earned income" means wages, salaries, professional fees, and other amounts received as compensation for personal services actually rendered, but does not include any amount not included in gross income, nor that part of the compensation derived by the taxpayer for personal services rendered by him to a corporation which represents a distribution of earnings or profits rather than a reasonable allowance as compensation for the personal services actually rendered. In the case of a taxpayer engaged in a trade or business in which both personal services and capital are material income producing factors, a reasonable allowance as compensation for the personal services actually rendered by the taxpayer, not in excess of twenty per centum of his share of the net profits of such trade or business, shall be considered as earned income.

(B) "Earned income deductions" means such deductions as are allowed by section 12 for the purpose of computing net income, and are properly allocable to or chargeable against earned income.

(C) "Earned net income" means the excess of the amount of the earned income over the sum of the earned income deductions. If the taxpayer's net income is not more than three thousand dollars, his entire net income shall be considered to be earned net income, and if his net income is more than three thousand dollars, his earned net income shall not be considered to be less than three thousand dollars. In no case shall the earned net income be considered to be more than fourteen thousand dollars.

(b) There shall be allowed for the purposes of the normal tax and the surtax the following credits against net income:

(1) In the case of a single person, a personal exemption of one thousand dollars; or in the case of the head of a family or a married person living with husband or wife, a personal exemption of twenty-five hundred dollars.

A husband and wife living together shall receive but one personal exemption. The amount of such personal exemption shall be twenty-five hundred dollars. If such husband and wife make separate returns, the personal exemption may be taken by either or divided between them.

(2) Four hundred dollars for each person (other than husband or wife) dependent upon and receiving his chief support from the taxpayer if such dependent person is under eighteen years of age or is incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective.

(3) If the status of the taxpayer, in so far as it effects the personal exemption or credit for dependents, changes during the taxable year, the personal exemption and credit shall be apportioned, under rules and regulations prescribed by the board, in accordance with the number of months before and after such change. For the purpose of such apportionment a fractional part of a month shall be disregarded unless it amounts to more than half a month, in which case it shall be considered as a month.

SEC. 15. The net income shall be computed upon the basis of the taxpayer's annual accounting period (fiscal year or calendar year, as the case may be) in accordance with the method of accounting regularly employed in keeping the books of such taxpayer; but if no such method of accounting has been so employed, or if the method employed does not clearly reflect the income, the computation shall be made in accordance with such method as in the opinion of the board does clearly reflect the income. If the taxpayer's annual accounting period is other than a fiscal year as defined in section 1 or if the taxpayer has no annual accounting period or does not keep books, the net income shall be computed on the basis of the calendar year.

SEC. 16. The amount of all items of gross income shall be included in the gross income for the taxable year in which received by the taxpayer, unless the methods of accounting permitted under section 15 of this act, or any amendments are to be properly accounted for in a different period. In the case of the death of the taxpayer there shall be included in computing net income for the taxable period in which falls the date of his death, amounts accrued up to the date of his death if not otherwise properly included in respect of some period or periods.

SEC. 17. The deductions and credits permitted for income tax shall be taken for the taxable year in which "paid or accrued or paid or accrued" depending upon the method of accounting upon the basis of which the net income is computed, unless in order clearly to reflect the income the deductions or credits should be taken as of a different period. In the case of the death of a taxpayer there shall be allowed as deductions and credits for the taxable period in which falls the date of his death, amounts accrued up to the date of his death if not otherwise properly allowable in respect of such period or periods.

SEC. 18. (a) Under regulations prescribed by the board a person who regularly sells or otherwise disposes of personal property in the United States shall include as income therefrom in any taxable year that property in the United States actually received in that year when the gross proceeds realized or to be realized when payment is completed, bears to the total contract price.

(b) In the case of a person who regularly sells or otherwise disposes of personal property (other than property of a kind which would generally be included in the inventory of the taxpayer if on hand at the close of the taxable year) in a taxable year, including one thousand dollars or less of the sale price of such property in each taxable year, either case the initial payments do not exceed twenty per centum of the selling price, the income may, under regulations prescribed by the board be accounted on the basis and in the manner provided for in this section. As used in this section, the term "initial payment" means the payments received on time or deferred other than evidence of indebtedness of the purchaser during the taxable period in which the sale or other disposition is made.

(c) If a taxpayer entitled to the benefits of subsection (b) of this section failed for any taxable year to report his net income on the annual return, then, when computing his income for the year of inclusion on the subsequent year, income actually received during any such year on installment sale or other disposition of property made in any prior year shall not be excluded.

(d) If an installment obligation is satisfied at other than the regular intervals prescribed, transmitted, sold or otherwise disposed of, or if the obligation is the result of the difference between the basis of the obligation and a sale or exchange of the property at other than face value, a sale or exchange, the amount realized on the sale or exchange of the obligation, transmitted, sold or otherwise disposed of, shall be included in the gross income of the taxpayer for the taxable year in which the obligation is satisfied or disposed of. Any gain or loss on a sale or exchange of the obligation shall be measured by the difference between the fair market value of the obligation at the time of the sale or exchange and the amount realized on the sale or exchange of the property in which the obligation was included. The basis of the obligation shall be the value of the property at the time of the obligation over an amount equal to the amount actually received by the taxpayer when the obligation was satisfied or disposed of. This section shall not apply to the transmission at death of installment obligations if there is no such transmission at such time as it may be required by law to be transmitted, or such transmission with such benefits as it may deem necessary, in order to carry out the intent of the law, in the case of receiving any payment on such obligations, of the estate of the decedent or such person as would be receivable as income by the decedent or such person at such time as such payment.

SEC. 19. In any case of two or more organizations, trades or businesses (whether or not incorporated, whether or not organized in this State, and whether or not affiliated) owned or controlled directly or indirectly by the same person, no board is authorized to distribute, apportion, or allocate gross income or deductions to one or among such organizations, trades or businesses, if such distribution, apportionment or allocation is necessary in order to prevent evasion of taxes or clearly to reflect the income of any such organizations, trades or businesses.

SEC. 20. If a taxpayer changes his accounting period from fiscal year to calendar year, from calendar year to fiscal year, or from one fiscal year to another, the net income shall, with the approval of the board, be computed for the purpose of such return accounting period subject to the provisions of section 21 of this act.

SEC. 21. (a) If a taxpayer, with the approval of the board, changes the basis of computing net income from fiscal year to calendar year or from calendar year to fiscal year, a separate return shall be made for the period between the close of the last fiscal year for which return was made and the following December 31st. If the change is from calendar year to the fiscal year, a separate return shall be made for the period between the close of the last calendar year for which return was made and the date designated as the close of the fiscal year. If the change is from one fiscal year to another fiscal year, a separate return shall be made for the period between the close of the former fiscal year and the date designated as the close of the new fiscal year.

(b) Where a separate return is made under subsection (a) of this section on account of a change in the accounting period, and in all other cases where separate return is required or permitted, by regulations prescribed by the board, to be made for a fractional part of a year, then the income shall be computed on the basis of the period for which separate return is made.

(c) If a separate return is made under subsection (a) of this section, on account of a change in the accounting period, the net income, computed on the basis of the period for which separate return is made, shall be placed on an annual basis by multiplying the amount thereof by twelve and dividing by the number of months included in the period for which the separate return is made. The tax shall be such part of the tax computed on such annual basis as the number of months in such period is of twelve months.

(d) The board shall by regulations prescribe the method of applying the provisions of subsections (b) and (c) of this section (relating to computing income on the basis of a short period and placing such income on an annual basis) to cases where the taxpayer makes a separate return under subsection (a) of this section on account of a change in the accounting period, and it appears that for the period for which the return is so made he has received earned income.

(e) In the case of a return made for a fractional part of a year, except a return made under subsection (a) of this section, on account of a change in the accounting period, the personal exemption and the credit for dependents shall be reduced respectively to amounts which bear the same ratio to the full credits provided as the number of months in the period for which return is made bears to twelve months.

SEC. 22. (a) The taxes imposed by this act shall apply to the income of estates or of any kind of property held in trust (other than by so called business or Massachusetts trusts) including—

(1) Income accumulated in trust for the benefit of unborn or unascertained persons or persons with contingent interests, and income accumulated or held for future distribution under the terms of the will or trust;

(2) Income which is to be distributed currently by the fiduciary to the beneficiaries, and income collected by a guardian of an infant which is to be held or distributed as the court may direct;

(3) Income received by estates of deceased persons during the period of administration or settlement of the estate; and

(4) Income which, in the discretion of the fiduciary, may be either distributed to the beneficiaries or accumulated.

(b) The tax shall be computed upon the net income of the estate or trust, and shall be paid by the fiduciary except as provided in sections 27 and 28 of this act.

For the purposes of this section the word "settlor" shall mean and include every creator of a trust and every decedent and where in this section the settlor is spoken of as a resident or a nonresident the same shall be taken to include a decedent who upon his or her death is a resident or a nonresident as the case may be.

(c) The taxable income of the estate or trust shall include the following:

(1) The income from real property and tangible personal property located and from business transacted in this State.

(2) The income from intangible property with a situs in this State.

(3) The income from real property and tangible personal property located outside this State and the income from intangible property with a situs outside this State in the following cases:

(A) Where the beneficiary and the fiduciary and the settlor are all residents of this State.

(B) Where the beneficiary and the fiduciary are residents of this State regardless of the residence of the settlor.

(C) Where the beneficiary and the settlor are residents of this State regardless of the residence of the fiduciary.

(D) Where the beneficiary is a resident of this State regardless of the residence of the fiduciary and the settlor.

(E) Where the fiduciary is a resident of this State regardless of the residence of the beneficiary and the settlor.

(F) Where the settlor is a resident of this State regardless of the residence of the beneficiary and the fiduciary.

(G) Where the fiduciary and the settlor are residents of this State regardless of the residence of the beneficiary.

Where the taxability of income under this section depends on the residence of the fiduciary and there are two or more fiduciaries for the estate or trust, the income taxable under this section shall be apportioned according to the number of fiduciaries resident in this State, such apportionment being determined according to rules and regulations prescribed by the board.

Where the taxability of income under this section depends on the residence of the beneficiary and there are two or more beneficiaries for the estate or trust, the income taxable under this section shall be apportioned according to the number of beneficiaries resident in this State, such apportionment being determined according to rules and regulations prescribed by the board.

SEC. 23. The net income of the estate or trust shall be computed in the same manner and on the same basis as in the case of an individual taxpayer except that—

(a) There shall be allowed as a deduction (in lieu of the deductions authorized by subsection (m) of section 12 of this act) any part of the gross income, without limitation, which pursuant to the terms of the will or deed creating the trust, is during the taxable year paid or permanently set aside for the purposes specified in the manner specified in subsection (m) of section 12, or is to be used exclusively for religious, charitable, literary, scientific, or educational purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, or for the establishment, acquisition, maintenance or operation of a public cemetery not for profit.

(b) There shall be allowed as an additional deduction in computing the net income of the estate or trust, the amount of income of the estate or trust for the taxable year which is distributed currently by the fiduciary to the beneficiaries, and the amount of income collected by a guardian of an infant which is to be held or distributed as the court may direct, but the amount so allowed as a deduction shall be computed in computing the net income of the beneficiaries as beneficiaries not for profit. Any amount allowed as a deduction under this paragraph shall not be allowed as a deduction under subsection (c) of this section in the same or any succeeding taxable year. In the case of the income of a beneficiary not a resident derived through such an estate or trust, such income shall be taxable only to the extent provided in subsection (f) of section 5 of this act.

(c) In the case of income received by estates of deceased persons during the period of administration or settlement of the estate, and in the case of income which, in the discretion of the fiduciary, may be either distributed to the beneficiaries or accumulated, there shall be allowed as an additional deduction in computing the net income of the estate or trust the amount of income of the estate or trust for the taxable year, which is properly paid or credited during such year to any legatee, heir, or beneficiary, but the amount so allowed as a deduction shall be included in computing the net income of the legatee, heir, or beneficiary. In such cases the income of any legatee, heir, or beneficiary not a resident shall be taxable only to the extent provided in subsection (f) of section 5 of this act.

SEC. 24. For the purpose of the normal tax and the surtax the estate or trust shall be allowed the same personal exemptions as are allowed to a single person under subdivision (1) of subsection (b) of section 14 of this act.

SEC. 25. Where the taxable year of a beneficiary is different from that of the estate or trust, the amount which he is supposed under section 12, in computing his net income shall be based upon the income of the estate or trust for any taxable year of the estate or trust ending within his taxable year.

SEC. 26. A trust created by or under a will or a part of a trust income, premium, or profit-sharing plan for the exclusive benefit of some or all of the employees in which contributions are made by such employer or employers, or beneficiaries, but the receiving of distributing to such employees (the employee and a group of his kind) shall be the trust in accordance with such plan, shall not be taxable under section 22 of this act, but the amount actually distributed or made available to any distribution shall be taxable to him in the year in which it is distributed or made available to the extent that it exceeds the amounts paid in by him.

SEC. 27. Where at any time the power to vest in the grantor title to any part of the corpus of the trust is vested—

(a) In the grantor, either alone or in conjunction with any person not having a substantial adverse interest in the disposition of such part of the corpus or the income therefrom, or

(b) In any person not having a substantial adverse interest in the disposition of such part of the corpus or the income therefrom, then the income of such part of the trust shall be included in computing the net income of the grantor.

SEC. 28. (a) Where any part of the income of a trust—

(1) Is, or in the discretion of the grantor or of any person not having a substantial adverse interest in the disposition of such part of the income may be, held or accumulated for future distribution to the grantor; or

(2) May, in the discretion of the grantor or of any person not having a substantial adverse interest in the disposition of such part of the income, be distributed to the grantor; or

(3) Is, or in the discretion of the grantor or of any person not having a substantial adverse interest in the disposition of such part of the income may be, applied to the payment of premiums upon policies of insurance on the life of the grantor (except policies of insurance irrevocably payable for the purposes and in the manner specified in subsection (m) of section 12, relating to the standard deduction not for profit deduction); then such part of the income of the trust shall be included in computing the net income of the grantor.

(b) As used in this section, the term "in the discretion of the grantor" means "in the discretion of the grantor, either alone or in conjunction with any person not having a substantial adverse interest in the disposition of the part of the income in question".

SEC. 29. Individuals carrying on business in partnership shall be liable for income tax only in their individual capacity and there shall be included in computing the net income of each partner his distributive share, whether distributed or not, of the net income of the partnership for the taxable year. The net income of the partnership shall be computed in the same manner and on the same basis as in the case of an individual.

SEC. 30. The partner shall for the purpose of the normal tax, be allowed as a credit against his net income, the credits allowed under section 14 of this act.

In the case of the members of a partnership the proper part of each share of the net income which consists of earned income shall be determined under rules and regulations prescribed by the board and shall be separately shown in the return of the partnership.

SEC. 31. Every partnership shall make a return for each taxable year stating specifically the items of its gross income and the deductions allowed by this title, and shall include in the return the names and addresses of the individuals who would be entitled to share in the net income if distributed and the amount of the distributive share of each individual. The return shall be sworn to by any one of the partners.

If the taxable year of a partner is different from that of the partnership, the distributive share of the net income of the partner for his taxable year shall be based upon the net income of the partnership for any taxable year of the partnership (whether beginning on, before, or after January 1, 1934) ending within the taxable year of the partner.

SEC. 32. Every person taxable under this act, having a net income during the taxable year of one thousand dollars or over, if single, or if married and not living with husband or wife, or having a net income for the taxable year of two thousand five hundred dollars or over, if married and living with husband or wife; or having a gross income during the taxable year of five thousand dollars or over, regardless of the amount of his net income; shall make a return under oath, stating specifically the items of his gross income and the deductions and exemptions allowed by this act.

If a husband and wife living together have an aggregate net income for the taxable year of two thousand five hundred dollars or over or an aggregate gross income of five thousand dollars or over, each shall make such a return unless the income of each is included in a single joint return in which case the tax shall be computed on the aggregate income.

SEC. 33. If the taxpayer is unable to make his own return, the return shall be made by a duly authorized agent or by the guardian or other person charged with the care of the person or property of such taxpayer.

SEC. 34. (a) Every fiduciary (except a receiver appointed by authority of law in possession of part only of the property of an individual) shall make under oath a return for and of the following individuals, estates, or trusts for which he acts, stating specifically the items of gross income thereof and the deductions and credits allowed by this act:

(1) Every individual having a net income for the taxable year of one thousand dollars or over, if single, or if married and not living with husband or wife;

(2) Every individual having a net income for the taxable year of two thousand five hundred dollars or over if married and living with husband or wife;

(3) Every individual having a gross income for the taxable year of five thousand dollars or over, regardless of the amount of his net income;

(4) Every estate or trust the net income of which for the taxable year is one thousand dollars or over;

(5) Every estate or trust the gross income of which for the taxable year is five thousand dollars or over, regardless of the amount of the net income.

(b) Under such regulations as the board may prescribe a return made by one of two or more joint fiduciaries and filed in the office of the board shall be sufficient compliance with the above requirement. Such fiduciary shall make oath (1) that he has sufficient knowledge of the affairs of the individual estate or trust for which the return is made, to enable him to make the return, and (2) that the return is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, true and correct.

(c) Any fiduciary required to make a return under this act shall be subject to all the provisions of law which apply to individuals.

SEC. 35. Every individual, partnership, corporation, joint stock company or association or insurance company, being a resident or having a place of business in this State, in whatever capacity acting, including lessees or mortgagors or real or personal property fiduciaries, employers and all officers and employees of the State or of any political subdivision of the State, having the control, receipt, custody, disposal or payment of interest (other than interest coupons payable to bearer), rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, emoluments or other fixed or determinable annual or periodical gains, profits and income, amounting to one thousand dollars or over, paid or payable during any year to any taxpayer, shall make complete return thereof under oath, to the board, under such regulations and in such form and manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by it.

The board whenever it deems it necessary to insure compliance with the provisions of this act, may under rules and regulations prescribed by it, require any individual, partnership, corporation, joint stock company or association or insurance company, including lessees or mortgagors and employees of the State or of any political subdivision of the State having control, receipt, custody, disposal or payment of interest (other than interest coupons payable to bearer), rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, emoluments or other fixed or determinable annual or periodical gains, profits and income paid or payable to any taxpayer, to deduct and withhold the tax due from such taxpayer and make return thereof and pay the tax to the board.

SEC. 36. Returns shall be in such form as the board may from time to time prescribe and shall be filed with the board at its main office or at any branch office which it may establish, by each person taxable hereunder, within ten days after the fifteen days after the close of his taxable year. In case of sickness, absence or other disability, or whenever in the judgment and opinion of the board any other further time not exceeding thirty days is fitting persons, persons shall be allowed to file the return the ability to be furnished by the taxpayer or by the person in the office that the statements contained therein are true. The board shall cause to be prepared blank forms for the said returns and shall cause them to be distributed throughout the State and to be furnished upon application. Taxpayers are hereby notified that the form shall not relieve any taxpayer from the obligation of making any return herein required.

SEC. 37. If the board shall find that returns filed by any taxpayer have failed to file a return, or to include in a return filed, either intentionally or through error, items of taxable income, it shall require from such taxpayer a return of a supplementary return, under oath, in such form as it shall prescribe, of all the items of income which the taxpayer received during the time for which the return is made, whether or not taxable under the provisions of this act. If from a supplementary return, or otherwise, the board find that any items of income are omitted, such items shall have been omitted from the original return. It shall require the items so omitted to be disclosed to it, under oath of the taxpayer, and to be added to the original return. Such supplementary return and the correction of the original return shall not relieve the taxpayer from any of the penalties to which he may be liable under any provision of this act.

SEC. 38. One-half the amount of the tax disclosed by the return shall be due and payable on or before the fifteenth day of the third month following the close of the taxable year, and the balance of the tax shall be due and payable on or before the fifteenth day of the ninth month following the close of the taxable year.

If the board shall allow or estimate any sum for doing any return hereunder, there shall be a continuous accrual of interest from the payment of the first monthly installment of the amount of tax disclosed by such return, but there shall be added to and remitted with such tax interest thereon at the rate of one-half of one per cent per month or each fraction of a month from and after the date when the tax would otherwise have been due and payable.

The tax may be paid with qualified check payable to the State Treasury, during such time and under such regulations as the board shall prescribe, but if a check so received is not paid by the bank on which it is drawn, the taxpayer by whom such check is rendered shall remain liable for the payment of the tax and for all legal penalties, the same as if such check had not been received.

SEC. 39. If any taxpayer fails to pay the tax disclosed by his return on or before the due date thereof there shall be added thereto a penalty of five per cent of the unpaid tax plus interest at the rate of one per cent per month, or fraction of a month, from the due date thereof until the date of payment.

SEC. 40. If any taxpayer fails to file a return of income within the time required by this act, but files a return of income and pays the tax due as disclosed by the return within sixty days after the due date of the return, there shall be added to the tax a penalty of five per cent thereof, plus interest at the rate of one per cent per month, or fraction of a month, from the due date thereof until the date of payment.

If any taxpayer fails to file a return of income within sixty days after the due date of the return, the board, regardless of whether or not the taxpayer thereafter files a return, shall make an estimate based upon any information in its possession of the amount of income of the taxpayer and shall assess the tax thereon adding thereto a penalty of twenty-five per cent thereof. The tax so assessed shall bear interest at the rate of one per cent per month, or fraction of a month, from the due date of the return until the date of payment.

SEC. 41. If the board is not satisfied with the return and payment of tax made by any taxpayer, it shall make an additional assessment of tax due from such taxpayer based upon the facts contained in the return or upon any information in its possession. If the return is made in good faith and the understatement of the tax is not due to any fault of the taxpayer, there shall be no penalty added because of such understatement. If the understatement is due to negligence on the part of the taxpayer, but without intent to defraud, there shall be added to the amount of the deficiency a penalty of five per cent thereof. If the understatement is fraudulent, with intent to evade the tax, there shall be added to the amount of the deficiency a penalty of fifty per cent thereof. Any assessment made under the provisions of this section on account of the understatement of tax in any return shall bear interest at the rate of one per cent per month, or fraction of a month, from the due date of the return until the date of payment.

SEC. 42. The board shall not be precluded from assessing taxes due from any taxpayer for any period by reason of any previous assessment against the taxpayer for the same period.

SEC. 43. Notice of any assessment made by the board shall be mailed to the taxpayer at his address as the same appears in the records of the board. Within sixty days after mailing of such notice the taxpayer may file with the board a written protest against the assessment made by the board specifying therein the grounds upon which the protest is based. If no such protest is so filed the amount of the assessment shall be final upon the expiration of said sixty day period. If a protest is so filed it shall be the duty of the board to reconsider the assessment and if the taxpayer has so requested in his protest to grant said taxpayer an oral hearing. The board's action upon the protest shall be final thirty days from the date of mailing notice of such action to the taxpayer.

If any assessment made by the board plus interest and penalties thereon is not paid when the same become final, there shall be added thereto a penalty of five per cent of the amount of the assessment.

SEC. 44. Notice of assessments made on account of the understatement of tax in any return, except where the return is fraudulent, must be mailed to the taxpayer within three years after the return was filed and no deficiency shall be assessed or collected with respect to the year for which such return was filed unless such notice is mailed within such period.

SEC. 45. If the board finds that a taxpayer designs quickly to depart from this State or to remove his property therefrom, or to conceal himself or his property therein, or to do any other act tending to prejudice or to render wholly or partly ineffectual proceedings to collect the tax for the taxable year then last past or the taxable year then current unless such proceedings be brought without delay, the board shall declare the taxable period for such taxpayer immediately terminated and shall cause notice of such finding and declaration to be given the taxpayer, together with a demand for immediate payment of the tax for the taxable period so declared terminated and of the tax for the preceding taxable year or so much of such tax as is unpaid, whether or not the time otherwise allowed by law for filing the return and paying the tax has expired; and such taxes shall thereupon become immediately due and payable. In any proceeding in court brought to enforce payment of taxes made due and payable by virtue of the provisions of this section the finding of the board, made as herein provided, whether made after notice to the taxpayer or not, shall be for all purposes presumptive evidence of the taxpayer's design.

SEC. 46. If the board determines that any tax, penalty or interest has been paid more than once, or has been erroneously or illegally collected or computed, the board shall certify to the State Board of Control the amount collected in excess of what was legally due, from whom it was collected, or by whom paid, and if approved by that board the same shall be credited on any taxes then due from the taxpayer under this act and the balance shall be refunded to the taxpayer, but no such credit or refund shall be allowed after three years from the date of overpayment.

Interest shall be allowed and paid upon any overpayment of any tax, if the overpayment was not made because of an error or mistake on the part of the taxpayer, at the rate of six per centum per annum as follows: (1) In the case of credit, from the date of overpayment to the date of the allowance of the credit. Any interest allowed on any credit shall first be credited on any taxes due from the taxpayer under this act; (2) In the case of a refund, from the date of the overpayment to a date preceding the date of the refund warrant by not more than thirty days, such date to be determined by the board.

Any refund or any portion thereof which is erroneously made, and any credit or any portion thereof which is erroneously allowed, may be recovered, together with interest at the rate of six per centum per annum from the date the refund was made or the credit allowed, in an action brought by the board in a court of competent jurisdiction in the county of Sacramento in the name of the people of the State of California, and such actions shall be tried in the county of Sacramento unless the court with the consent of the Attorney General orders a change of place of trial. The Attorney General must prosecute such action, and the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, relating to service of summons, pleadings, proofs, trials, and appeals are applicable to the proceedings herein provided for.

SEC. 47. No injunction or writ of mandate or other legal or equitable process shall issue in any suit, action or proceeding in any court against this State or against any officer thereof to prevent or enjoin under this act the collection of any tax sought to be collected; but after payment of any such tax under protest, duly verified and setting forth the grounds of objection to the legality of such tax, the taxpayer paying such tax may bring an action against the State Treasurer in a court of competent jurisdiction in the county of Sacramento for the recovery of tax so paid under protest. No such action may be instituted more than ninety days after the tax becomes due and payable, and failure to bring suit within said ninety days shall constitute waiver of any and all demands against this State on account of alleged overpayment of taxes hereunder. No grounds of illegality of the tax shall be considered by the court other than those set forth in the protest filed at the time of the payment of the tax.

If in any such action judgment is rendered for the plaintiff, the amount of the judgment shall first be credited on any taxes due from the plaintiff under this act, and the balance of the judgment shall be refunded to the plaintiff. In any such judgment, interest shall be allowed at the rate of six per cent per annum upon the amount of tax found to have been illegally collected from the date of payment of such tax to the date of affirmation of such judgment or such judgment is to a date preceding the date of the related warrant by not more than thirty days; such date to be determined by the board.

In no case shall any judgment be rendered in favor of the plaintiff in any action brought against the State Treasurer to recover any tax paid. However, when such action is brought by or in the name of an innocent or the innocent party and then:

SEC. 48. Upon notice to the board that any delinquent is suing in a delinquent capacity, such delinquent shall assume the proper, proper, interest, and penalties of the taxpayer in respect of any tax imposed by this act, payment on other same conditions provided and given that the tax shall be collected from the estate of the taxpayer; until notice is given that the delinquent capacity has terminated.

Notice under this section shall be given in accordance with rules and regulations prescribed by the board. No total payment of a delinquent shall be allowed by any court unless such payment shows and the court finds that all taxes imposed by the provisions of this act upon such delinquent which have become payable have been paid, and that all taxes which have been imposed but are unpaid by such person or other wise. The certificate of the board and the record on the amount of the tax thereon certified shall be conclusive as to the payment of the tax, in the entire of said certificate.

For the purpose of facilitating the settlement and distribution of estates held by fiduciaries, the board, with the approval of the Attorney General, may on behalf of the State agree upon the amount of taxes at any time due or to become due from such fiduciaries under the provisions of this act, and payment in accordance with such agreement shall be full satisfaction of the claim for unpaid taxes.

SEC. 49. If any tax disclosed by a return is not paid when due or if any tax assessed by the board is not paid when the same becomes due the board may bring an action in a court of competent jurisdiction in the county of Sacramento in the name of the people of the State of California to collect the amount delinquent, together with interest and penalties, and such action shall be brought in the county of Sacramento unless the court, with the consent of the Attorney General, orders a change of place of trial. Such action must be brought within three years after the due date of the tax disclosed by the return or within three years after the judgment became final, as the case may be. The Attorney General must prosecute such action, and the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, relating to manner of summons, pleadings, process, trials, and appeals are applicable to the proceedings herein provided for. In such action a writ of attachment may be issued and no bond or affidavit previous to the issuing of such attachment is required. In such action a certificate by the board showing the delinquency shall be prima facie evidence of the levy of the tax, of the delinquency and of compliance by the board with all the provisions of this act in relation to the computation and levy of the tax.

SEC. 50. The board, whenever it deems it necessary to insure compliance with the provisions of this act, may require any person liable to pay tax imposed hereunder to deposit with it such security as the board may determine. The same may be sold by the board at public sale if it becomes necessary so to do in order to recover any tax, interest or penalty due. Notice of such sale may be served upon the person who deposited such securities personally or by mail if the same service shall be made in the manner prescribed in section 1011 of the Code of Civil Procedure and addressed to the person at his address as the same appears in the records of the board. Upon any such sale, the surplus, if any, above the amounts due under this act shall be returned to the person who deposited the security.

SEC. 51. In any case in which any tax, interest or penalty imposed under this act is not paid when due the board may file in the office of the county clerk of Sacramento County, or any other county, a certificate specifying the amount of the tax, interest and penalty due, the name and last known address of the taxpayer liable for the same, that the board has complied with all the provisions of this act in relation to the computation and levy of the tax and a request that judgment be entered against the taxpayer in the amount of the tax, interest and penalty set forth in the certificate. The county clerk immediately upon the filing of such certificate shall enter a judgment for the people of the State of California against the taxpayer in the amount of the tax, interest and penalty set forth in the certificate. The judgment may be filed by the county clerk in a loose-leaf book entitled "Special Judgments for State Personal Income Tax."

An abstract of such judgment or a copy thereof may be recorded with the county recorder of any county and from the time of such recording, the amount of the taxes, interest and penalty therein set forth shall constitute a lien upon all the real property of the taxpayer in such county, owned by him or which he may afterwards and before the lien expires acquire, which lien shall have the force, effect and priority of a judgment lien. Execution shall issue upon such a judgment upon request of the board in the manner as execution may issue upon other judgments and sales shall be held under such execution as prescribed in the Code of Civil Procedure. In all proceedings under this section the board shall be authorized to act on behalf of the people of the State of California.

In the event that any taxpayer is delinquent in the payment of the tax herein provided for the board may give notice of the amount of such delinquency by registered mail to all persons having in their possession, or under their control, any credits or other personal property belonging to such taxpayer, or owing any debts to such taxpayer at the time of receipt by them of such notice and thereafter any person so notified shall neither transfer nor make any other disposition of such credits, other personal property, or debts until the board shall have consented to a transfer or disposition, or until twenty days shall have elapsed from and after the receipt of such notice. All persons so notified must, within five days after receipt of such notice, advise the board of any and all such credits, other personal property or debts, in their possession, under their control or owing by them, as the case may be.

At any time within three years after any taxpayer is delinquent in the payment of the tax herein provided for, the board may proceed forthwith to collect the tax due from the taxpayer in the following manner: The board shall seize any property, real or personal, of the taxpayer and thereafter sell at public auction such property so seized, or a sufficient portion thereof, to pay the tax due hereunder, together with any interest or penalties imposed hereby for such delinquency, and any and all costs that may have been incurred on account of such seizure and sale. Notice of such intended sale and the time and place thereof, shall be given to such delinquent taxpayer in writing at least ten days before the date set for such sale by enclosing such notice in an envelope addressed to such taxpayer at his last known residence or place of business in this State, if any, and depositing the same in the United States mail, postage prepaid, and by publication for at least ten days before the date set for such sale in a newspaper of general circulation published in the county or city and county in which the property seized is to be sold; provided, that if there be no newspaper of general circulation in such county or city and county, then by the posting of such notice in three public places in such county or city and county ten days prior to the date set for such sale. The said notice shall contain a description of the property to be sold, together with a statement of the amount of the taxes, interest, penalties and costs, the name of the taxpayer, and the further statement that unless such taxes, interest and penalties and costs are paid on or before the time fixed in said notice for such sale, said property, or so much thereof as may be necessary, will be sold in accordance with law and said notice.

At any such sale, the property shall be sold by the board in accordance with law and said notice, and the board shall deliver to the purchaser a bill of sale for the personal property, and a deed for any real property so sold, and such bill of sale or deed shall vest the interest or title of the taxpayer in the purchaser. The unsold portion of any property so seized may be left at the place of sale at the risk of the taxpayer. If upon any such sale, the moneys so received shall exceed the amount of all taxes, interest, penalties and costs due the State from such taxpayer, any such excess shall be returned to the taxpayer, and his receipt therefor obtained, provided, however, that if any person having an interest or lien upon the property has filed with the board prior to any such sale notice of such interest or lien the board shall withhold any such excess pending a determination of the rights of the respective parties thereto by a court of competent jurisdiction. If, for any reason, the receipt of such taxpayer shall not be available, the board shall deposit such excess moneys with the State Treasurer, as trustee for such owner, subject to the order of such taxpayer, his heirs, successors or assigns.

It is expressly provided that the foregoing remedies of the State shall be cumulative and that no action taken by the board or Attorney General shall be construed to be an election on the part of the State or any of its officers to pursue any remedy hereunder to the exclusion of any other remedy for which provision is made in this act.

SEC. 52. Any person or any officer or employee of any corporation, or member or employee of any partnership, who, with intent to evade any requirement of this act or any lawful requirement of the board thereunder shall fail to pay any tax or to make, sign or verify any return or to supply any information required by or under the provisions of this act, or who, with like intent, shall make, render, sign, or verify any false or fraudulent information, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall for each such offense be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars and not more than five thousand dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 53. The certificate of the board to the effect that a tax has not been paid, that a return has not been filed or that information has not been supplied, as required by or under the provisions of this act, shall be prima facie evidence that such tax has not been paid, that such return has not been filed or that such information has not been supplied.

SEC. 54. The board for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any return or for the purpose of making an estimate of the taxable income of any taxpayer, shall have power to examine or cause to be examined by any agent or representative designated by it for that purpose, any books, papers, records or memoranda, bearing upon the matters required to be included in the returns, and may require the attendance of the taxpayers if of the latter concerning knowledge in the processes, and may take testimony and produce great material for its information, with power to administer oaths to such persons as may be required.

SEC. 55. It shall be unlawful for any member of the board or the State Controller or any person serving an administrative duty under this act to divulge any information concerning the financial affairs of persons receiving benefits therefrom; provided, however, that the Governor may authorize constitution of any committee or other State officers, in which case the information obtained shall not be made public; provided, further, that such returns may be examined, with the consent of the Governor, by any officers or members of the Board of Finance, or by a reciprocal arrangement of course.

Any violation of the provisions of this section shall be a misdemeanor, and may be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 56. The board is hereby charged with the enforcement of the provisions of this act and is hereby authorized and empowered to promulgate rules and orders, rules and regulations relating to the administration and enforcement of the provisions of this act and to employ such accountants, auditors, stenographers, messengers and clerks as may be determined to be necessary by the Finance Administration of this act.

SEC. 57. All moneys and remittances received or to be received by payment of the provisions of this act shall be transmitted only to the State Treasurer, and copies of the schedules covering such transmittals shall be furnished at the same time to the State Controller.

All moneys and remittances so received and so transmitted shall be deposited, after clearance of remittances, in the State treasury and continue in the "Income Tax fund," which fund is hereby created.

For expenditure by the board in carrying out the provisions of this act there is hereby appropriated a sum of money equal to one hundred thousand dollars and three per cent, or so much thereof as may be required, of the State income fund in the income tax fund; and one per cent, of the State income fund, and moneys in the general fund not otherwise appropriated, the remainder of the moneys hereby appropriated being payable out of the income tax fund; provided, that out of said three per cent of said State income fund in the income tax fund on or before June 30, 1937, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars shall be returned into the general fund. The expenditure by the Controller in carrying out the provisions of this act shall be made hereunder out of the income tax fund the sum of twenty thousand dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary, and for expenditure by the State Treasury in carrying out the provisions of this act there is hereby appropriated out of the income tax fund the sum of ten thousand dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary. The balance of the moneys in the income tax fund shall, upon order of the State Controller, be drawn therefrom for the purpose of making refunds hereunder to be transmitted to the general fund of the State.

SEC. 58. Any violation of the provisions of this act shall be a misdemeanor, and unless another punishment is specifically provided for, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 59. The taxes imposed by this act shall apply to the net income of persons taxable hereunder received or accrued on and after January 1, 1935.

SEC. 60. For the purpose of this act a personal holding company whether or not organized under the laws of this State shall not be considered as a distinct entity separate and distinct from the shareholders therein. Any such company having more than one shareholder shall be deemed a partnership.

SEC. 61. If any section, subsection, clause, sentence or phrase of this act which is reasonably separable from the remaining portions of this act be held by reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed the remaining portions of this act irrespective of the fact that any such section, subsection, clause, sentence or phrase of this act be deemed unconstitutional.

SEC. 62. This act shall be known as the "Personal Income Tax Act of 1935."

SEC. 63. This act, inasmuch as it provides for a tax levy for the fiscal year of the expenses of the State, shall, under the provisions of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, take effect immediately.

Senate Bill No. 418—An act to add a new section to the Political Code to be numbered 3663e, relating to the correction of errors by the State Board of Equalization in assessments made by said board.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Revenue and Taxation, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 418 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 2, line 2, of the printed bill, strike out the word "prescribed", and in lieu thereof insert the following: "preserved".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 2 of the printed bill, add the following:

"In the event of the failure or neglect of any person, partnership, joint stock association, company, corporation, or other taxpayer, whose property is required to be assessed by the State Board of Equalization, to return to said board for taxation any property between the first Monday of March and the first Monday of April of any year, such property, when discovered by the board to have escaped taxation for such year, if such property is in the ownership or under the control of the same company or other taxpayer who owned or controlled it on the first Monday of March, shall be assessed, and the said board shall transmit a statement of such assessment to the auditor or other chief accounting officer of the county, city and county, city or town in which the property is located with respect to which the assessment is made, and he shall enter such assessment on the assessment book or roll of said county, city and county, city or town, and the statement of assessment shall be filed by said auditor or other chief accounting officer and preserved by him as a public record, and he shall make the proper changes or credits in his account with the tax collector. If personal property is discovered and assessed after the first day of December, a penalty equal to ten per cent of the tax shall attach to the tax so levied. The same procedure for notifying the auditor or other chief accounting officer of the county, city and county, city or town in which the personal property is located shall be followed by the board as prescribed above for other property.

The authority granted to the State Board of Equalization to assess property which has escaped taxation and to enter the same upon the assessment or tax roll of the year for which said property should have been assessed or taxed, shall be limited to a period of not more than two years from the date upon which the lien for taxes of such were attached, and the authority to seize and sell said property for the nonpayment of such taxes shall be extended for a like period of time. Property taxable under the provisions of section 3627a of the Political Code of the State of California is not subject to the provisions of this section."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, engrossment, and on file for third reading.

Senate Bill No. 64—An act to amend section 3818 of the Political Code, relating to segregation of property on the assessment rolls.

Senate Bill No. 218—An act directing the Department of Public Works to lay out and construct as a part of the State highway system a road and bridge from the city of Needles easterly over and across the Colorado River and declaring the same to be a public highway and a part of the State highway system, requiring the maintenance thereof and prescribing the manner in which the cost of such construction and maintenance shall be paid.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Roads and Highways, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 218 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 1 of the title of the printed bill, strike the word "act", insert all the rest of the title, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Establishing and authorizing an additional secondary State highway from the city of Needles, Arizona, to the Arizona-California State line, including a bridge over the Colorado River, providing for the construction, maintenance and ownership of such bridge, acting by the States of California and Arizona, and amending the Streets and Highways Code in conformance therewith."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, strike out the words: "The Department of Public Works of the State", and strike out lines 2 to 12, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Section 358 of the Streets and Highways Code is amended to read as follows:

358. Route 58 is from Route 2 near Santa Margarita to the Arizona State line near Topock, Arizona, via Bakewell, Mojave, Beaman, and Needles, together with an extension from a point on such Route 58 near Needles, southwesterly by the most direct and practicable route to the Arizona-California line at the Colorado River, including a bridge over and across said river, to be constructed, owned, operated, and maintained jointly with the State of Arizona."

Amendment No. 3.

On page 2 of the printed bill, strike out that portion of line 1 following the words "Sec. 2", and strike out lines 2 to 15, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "The Department of Public Works is directed to consider the extension referred to in section 1 hereof when the State of Arizona has made primary the completing a highway permanent in character either as a part of the Federal aid system in Arizona, or as a construction between said bridge and a highway which is a part of the Federal aid system in Arizona, and when a contract has been executed by properly authorized officers of the State of Arizona, on behalf of said State, and by the Director of Public Works, on behalf of this State, making adequate provision for the construction, maintenance and ownership of such joint bridge. The Director of Public Works is authorized to negotiate and execute such a contract on behalf of this State, provided that each State shall bear one-half of the cost of construction and maintenance of such bridge."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Roads and Highways.

Senate Bill No. 511—An act to provide for the incorporation and organization and management of rapid transit districts and to provide for the construction by said districts of works and the acquisition of all property necessary therefor, and also to provide for the issuance and payment of bonds by said districts, and for the levying of taxes and the collection of charges and tolls by said districts and for the annexation of additional territory thereto.

"Whenever the board of directors desires to locate or construct works of the district along any bridge, street, avenue or highway which is under the jurisdiction, management and control of any other district, public or municipal corporation, or the State of California, the right so to do must be first obtained from such district, public or municipal corporation, or State, and such works shall be constructed only in such manner as may be agreed upon between the board of directors and such other district or public or municipal corporation, or State."

Amendment No. 9.

On page 18 of the printed bill, strike out lines 24 to 28, inclusive; strike out lines 20 to 28, inclusive, and in lieu thereof insert the following:

"Sec. 24. In case any rapid transit district is incorporated under this act in any territory in which there has already been formed any municipal utility district, public utility district, bridge and highway district, or other public corporation, having any of the powers which are herein conferred upon a rapid transit district, none of the territory of such municipal utility district, public utility district, or bridge and highway district shall be deemed or shall therefore be held to be severed or in any way taken from such municipal utility district, public utility district, or bridge and highway district, and nothing in this act contained shall ever be deemed to impair the powers of any municipal utility district, public utility district, bridge and highway district, or any municipal corporation existing in whole or in part within the boundaries of such rapid transit district, and shall any rapid transit district acquire by reason of its incorporation or organization any of the powers of any of such districts, or such public or municipal corporations, existing within the boundaries of such newly organized rapid transit district."

Amendment No. 10.

Amendment No. 11.

On page 1, line 13, of the printed bill, after the word "district", strike out all of line 13 beginning with word "or", and strike out all of 14 and 15, and part of line 16 up to and including word "initiative", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "which said ordinance shall also provide for calling an election without delay for the submission of the proposition to the qualified electors thereof at a special election, as provided for the calling of special elections upon the laws pertaining thereto, to be held in conformity therewith, for the purpose of determining, by a majority vote of the electors voting thereat, whether the proposed district shall be created and established. All expenses of said election shall be borne by said respective counties in which such elections are held. The proposition to be submitted at such election shall be entitled upon the ballot as follows, to wit: 'Do you favor organizing a rapid transit district under the provisions of the Rapid Transit District Act of 1935?'." Provision shall be made on said ballot for each elector to vote "yes" or "no" on said issue.

Instead of said ordinance, a petition may be presented to the board of supervisors of a county, or city and county, signed by qualified electors thereof equal in number to at least ten per cent of the total vote cast at the last general State election within the said county. Said petition shall contain substantially the same declarations and statements required to be contained in the said ordinance, and said electors declare that, in the opinion of the petitioners public interest or necessity demands the creation and maintenance of a metropolitan rapid transit district. Such petition may be on separate papers, but each paper shall contain the initials of the party who circulated it, certifying that each name signed thereon is a true signature of the person whose name it purports to be. The clerk of the board of supervisors of said county shall compare the signatures with the affidavits of registration and certify to the sufficiency or insufficiency of such petition.

Upon receipt of a sufficient petition as aforesaid, said board of supervisors shall call an election in the same manner as heretofore provided for the submission of said ordinance, for the purpose of determining by a majority vote of said electors, whether the proposed rapid transit district shall be created and established. Such elections shall be held not less than sixty days and not more than ninety days from the receipt of such petition."

"Sec. 851. The government of such city shall be vested in:

1. A city council composed of five members,

2. A city clerk

3. A city treasurer,

4. A city marshal who may be known as the chief of police,

5. A city judge.

6. Such subordinate officers or employees as are hereinafter provided for.

SEC. 852. The members of the city council, the city clerk and the city treasurer shall be elected by the qualified electors of such city at a general municipal election. Such a general municipal election shall be held therein on the second Monday in April in each even-numbered year. Members of the city council and the city clerk and the city treasurer shall hold office for the period of four years from and after the Monday next succeeding the day of such election, and every third year members are elected and qualified. The respective terms of the members of the first city council elected under the provisions of this section shall be determined as follows: The two members elected by the highest number of votes shall hold office for four years; and the three members elected by the lowest number of votes shall hold office for two years. In the event that two or more members should be chosen by the same number of votes, the respective terms of each shall be decided by lot.

The city council shall appoint the city marshal and the city judge; it may also in its discretion appoint a city attorney, a superintendent of streets, a civil engineer, a court clerk, and such other subordinate officers or employees as in its judgment may be deemed necessary; provided, that at a general city election the city council may submit to the electors for their approval or disapproval an ordinance defining the powers and duties of a city marshal and fixing his compensation and providing that he shall be elected by the electors of the city at the general municipal elections in the same manner and for the same term as members of the city council. The compensation of all appointive officers and employees may be fixed from time to time by the city council by resolution or ordinance, and said officers and employees shall hold office during the pleasure of said city council."

SEC. 33. The tax imposed by section 24 of this act upon the sale of distilled spirits shall be collected by means of attaching to each package containing such distilled spirits a stamp or stamps of a denomination equivalent to the amount of excise tax imposed upon the sale of the contents of such package. Such stamps shall be attached immediately after the delivery of distilled spirits to premises for which an on or off sale distilled spirits license is issued under this act or for which an on or off sale license for liquor other than beer or wine is issued under the State Liquor Control Act.

Such stamps shall be sold only by the board or its duly authorized agents and shall be sold only to persons holding valid on or off sale distilled spirits licenses issued under this act and to persons holding valid on or off sale licenses for liquor other than beer and wine issued under the State Liquor Control Act.

Such stamps shall be of such size, type, and character as the board shall determine.

SEC. 34. It shall be unlawful for any person holding an on or off sale distilled spirits license issued under this act, or an on or off sale license for liquor other than beer or wine issued under the State Liquor Control Act to have upon the premises for which any such license is issued or to sell at such premises, any distilled spirits unless the stamps required by this act to be attached to the containers of such distilled spirits are so attached to said containers.

Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 35. It shall be unlawful for any person other than the board or its duly authorized agents to sell or give away any stamps issued by the board pursuant to the provisions of this act unless such stamps are attached to packages of distilled spirits as herein required. Any person violating the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

SEC. 36. Every person who makes, sells, or uses any false or counterfeit stamp, or permit, or die for printing or making stamps or permits which is in imitation of or purports to be a lawful stamp, permit or die of the kind before mentioned in this act, or who procures the same to be done, and every person who shall remove or cause to be removed, from any package of distilled spirits any stamp denoting the tax thereon, with intent to reuse such stamp, or who with intent to defraud the State, knowingly uses, or permits to be used any stamp removed from another package, or receives, buys, sells, gives away, or has in his possession, any stamp so removed, or makes any fraudulent use of any stamp for distilled spirits, shall be guilty of a felony and shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, and imprisoned not less than six months nor more than three years in the State prison.

SEC. 37. All moneys collected by the board as license fees and under the excise tax provisions of this act shall be deposited in the State treasury to the credit of the alcohol beverage control fund, which fund is hereby created. There is hereby appropriated from said fund:

1. Six hundred thousand dollars for expenditures by the board in carrying out the provisions of this act for collecting the excise taxes levied by this act;

2. Twelve thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, for expenditure by the Controller in carrying out the provisions of this act requiring the collection of excise taxes;

3. Sixty thousand dollars per biennium to be used by the State Department of Public Health for enforcement work directed toward preventing the manufacture, sale or transportation of adulterated, misbranded or mislabeled alcoholic beverages;

4. One million four hundred thousand dollars to pay the salaries and expenses of auditors, inspectors and clerks employed by the board and to defray the necessary expenses arising by reason of the administration and enforcement of the provisions of this act;

5. Fifty per cent of all moneys collected yearly from license fees, to be paid to the counties, cities and counties, and cities of this State in the proportion that the amount of the fees collected in the particular county, city and county, or city bears to the total amount so collected throughout the State, and the State Controller shall, on or before March 31st of the year following that in which such moneys were collected, draw his warrants upon said fund in favor of the treasurer of each county, city and county, and city for the amount to which each is entitled hereunder;

6. Such amount as is necessary for the allowance of the refunds provided for in this act;

7. Any remaining balance to be transferred to the general fund on the order of the Controller approved by the board.

The moneys to be used by the State Department of Public Health for enforcement work shall be expended as provided in "An act preventing the manufacture, sale or transportation of adulterated, mislabeled or misbranded food, liquor and drugs, and making an appropriation," approved March 11, 1907. The Director of Public Health shall communicate to the State Board of Equalization any findings which indicate that such act has been violated by any holder of a license under this act."

Request referred to Committee on Rules.

Communication.

The following communication was received, and ordered printed in the Journal:

CALIFORNIA REAL ESTATE ASSOCIATION,
SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, April 19, 1935.

The Senate of the State of California.

Attention: Lieutenant Governor George J. Hatfield,
Sacramento, California.

GENTLEMEN: We believe that a large majority of the people of California stand with Governor Frank F. Merriam in his determination to balance California's State budget on a "pay-as-you-go" basis. We believe that the members of your honorable body are in accord upon the principle of a balanced budget in order to preserve California as a solvent State. However, a balanced budget requires new sources of revenue because of the readjustment under the Riley-Stewart plan for the relief of real estate. The past few weeks have shown that the differences of opinion upon where these new revenues must be obtained are effectively blocking all efforts to promote a tax program. It is therefore obvious that in order to balance the budget legislators must provide taxes that the burden may be equitably distributed over all those with the ability to pay. By this means only can the State of California continue to be solvent and receive revenues which will provide for the operation of the State government services, and for subventions to counties for services which they are now rendering, because the State government is in large measure a tax collecting agency for the counties.

The California Real Estate Association therefore urges the legislative bodies of this State and the members thereof, individually and collectively, together with all business interests whose representatives are in Sacramento with legislative counsel, to cooperate in balancing the State budget. We must remember that the entire State must cheerfully enter upon the business of balancing this budget in support of good government.

This communication is written in the belief that a serious emergency exists and we earnestly trust that your honorable body will put revenue legislation ahead of all matters to the end that our State and county services may be kept solvent.

Respectfully submitted.

CALIFORNIA REAL ESTATE ASSOCIATION.

CHARLES W. BROCK, President.
GLENN D. WILLAMAN, Secretary.

the Railroad Commission of the State of California, providing for the collection thereof by the Railroad Commission, and providing penalties for the violation of this act.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Public Utilities, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 355 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

Strike out section 1 of the printed bill, and substitute in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. For the purpose of correlating and regulating the rates charged for the transportation of property by the various transportation agencies in the State subject to the jurisdiction of the Railroad Commission of the State of California, and for the purpose of creating a special fund to administer and enforce the laws conferring upon the Railroad Commission of the State of California jurisdiction to regulate and rates of transportation agencies carrying property for compensation and to administer and enforce the 'Highway Carrier Act,' every railroad, interurban, common carrier, freight forwarder, and every person or corporation operating vessels, or other terms are defined in the Public Utilities Act of the State of California, and every person or corporation owning or operating motor vehicles in the transportation of property for hire upon the public highway under the jurisdiction of the Railroad Commission of the State of California, shall between the first and fifteenth days of October, 1935, and thereafter between the first and fifteenth days of January, April, July and October of each year, file with the Railroad Commission a statement showing the gross operating revenue derived by such person or corporation from the transportation of property for the preceding three calendar months, and shall at the time of filing such report pay to the said Railroad Commission of the State of California a fee of one-fourth of one per cent of the amount of such gross operating revenue. The term 'gross operating revenue' as used herein shall include all revenue derived from the transportation of property having origin and destination within the State of California, including the transportation of interstate or foreign commerce by rail or highway between ports in the State of California and inland points in the State of California, but shall not include revenue derived by ferries from the transportation of vehicles."

Amendment No. 2.

Strike out section 2 of the printed bill, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SEC. 2. All fees charged and collected under this act shall be deposited at least once a month in the State treasury to the credit of the Railroad Commission transportation rate fund, which special fund is hereby created, and shall be so apportioned of the current appropriation by the Legislature for the support of the Railroad Commission of the State of California and shall be expended by the Railroad Commission for the purpose of administering and enforcing the 'Highway Carrier Act,' and also for the purpose of administering and enforcing those provisions of the Public Utilities Act and other acts of the State of California conferring upon the Railroad Commission jurisdiction over the rates, charges and assessments, and the rules, regulations and practices relating thereto, of carriers of property for compensation."

Amendment No. 3.

Strike out section 3 of the printed bill, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SEC. 3. If any transportation agency referred to herein shall be so delinquent in the payment of the fees prescribed for a period of thirty (30) days or more, the Railroad Commission of the State of California is hereby authorized to institute suit in its own name or in the name of the people of the State of California in any superior court of the State of California, for the collection of such delinquent fees together with a penalty of twenty-five per cent for such delinquency."

Amendment No. 4.

Strike out section 4 of the printed bill, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SEC. 4. If any section, sentence, clause or part of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, sentence, clause, or part thereof, except as hereinafter specifically provided, irrespective of the fact that one or more sections, sentences, clauses or parts shall be declared unconstitutional."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Public Utilities.

Senate Bill No. 446—An act relating to contracts between companies and public agencies for the delivery or sale of water or electrical energy by the former to the latter and providing for the enforcement of the provisions of the act.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Public Utilities, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 446 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 2 of the title of the printed bill, after "water", insert the following: ", gas".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 3 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "and", and insert in lieu thereof a semicolon.

Amendment No. 3.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out line 4 of the title, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "regulation, supervision and licensing of such companies, and providing for the enforcement of this act and penalties for the violation thereof."

Amendment No. 4.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 11 to 26, inclusive.

Amendment No. 5.

On page 2 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 1 to 30, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "Section 1. 'Company' does not include a public utility as defined in the Public Utilities Act approved April 23, 1915, as amended."

SEC. 2. No company shall consummate the execution of a contract with a public agency for the delivery or sale of water, gas or electrical energy, which was entered over a period in excess of five years, unless such company shall have first applied for and secured from the commissioner a license authorizing it to execute and deliver each such contract. Such application shall be in writing, shall be verified as provided in the Code of Civil Procedure for the verification of pleadings, and shall be filed in the office of the commissioner. In such application the company shall set forth an itemized account of its financial statement, the amount and character of its assets and liabilities, a copy of the proposed contract, a detailed statement of the proposed plan of operation under the contract, and such additional information as the commissioner may require with a view to determining the feasibility of the project and the ability of the company to perform fully its obligations thereunder, and also the obligations incident to its general operations.

SEC. 3. Upon the filing of such application, it shall be the duty of the commissioner to examine it and the other papers and documents filed therewith, and he may, if he deems it necessary, cause or have made a detailed examination, audit, and investigation of the company and its affairs. If he finds that the company's proposed plan of operation is feasible, that it intends to fairly and honestly transact its business, that it and its officers have a good business reputation, and that it has sufficient financial responsibility to carry out its obligations under the contract and those incident to its general operations, the commissioner shall issue to the company a license authorizing it to consummate the execution of the proposed contract. Otherwise, he shall deny the application and notify the company in writing of his decision.

SEC. 4. The commissioner is authorized to cooperate with and receive the cooperation and assistance of the Railroad Commission, the Division of Water Resources or of any other department or agency of the State to assist and aid the commissioner in carrying out the purposes of this act, and to make any examinations, audits and investigations authorized under the provisions of this act which may be ordered by the commissioner.

SEC. 5. For filing such application, the company shall pay and the commissioner shall charge and collect a fee of one hundred dollars.

SEC. 6. All papers, documents, records, and other instruments in writing filed with the commissioner under this act, shall be open to public inspection; provided that if, in his judgment, the public welfare or the welfare of the company or the public agency demands that any portion of such information be not made public, he may, in his discretion, withhold such information from public inspection for such time as in his judgment is necessary.

SEC. 7. Every decision or other official act of the commissioner shall be subject to review in accordance with the provisions of Chapter I, Title I of Part III of the Code of Civil Procedure. Upon such review the burden of proof shall be upon the appellant, and the court may receive and consider any pertinent evidence, whether oral or documentary, concerning the action of the commissioner under review, but shall be limited to a consideration and determination of the question whether there has been an abuse of discretion on the part of the commissioner in rendering such decision or performing such official act.

SEC. 8. Every contract of the character referred to in section 2 of this act that is executed and delivered by any company not holding a license from the commissioner at the time shall be void, and such company shall be guilty of a public offense and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding ten thousand dollars, and every officer of such company who knowingly authorizes, directs or aids in or who actually executes and delivers such contract is guilty of a public offense and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for a period not exceeding five years, or in a county jail not exceeding two years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 9. In connection with any investigation conducted hereunder, the commissioner or any of his assistants and deputies shall have the right to inspect books and records, and shall have power to administer oaths, certify to official acts, receive subpoenas for the attendance of witnesses, and for the production of papers, books, accounts, documents and testimony in any part of the State and exercise all of the powers conferred upon the commissioner by section 23 of the Corporate Securities Act and all of the provisions of said section 23 in so far as they are applicable are incorporated herein with the same force and effect as if herein set forth at length. The actual expense of any examination, audit and investigation made pursuant to the provisions of section 3 of this act shall be paid by the company.

SEC. 10. Every officer, agent or employee of any company and every other person who, in any application to the commissioner, or in any proceeding before him, or in any examination, audit or investigation made by him, or his authority, knowingly makes any false statement or representation, or who, with knowledge of its falsity, files or causes to be filed in the office of the commissioner any false statement or representation concerning such company or the property which it then holds or proposes to acquire, or concerning its officers or its financial condition or other affairs or concerning its proposed plan of operation, or who, in any respect, wilfully violates or fails to comply with any of the provisions of this act, or who, in any other respect, wilfully violates or fails, omits, or neglects to obey, observe, or comply with any decision, demand, or requirement or any part or provision thereof of the commissioner under the provisions of this act, or who with one or more other persons conspires to violate any of the provisions of this act, is guilty of a public offense and shall be punished by imprisonment in the State prison for a period not exceeding five years, or in a county jail not exceeding two years, or by a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 11. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, or phrase of this act is for any reason held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this act. The Legislature hereby declares that it would have passed this act, and each section, subsection, sentence, clause, and phrase thereof, irrespective of the fact that any one or more other sections, subsections, sentences, clauses or phrases be declared unconstitutional."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Public Utilities.

Senate Bill No. 447—An act to add a new section to the Public Utilities Act to be numbered 19½, relating to wharfingers.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Public Utilities, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 447 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 3, of the printed bill, after "wharfinger", insert the following "operating as a public utility under tariffs on file with the commission."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 4, of the printed bill, strike out "of property".

Amendment No. 3.

On page 1, line 6, of the printed bill, strike out "in which such wharfinger may have any interest"; also strike out lines 7 to 19, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "(other than timber and the manufactured products thereof; or petroleum and the manufactured products thereof, or grain and the manufactured products thereof) manufactured, mined, made, or produced by, or under the authority of, or owned in whole or in part by such wharfinger, or by any person directly or indirectly controlling, managing, or operating such wharfinger, or in which such wharfinger, or any person with which it may be affiliated, may have any interest, direct or indirect, except such articles or commodities as may be necessary and intended for the use of such wharfinger in the conduct of its public utility business; provided, however, that the Railroad Commission may, after formal hearing, upon its own motion, upon complaint, or upon petition, permit the performance of such service by any wharfinger, for such time and under such terms and conditions as may be determined to be in the public interest, when it is made to appear that such service is in the interest of the public, and is of advantage to the convenience of the people, and to the natural flow of commerce, and that the service will not be so used as to compel additional transportation service or costs, and that said service will not result in any unfair competition or unfair trade practice, or in any undue advantage to such wharfinger, or in any disadvantage to any other wharfinger, and is a desirable operation on account of the distance or inaccessibility of other wharves or ports."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Public Utilities.

Senate Constitutional Amendment No. 15.

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of the State by amending section 18 of Article XI thereof, relating to the incurring of indebtedness by political subdivisions.

Resolved by the Senate, the Assembly concurring. That the Legislature of the State of California, at its fifty-first regular session, commencing on the seventh day of January, 1935, two-thirds of the members elected to each of the two houses of the Legislature voting therefor, hereby proposes to the people of the State of California that the Constitution of the State be amended by amending section 18 of Article XI thereof, to read as follows:

Sec. 18. No county, city, town, township, board of education or school district, shall incur any indebtedness or liability in any manner or for any purpose exceeding in any year the income and revenue provided for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose, at which not less than fifty-five per cent of the qualified registered electors participate, nor unless before or at the time of incurring such indebtedness provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest on such indebtedness as it falls due, and also provision to constitute a sinking fund for the payment of the principal thereof on or before maturity, which shall not exceed 40 years from the time of contracting the same; provided, however, anything to the contrary herein notwithstanding, when two or more propositions for incurring any indebtedness or liability be submitted at the same election and not less than 55 per cent of the qualified registered voters participate in said election, the same cast for and against such proposition shall be counted separately, and when two-thirds of the qualified electors, voting on any one of such propositions, vote in favor thereof, such proposition shall be deemed adopted; provided, further, that the City and County of San Francisco may at any time pay the unpaid claims, with interest thereon at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, for materials furnished to and work done for said city and county during the fourth year, fifth year, sixth year, seventh year, eighth year, ninth year, tenth year, eleventh year, twelfth year, thirteenth year, fourteenth year, fifteenth year, sixteenth year, seventeenth year, eighteenth year, nineteenth year, twentieth year, twenty-first year, twenty-second year, twenty-third, twenty-fourth and fiftieth fiscal years, and for unpaid claims, including the fiftieth fiscal year, out of the income and revenue of any succeeding year or years, the amount to be paid in full of said claims not to exceed in the aggregate the sum of $500,000 and that no statute of limitations shall apply in any manner to these claims; and provided, further, that the city of Vallejo, of Solano County, may pay its existing indebtedness incurred for the construction of its waterworks, whenever two-thirds of the electors thereof, voting at an election held for that purpose, shall so decide, and that no statute of limitations shall apply in any manner; provided, further, that the city of Vallejo shall pay all of its indebtedness incurred during the years 1914, 1915 and 1916 in excess of the income and revenue for said years, the amount to be paid in full of said indebtedness not to exceed in the aggregate the sum of $800,000, whenever two-thirds of the voters thereof voting at an election held for that purpose shall so decide, and that no statute of limitations shall apply in any manner. Any indebtedness or liability incurred contrary to this provision, with the exceptions herebefore recited, shall be void. The City and County of San Francisco, the city of San Jose, and the town of Santa Clara may make provision for a sinking fund to pay the principal of any indebtedness incurred, or to be hereafter incurred by it, at any time or at a time after the incurring of such indebtedness, if at any time a portion of the principal of the time of maturity of such indebtedness, which shall not exceed 75 per cent from the time of contracting the same. Any indebtedness incurred contrary to any provision of this section shall be void; and provided, further, that the county of Alameda may, upon the assent of two-thirds of the qualified electors thereof voting at an election, to be held for that purpose, incur a bonded indebtedness of not to exceed $1,000,000, and the legislative authority of said county of Alameda shall cause such bonds to be issued and grant and turn over to the Panama-Pacific International Exposition Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of California, March 22, 1916, the proceeds of said bonds for stock in said company or under such other terms and conditions as said legislative authority may determine; the same to be used and disbursed by said exposition company for the purposes of an exposition to be held in the City and County of San Francisco to celebrate the completion of the Panama Canal; said bonds, so issued, to be of such form and to be negotiable, registered and converted in such manner and amounts, and at such times not later than ten years from the date of their issue as the legislative authority of said county of Alameda shall determine; the interest on said bonds not to exceed 5 per centum per annum, and said bonds to be exempt from all taxes for State, county and municipal purposes, and to be sold for not less than par at such times and places, and in such manner, as shall be determined by said legislative authority; the proceeds of said bonds, when sold, to be payable immediately upon such times or contingencies as said legislative body may determine to the treasurer of said Panama-Pacific International Exposition Company, upon demands of said treasurer of said exposition company, without the necessity of the approval of such demands by votes other than said legislative authority of Alameda County. The same to be used and disbursed by said Panama-Pacific International Exposition Company for the purposes of such exposition, under the direction and control of said exposition company; and the legislative authority of said county of Alameda is hereby authorized and directed to levy a special tax on all taxable property in said county and to pay before the issue of said bonds to raise an amount to pay the interest on said bonds as the same become due, and to create a sinking fund to pay the principal thereof when the same shall become due.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 12.

Relative to memorializing the President and the Congress of the United States to enact H. R. 4688 which proposes to aid in the rehabilitation of employable blind persons in the United States and urging the Committee on Labor of the House of Representatives to expedite consideration favorable to said bill.

WHEREAS, During recent times there has been a great deal of public interest and discussion on the part of social and welfare organizations and individuals of the necessity to enact immediate legislation for the purpose of rehabilitating employable blind persons in the United States; and

WHEREAS, The problem of the blind and the training thereof for fitness to find lucrative employment in the trades and professions has long challenged resourcefulness of agencies engaged in bettering the conditions of the blind; and

WHEREAS, On January 24, 1935, there was introduced in the House of Representatives by Jennings Randolph of West Virginia a bill known as H. R. 4688 which has as its purpose "to rehabilitate employable blind persons in the United States by permitting them to operate news stands in the Federal buildings, to find other suitable stand locations and to make a National survey of industries wherein blind persons can be employed, and to train, place and advise blind persons in such job"; and

WHEREAS, There is now no form of employment as suitable and as satisfactory for blind persons which enables such persons to approach a normal economic status as the operation of news stands in Federal buildings; and

WHEREAS, Federal and State agencies are now assisting which are capable of administering this humanitarian project; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and Assembly of the State of California, jointly. That the President and Congress of the United States are respectfully urged to enact legislation proposed by H. R. 4688, and that the Committee on Labor of the House of Representatives is also urged to expedite consideration favorable to said bill; and be it further

Resolved. That the Governor of the State of California is hereby requested to transmit copies of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives and to the chairman of the Committee on Labor of the House of Representatives, and to each member of the Committee on Labor of the House of Representatives and to each Senator and member of the House of Representatives from California in the Congress of the United States and that such Senators and members from California are hereby respectfully urged to support such legislation.

Report of Standing Committee.

The following report of standing committee was received and read:

On Oil Industries.

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, April 17, 1935.

MR. PRESIDENT. Your Committee on Oil Industries, to which was referred the following Senate resolution offered by Senator Dwyer:

Resolution.

WHEREAS, It has been ascertained and is common knowledge that one of the largest and most valuable oil and gas pools in the State of California occupies the rangelands belonging to the State in the vicinity of Huntington Beach, in Orange County; and

WHEREAS, It is commonly reported and claimed that a corporation known as The Standard Oil Company of California has taken many millions of barrels of oil and many billions of cubic feet of gas from said pool, aggregating in value many millions of dollars belonging to the State of California, without any legal right thereto and without payment to the State therefor; and

WHEREAS, It is reported that the Director of Finance and the Chief of the Division of State Lands in the Department of Finance in the State are negotiating a settlement of the State's claim against said corporation in the premises for a comparatively few thousand dollars, as a full settlement and discharge of said claim; and

WHEREAS, There are a number of bills now pending in the Legislature relating directly or indirectly to this great oil and gas resource of the State, in the consideration of which the Legislature should have before it all of the facts relating to the State's interest therein and its right to the oil and gas, and the proceeds thereof, taken from said resource by said corporation and any and all other corporations and individuals, and full information in regard to any pending proceedings and proposed settlements with reference thereto; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California. That a special committee of five (5) Senators be appointed by the President of the Senate to make a full and complete investigation of all operations and proceedings, past and present, of The Standard Oil Company of California and any and all other persons, firms, associations or corporations in connection with the abstraction of oil and gas from rangelands belonging to the State and all actions of the Department of Finance and of the Attorney General with respect thereto, and all and singular the facts, information and data as to the amount of oil and gas, if any, taken from rangelands belonging to the State in the vicinity of the city of Huntington Beach, county of Orange, State of California, and the market value of such oil and gas as of the time of its production, and of any and all proceedings taken in respect thereto by the Department of Finance and the Attorney General, and the circumstances, terms and conditions of any proposed settlement by the Department of Finance, or any division thereof, of the claims of the State of California with reference thereto, and into such additional facts and circumstances as said committee may deem proper to enable the Legislature to fully protect the rights of the State in the premises and in the oil and gas underlying tidelands and other lands belonging to the State; and be it further

Resolved, That said special committee is hereby authorized to hold public meetings at any place in the State of California; and be it further

Resolved, That said special committee in making said investigation is hereby authorized and empowered to require the production of books, agreements, documents and papers of every kind and description; to issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of testimony, and to do any and all things necessary to make a full and complete investigation of the matters herein mentioned. Each member of said special committee is hereby authorized to administer oaths, and all of the provisions of Article VIII of Chapter II, Title I, Part III of the Political Code, relative to the attendance and assembly of witnesses before the Legislature and committees thereof, shall apply to said special committee. Said committee is authorized to sit during the present session of the Legislature and during any recess or adjournment thereof, and to report back to the Senate with recommendations during the present or any future session of the Legislature; and be it further

Resolved, That the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars ($2,500), or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the committee and the cost of this investigation, is hereby made available and appropriated out of the contingent fund of the Senate, and the State Controller is authorized and directed to draw his warrants in favor of the person or persons entitled thereto for such expenditures as may be certified to him from time to time by the chairman of the committee, and the State Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

Has had the same under consideration and respectfully reports the same back with amendments, and recommends that the amendments be adopted, but makes no further recommendation as to final disposition of the resolution.

Committee membership—9; committee vote: Ayes—8; absent—1.

STOW, Chairman.

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 10 to 27, inclusive, and strike out all of pages 2 to 11, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"705. The production, transportation, processing, distribution and sale of fluid milk and of fluid cream and the dissemination of accurate, scientific information as to the importance of milk and other dairy products in the maintenance of a high level of public health, is hereby declared to be a business affected with a public interest. The provisions of this chapter are enacted in the exercise of police powers of this State for the purpose of protecting the health and welfare of the people of this State.

706. The purpose of this chapter is to enable the dairy industry with the aid of the State to correct existing evils, develop and maintain satisfactory marketing conditions, and bring about a reasonable amount of stability and prosperity in the production and marketing of fluid milk and fluid cream and provide means for carrying on essential educational activities. It is the intent of the Legislature that the powers herein conferred shall be liberally construed. Nothing in this chapter shall be construed as permitting or authorizing the development of conditions of monopoly in the production or distribution of fluid milk or fluid cream. In the establishment and amendment of the minimum prices, terms and conditions under which fluid milk and fluid cream shall be purchased from producers, and under which distributors and retail stores shall sell and distribute the same, such prices, terms and conditions shall be those which will, in the several localities and markets of the State and under the varying conditions of production and distribution insure an adequate and continuous supply of pure fresh wholesome fluid milk and fluid cream to consumers thereof at fair and reasonable prices.

707. The director shall enforce the provisions of this chapter and any production and marketing plan or marketing agreement initiated pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, and for that purpose may make such rules and regulations as he deems necessary.

708. As used in this chapter:

(a) "Board" means any local control board created as herein authorized.

(b) "Fluid milk" includes any milk meeting the health requirements of the place where sold, which has been produced for human consumption as market milk, and any such milk until sold as market cream, or sold to be used in the manufacture of any dairy product.

(c) "Fluid cream" includes any cream produced from milk which meets the health requirements of the place where sold, which has been produced for human consumption as market cream, and which also meets the health requirements for market cream for human consumption of the place where sold and any such cream until sold to be used in the manufacture of any dairy product.

(d) "Dairy products" includes any product manufactured from milk or any derivative or product of milk.

(e) "Producer" means any person who operates a dairy herd or herds for the purpose of producing milk to be sold as fluid milk or fluid cream.

(f) "Distributor" means any person, other than a retail store, irrespective of whether he is also a producer who acquires and sells fluid milk or fluid cream at wholesale or retail.

(g) "Retail store" means any person or persons owning or operating a retail grocery store, restaurant, confectionery or other similar business where fluid milk or fluid cream in original packages or containers are sold at retail to the general public.

(h) "Marketing area" is any area within this State declared to be such in the manner described in this chapter.

(i) "Production and marketing plan" means any plan providing for the control of marketing, processing, distribution, or sale of fluid milk or fluid cream within an area, which is formulated as prescribed in this chapter.

(j) "Marketing agreement" means any marketing agreement formulated under the provisions of this chapter.

(k) "Consumer" means any person who buys milk, cream or dairy products for consumption by himself or his household.

709. The director shall have and may exercise all the powers conferred by section 353 of the Political Code upon the head of a department of the State, in relation to hearings and investigations under this chapter.

710. A full and accurate record of business or acts performed or of testimony taken by the director in pursuance of the provisions of this chapter shall be kept and placed on file in the office of the director.

711. Any order of the director hereunder substantially affecting the rights of any interested party may be reviewed by any court of competent jurisdiction. Any such action must be commenced within thirty days after the effective date of the order complained of or within thirty days after the injurious effect complained of becomes reasonably apparent.

712. The director may bring an action to enjoin the violation or the threatened violation of any provision of this chapter or of any order made pursuant to this chapter in the superior court in the county in which such violation occurs or is about to occur. There may be enjoined in one proceeding any number of defendants alleged to be violating the same provisions or orders, although their properties, interests, residence, or place of business, may be in several counties and the violations separate and distinct. Any proceeding brought hereunder shall be governed in all other respects by the provisions of Chapter III of Title VII, of Part II of the Code of Civil Procedure.

713. The director may confer, enter into agreements, or otherwise arrange with the constituted authorities of this State, other States, or the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, or other agencies of the United States with respect to plans relating to the production, processing, manufacture, distribution and sale of fluid milk and fluid cream within this State or as between this State and other States or the United States, and may exercise his powers hereunder to effectuate and enforce such plans.

714. All moneys received by the director hereunder shall be paid monthly into the State treasury to the credit of the "Department of Agriculture fund" and shall be used only for carrying out the provisions of this chapter.

Article 2. Control of Fluid Milk.

715. Sixty-five per cent or more of the producers who are producing fluid milk commercially for sale within any marketing area, and who produce not less than sixty-five per cent of the total volume of fluid milk produced commercially for such marketing area, may make application to the director for the appointment of a local control board, for the purpose of formulating and administering a production and marketing plan for marketing fluid milk. The percentage of volume shall be determined on the basis of the quantity of fluid milk produced or by the number of pounds of milk fat produced, at the option of the applicants. A nonprofit cooperative association of producers may make application on behalf of its members. Each member of such cooperative association shall be counted as an individual in determining the total number of producers included in such production and marketing plan. The application shall state the boundaries of the marketing area sought to be established, and such other information as may be necessary under the provisions of this chapter and as the director may prescribe.

Accompanying each application shall be sufficient funds to reimburse the director for such expenses as he may incur in carrying out necessary preliminary investigations.

716. Upon the receipt of such application, the director shall determine whether the area sought to be established as a marketing area is such that conditions of production, distribution and sale are reasonably uniform and susceptible to the application of the production and marketing plan. If the director determines that the boundary of the marketing area described in the application should be changed or other modifications made, said application may be amended to incorporate such changes as are deemed necessary by the director.

717. If and when the director determines that the application is properly made, and that the area involved is such that a production and marketing plan is feasible, he shall within forty-five days after the date of receiving such application call a meeting of the producers supplying fluid milk to the marketing area at which meeting such producers shall nominate in a manner prescribed by the director, candidates for a local control board. The director shall appoint a local control board which shall consist of seven members whose major interests in the dairy industry is the production of fluid milk for said marketing area; provided that in such cases in which the director is of the opinion that seven members will not give adequate representation to all factors in the marketing area the board may be increased to not more than thirteen members of like qualifications.

The terms of members of the board shall be two years but the term of three members of the first board shall expire at the end of the first year. Board members shall hold office until the election and qualification of their successors. The members of their first meeting shall determine by lot the relative order in which their terms expire. Vacancies shall be filled by appointment by the director for the unexpired term. The members of the board shall receive no compensation for their services but shall be allowed their necessary traveling and other expenses incurred in the performance of their official duties.

718. The board shall formulate a production and marketing plan. No distributor shall purchase milk from producers who do not comply with all the provisions of this chapter and such plan. Such plan shall be subject to such terms and conditions, not in conflict with existing acts, and regulations pursuant thereto, as may eliminate unfair practices or charges that prevent or tend to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the restoration of normal economic conditions within the fluid milk industry.

Subject to the approval of the director, the board may establish the minimum price to be paid producers and the minimum prices below which fluid milk shall not be sold at processing or distributing plants and minimum prices to retail stores below which milk can not be sold to consumers within the marketing area. In establishing the prices to be paid producers, due consideration shall be given to the economic relationship of butter and other dairy products to the price of fluid milk. In establishing all prices the board shall ascertain, as far as feasible, what prices for fluid milk in the marketing area involved will best protect the dairy industry and insure consumers a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk in the public interest.

719. Any production and marketing plan shall include standards of fair trade practices. In such standards of fair trade practices the following practices shall be prohibited and are hereby declared unlawful:

(a) The payment or allowance of rebates, refunds, commissions or unearned discounts to any customer, whether in the form of money or otherwise.

(b) The giving away of milk or dairy products for the purpose of securing business, except to bona fide charities.

(c) The extension to certain purchasers of special prices or privileges not extended to all purchasers on like terms and conditions.

(d) Any false or misleading advertising, as defined in section 654a of the Penal Code.

(e) Any discrimination between wholesale customers or between consumers as to prices at which fluid milk or fluid cream are sold.

(f) The sale, offer to sell, or giving away of any article at less than the prevailing market price thereof.

The plan may provide means for educational and sales stimulation programs, provided that such educational activities or programs are not unfairly detrimental to other products; and may contain such other provisions as may be necessary to effectuate the provisions of this chapter.

720. Upon its formulation, the plan shall be submitted to the director for his approval. If he finds that the plan is in conformity with the provisions of this chapter and will reasonably effectuate the purposes thereof, he shall declare the plan in effect without unnecessary delay.

Such plan when established may be amended by the board from time to time, but no such amendment shall take effect until approved by the director.

The board may do all things that are necessary for the purposes of carrying out the provisions of the plan. The director may order the board to desist from any course of conduct which is not in accordance with the provisions and purposes of this chapter.

721. The board may assess fees to be paid equally by producers and distributors of fluid milk in the marketing area.

From such assessments there shall be paid to the director such sum, not to exceed one mill per pound of milk fat as may be necessary to defray the expenses incurred by the director in carrying out the provisions of this article. The balance of such fees shall be retained by the board to be used by it to carry out the provisions of the plan.

722. Any person aggrieved by any order or regulation made effective by a board may appeal to the director. Upon such appeal, the director shall make an order granting the redress sought, either in whole or in part or denying the appeal. A failure on the part of the director to grant the redress sought within thirty days shall be deemed a denial of the appeal.

Any plan formulated under the provisions of this chapter, and all orders and regulations respecting the same shall be annulled by the director upon application of fifty-one per cent or more of such persons and volume as could have initiated such plan.

Article 3. Control of Fluid Cream.

723. The production and marketing of fluid cream may be subject to a marketing agreement as provided in this article. In the absence of such agreement, fluid cream may be controlled under a production and marketing plan for fluid milk.

724. In order to carry out the policy of this chapter, the director is empowered to enter into marketing agreements with producers, associations of producers or distributors of fluid cream for any marketing area.

725. Sixty five per cent or more of the persons engaged in, and who represent sixty-five per cent of the volume of production and distribution of fluid cream for any marketing area, may make application to formulate a marketing agreement.

If the director determines that the application is properly made and that the area involved is such that a control plan is feasible, the director shall authorize such applicants to formulate a marketing agreement upon prepayment to him by applicants of preliminary expenses of the director.

726. Such marketing agreement shall contain such provisions as may be necessary to carry out the policy of this chapter and may include provisions:

1. For the appointment of local control boards with such powers as are specified in this agreement.

2. For the raising of funds, derived equitably from all producers and distributors participating in any marketing agreement, for the purpose specified in the marketing agreement, including means for educational and sales stimulation activities but in no case shall any assessment levied against any person exceed two mills per pound milk fat handled by him. From such assessments, there shall be paid to the director such sum, not to exceed one mill per pound milk fat as shall be necessary to defray the expenses incurred by the director in carrying out the provisions of this article. The balance of such fees, shall be retained by the local control board to be used by it to carry out the marketing agreement.

3. For the establishment of minimum wholesale selling prices and wholesale delivered prices for fluid cream in the area below which fluid cream shall not be sold.

4. For the establishment of a Code of Fair Practices.

5. Method by which agreement may be amended.

727. Upon the signing of such marketing agreement it shall be forwarded to the director. Upon receipt of such agreement, the director shall determine if the agreement has been properly signed and is in accordance with the provision and purposes of this chapter. If he determines that it is in such accordance, the director shall make an order establishing a marketing agreement in the area affected, whereupon such an agreement shall become effective. If the director determines that the agreement is not in such accordance, he shall resort to without prejudice to the formulation of a new agreement. Such agreement, when effective, may be amended in such manner as may be provided in such marketing agreement. After taking effect, the provisions of such agreement shall establish the standard of conduct for all persons engaged in any occupation or business regulated by such agreement.

Article 4. Licenses

728. After thirty days after the effective date of such marketing agreement or production and marketing plan, no person shall act as a distributor in the area affected without first having obtained a license from the director. The application shall state the name and address of the applicant and such other information as the director may require and be accompanied by an annual fee of three dollars.

A "producer" who supplies milk only to distributors for processing or distribution, and a retail store as defined in this chapter, shall not be classed as a distributor and is not required to obtain a license.

729. The violation of any provisions of this chapter, or of any provision of any production and marketing plan or marketing agreement formulated under the provisions of this chapter, is a misdemeanor.

730. Every distributor or manufacturer of milk, or cream or dairy products in an area affected by a production and marketing plan or a marketing agreement who buys milk or cream from producers shall keep the following records:

(a) A record of all milk or cream received, detailed as to location, names and addresses of suppliers, prices paid, and deductions or charges made, and the use to which such milk or cream was put.

(b) A record of the quantity of each kind of milk or cream manufactured and the quantity and price of milk or cream sold.

(c) A record of the wastage or loss of milk or cream.

(d) A record of the items of handling expenses.

(e) Such other records as the director may deem necessary for the proper enforcement of this chapter.

731. All such distributors shall keep a full and complete record of all milk or cream, classified as to kind and grade, showing where sold, and the amount received therefor.

732. All such distributors or manufacturers shall make and file with the director at least once each month such reports as the director may require to enable him to enforce the provisions of this chapter.

733. Any record or report made to the director pursuant to the provisions of this article shall be confidential and shall not be divulged except when necessary for the proper determination of any court proceedings or hearing before the director.

734. The director, or his authorized agents, shall at all times during regular business hours, have access to all records pertaining to receipts and sales of fluid milk of distributors within any marketing area and in addition shall have access to all milk plants, warehouses or other buildings in which fluid milk is processed or handled.

Such information so obtained shall be kept confidential except in any judicial proceeding or hearing before the director.

735. Any person who violates any provision of a production and marketing plan or marketing agreement shall be liable civilly in the sum of five hundred dollars for each and every violation to be recovered by the director in any court of competent jurisdiction. All sums recovered under this section shall be deposited in the State treasury to the credit of the Department of Agriculture fund.

736. The director may revoke the license of any distributor who has been convicted of a misdemeanor under this chapter or against whom a judgment has been rendered in any court of competent jurisdiction under this chapter.

SEC. 2. If any provision of this act, or the application thereof to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the remainder of this act, or the application of such provision to any other person or circumstance, shall not be affected.

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 1 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "contracts", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "a contract".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, strike out "That certain agreement made and entered into", and strike out all of lines 2 to 9, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"The Director of Finance is hereby directed to enter into the following contract for and in the name of the people of the State of California:

THIS AGREEMENT, Made and entered into, in triplicate, on the twentieth day of March, 1935, by and between the Department of Finance and the State of California, hereinafter called the first party, and Peter Jaeger, a resident of the county of Napa, State of California, hereinafter called the second party,

Witnesseth: that

WHEREAS, Certain differences have arisen between the parties hereto respecting the flow of the waters in Rector Creek, Napa County, California, and percolations therefrom, and particularly concerning waters of said creek flowing through the lands of the State of California and or the lands of the second party; and

WHEREAS, The second party claims a riparian right and interest in and to the flow of the waters of the said Rector Creek and or a right as an overlying owner entitled to replenishment of water supply by percolation therefrom;

Now, therefore, for and in consideration of the mutual covenants and agreements herein expressed, and of the foregoing recitals, and of the premises, it is hereby agreed by and between the parties hereto as follows:

1. First party agrees to give and deliver to second party, free of charge, from first party's water pipe on Silverado Trail, Napa County, California, at a point nearest to the residence of second party, one thousand (1000) gallons of water per day, in perpetuity, said covenant to run with the lands of the party of the second part and against the lands of the first party, that is, the lands of the first party to be the servient tenant, and the lands of the second party the dominant tenant, from and after this date, under such restrictions as to the taking of such water as the first party may see fit, that is to say; first party may require second party to install a meter, or other device for the measuring of water, adequate for the purpose of ascertaining or insuring that second party shall take and receive said amount of water daily and no more.

2. Second party agrees to connect, at his own expense, with first party's said pipe line on said Silverado Trail, and to install, at his own expense, such meter or other device, as above specified, as shall be approved by first party.

3. Second party promises and agrees that he will and shall receive and accept the said one thousand (1000) gallons of water per day in lieu and instead of any and all rights which he may have as a riparian owner on said Rector Creek, and or as an overlying owner entitled to replenishment of water supply by percolation therefrom, or otherwise.

4. It is understood and agreed by and between the parties hereto that the first party may erect any dam or dams, as are, in its judgment, necessary for the storage of the water of Rector Creek, or at any point on Rector Creek or otherwise, divert any or all of the flow of said Rector Creek.

5. It is expressly understood and agreed that this agreement is a full and final settlement of all differences between the parties hereto."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Judiciary.

Senate Bill No. 374—An act to amend "An act to define collection agencies; to provide for the regulation, bonding, supervision and licensing thereof; to provide for the enforcement of said act and penalties for the violation thereof," approved May 14, 1927, relating to collection agencies and the regulation, supervision and licensing thereof.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Judiciary, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 374 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 1 of the title of the printed bill, after "amend", insert the following: "section 13 of, and to add new sections to be numbered 9a, 9b, 9c, 9d and 9e to an act entitled".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, after "Section 1", insert the following: "Section 9a is hereby added to the act cited in the title hereof, to read as follows:

Sec. 9a. All contracts or agreements entered into by and between a licensee and his customers shall be clear and unambiguous with reference to any of the following matters:

(1) The fees and commissions to be charged for collection or enforcement services shall, in no event, exceed a total of fifty per cent of the money collected on such claim. The words "fees" or "commissions", as used herein shall include all disbursements, listing, tracing or locating fees, and all other fees not herein specifically mentioned.

(2) The total fees or commissions to be charged for the collection of claims or accounts which require legal proceedings where the licensee defrays the necessary costs and disbursements thereof, and where the customer advances such costs and disbursements. And a statement to the effect that such costs and disbursements shall be repaid to the party advancing the same, out of the first collections made upon such claim or account.

Sec. 2. Section 9b is hereby added to said act, to read as follows:

Sec. 9b. No licensee shall settle any claim or account for less than two percent thereof, except with the consent of the customer from whom such claim or account has been received.

Sec. 3. Section 9c is hereby added to said act, to read as follows:

Sec. 9c. Each licensee shall render an accounting to each customer for whose account or on whose behalf such licensee shall have collected or received money during the preceding thirty days, showing all moneys collected and received and all fees or commissions chargeable against the same.

Sec. 4. Section 9d is hereby added to said act, to read as follows:

Sec. 9d. Unless within six months after the receipt of each claim or account for collection the licensee or the customer shall have indicated or accepted a compromise thereon, received an acknowledgment or a promise to pay the same, or had commenced legal proceedings thereon, or has reappointed such claim or account to another and out-of-town collection agency or attorney for collection, then such licensee shall, on request of the customer from whom such claim or account shall have been received, return such claim or account together with all moneys or notes which may have been received from the customer relating thereto without charge.

Sec. 5. Section 9e is hereby added to said act, to read as follows:

Sec. 9e. Upon the failure to renew a license as herein provided, or upon the revocation or suspension of a license as in this act provided, the customers of such licensee shall forthwith be entitled to a return of all claims or accounts previously placed with or assigned to such licensee for collection, and the licensee shall be required to return and reassign all such claims or accounts to the customer from whom the same shall have been received, unless the written consent of such customer is first obtained for a different disposition thereof.

Sec. 6. Section 13 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 13. In addition to any other penalty, any person, firm, corporation or voluntary association, or any officer or director of any such corporation or association carrying on the business specified in this act without first having obtained from the Secretary of State a license therefor, as herein provided, or who shall carry on such business after the revocation or expiration of any license so obtained, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine not exceeding two hundred dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding six months or by both fine and imprisonment.

It shall be the duty of the prosecuting officer of any city, city or county, or county to prosecute all violations of the provisions of this act concerning writing his counter. Upon the filing of a certified copy of the record of conviction hereunder of any licensee of fraud, embezzlement or any act involving moral turpitude, the Secretary of State shall revoke the license of said licensee."

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 18. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, and as such it shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity: By reason of the long-continued and still existing depression, many building and loan associations have suffered heavy losses both in income and in net worth and are unable to carry on their normal business, thereby causing severe hardship to hundreds of thousands of investors and home owners and increasing public unemployment and distress. The provisions of this act will enable building and loan associations to obtain insurance from the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, to make insured loans pursuant to the National Housing Act, to convert into Federal savings and loan associations and otherwise to rehabilitate the business of building and loan associations. The provisions of this act are necessary not only to accomplish the foregoing, but also to enable many building and loan associations to continue in business during the period required for such rehabilitation and to create proper safeguards for the protection of the public during such period. In the absence of this act much forced liquidation would occur immediately which would demoralize the real estate market, cause tremendous losses to borrowers, investors and the public generally, as well as large increases in tax delinquencies and danger to the financial stability of banks and insurance companies. It is therefore essential to the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety that each and every part of this act be enacted and be immediately effective.

Urgency clause read.

At three o'clock and fifteen minutes p.m., Lieutenant Governor George J. Hatfield, President of the Senate, in the chair.

Consideration of Special Order.

The hour having arrived for the consideration of Assembly Bill No. 990, heretofore set as a special order, the same was taken up for consideration.

Assembly Bill No. 990. An act to amend section 13 of an act entitled "An act to insure the better education of dental surgeons and to regulate the practice of dentistry in the State of California, providing penalties for the violation hereof," as amended, relating to revocation or suspension of licenses.

Bill read third time.

Amendment from the Floor.

During third reading of Assembly Bill No. 990, the following amendment, offered by Senator Tickle, was read:

Amendment No. 1.

Add a section to be known as section 2 to the printed bill to read as follows:

"SEC. 2. That section 14 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 14. Proceedings to revoke licenses. The proceedings to revoke or suspend any license under the first subdivision of section 13 must be taken by the board on the receipt of a certified copy of the record of suspension.

The proceedings to revoke or suspend any license upon the second subdivision of section 13 must be taken by the board on the receipt of a certified copy of the judgment roll and reporter's transcript if any.

The proceedings to revoke or suspend any license under the third subdivision of section 13, must be taken upon the testimony of witnesses. All testimony must be in writing, verified by some party familiar with the facts therein stated, and three copies thereof must be filed with the secretary of the board. Upon receiving the accusation, the board shall, if it deems the charges sufficient, make an order setting the same for hearing, at a specified time and place, and the secretary shall cause a copy of the order and of the accusation to be served upon the accused at least ten days before the day appointed in the order for said hearing. The accused must appear at the time appointed in the order and answer the charges and make his defense to the charges, unless for sufficient cause the board adjourns another day for that purpose. If he does not appear the board may proceed and determine the accusation in his absence. If the accused pleads guilty or refuses to answer the charges, or upon the hearing thereof, the board shall find them to be guilty if true, it may proceed to a judgment revoking his license or suspending it. The board and the accused may, before the hearing of evidence, and the board may have power to administer oaths, take the deposition of witnesses in the manner provided by law in civil cases, and to compel them to attend before it by subpoena, by subpoena issued over the signature of the secretary and the seal of the board and in the name of the people of the State of California. The board shall have power in proper cases to authorize the payment of fees and traveling expenses of necessary witnesses required to appear before the board and report thereon. In any proceedings properly before it. Upon the revocation of any license, the fact shall be noted upon the records of the Board of Dental Examiners and the license shall be marked as canceled, upon the date of its revocation. Written notice of such suspension or revocation shall be mailed by the secretary of the board to the county clerk of each county in which such license is then registered. In case of the revocation of a license by the said board, the accused upon license shall have been revoked by the said board shall have the right to appeal from said revocation within thirty (30) days of the cancellation of said license. Such appeal shall be to the superior court in and for the county in which the licensee resides. In case a person desire to take such appeal, he shall serve or cause to be served upon the secretary of said board a written notice of such appeal, which shall contain a statement of the grounds of such appeal, and shall file in the office of the secretary of the board, an appeal bond with good and sufficient surety to be approved by said secretary, to the State of California, conditioned for the speedy prosecution of such appeal and the payment of such costs as may be charged against him upon such appeal. Said secretary, within ten (10) days after the service of said notice of appeal, and the filing and approval of said bond, shall transmit to the clerk of the superior court to which said appeal is taken, a certified copy under the seal of said Board of Dental Examiners on which the revocation was based, the grounds for appeal, together with the notice and undertaking on appeal. The clerk of such court shall thereupon docket such appeal cases and they shall be tried in all respects as ordinary civil actions and like proceedings shall be had thereon. Upon such appeal said cause shall be tried de novo. Either party may appeal from the judgment of this superior court to the District Court of Appeal in the manner as civil actions may be appealed thereon. The judgment shall be stayed from the date of the approval of said bond until final determination of said appeal."

Senate Joint Resolution No. 16.

Relative to Federal legislation granting subsidy or assistance to the American Merchant Marine.

WHEREAS, It is deemed desirable by the government of the United States to give consideration to the development of the American Merchant Marine through assistance by the government in the matter of sale of vessels constructed by the government in the matter of subsidies, mail contracts, or otherwise; and

WHEREAS, Steamships operating over the various trade routes of the world are grouped into conferences or associations granting to the shipping industry a certain amount of self-government and coordination in the matter of rates and services; and

WHEREAS, Under Federal laws enacted by the Congress, these conferences or groups are relieved of the Sherman Act preventing combinations in the restraint of trade; and

WHEREAS, These conferences in the majority of cases having a preponderance of foreign ownership through their policies and rules have seen fit to prevent their members from serving certain American ports; and

WHEREAS, It is believed to be a sound policy for the government of the United States to require that all vessels receiving assistance from it through the medium of subsidy, ship purchase, or otherwise, should partake in a free and unrestricted flow of traffic through all ports of the United States which have been improved by the use of Federal funds; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Legislature of the State of California, That the Congress of the United States in connection with any legislation granting subsidy or assistance to the American Merchant Marine, be requested to incorporate therein the provision that no steamship line operating vessels belonging to the United States or purchased or being purchased from the United States or any agency thereof; or any steamship company receiving from the United States or any agency thereof any subsidy or payment through contract for the carrying of mails, or otherwise, shall belong to any conference or association relieved of the Sherman Act which either through official acts or policies prevents or attempts to prevent either directly or indirectly the serving of any port within the continental limits of the United States located on any improvement project designed for the accommodation of ocean going vessels, authorized by the Congress or through it by any other agency of the Federal Government; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this joint resolution be transmitted to the President and to the Vice President of the United States and to each member of the Senate and of the House of Representatives of the United States.

Case of Urgency.
Recommendation of the Governor.

In accordance with Section 24 of Article IV of the Constitution, the Governor presented the following communication recommending the passage of Senate Bill No. 830:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, Governor's Office
SACRAMENTO, April 24, 1935

To the Honorable Members of the Senate, State of California, Sacramento, California.

GREETINGS: Senate Bill No. 830—An act to amend sections 13 and 14 of the Motor Vehicle Fuel License Tax Act, adding to the disposition of funds received under said act.

In my opinion said Senate Bill No. 830 constitutes such a bill within the meaning of that term as used in section 24, Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the Budget Bill.

I therefore authorize the consideration of this bill as such a measure.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK F. MERRIAM, Governor of California.

Third Reading of Senate Bills—(Resumed).

Senate Bill No. 5—An act to amend section 1 of an act entitled "An act imposing a license fee or tax for the transportation of persons or property for hire or compensation upon the public streets, roads and highways in the State of California by motor vehicle and providing that this act shall take effect immediately," approved May 15, 1933, relating to persons exempt from tax.

Amendments from the Floor.

During third reading of Senate Bill No. 5, the following amendments, offered by Senator Hays, were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 1 of the title of the printed bill, after the figure "1", add "and 2".

Amendment No. 2.

Sec. 2. Each operator of a motor vehicle within this State who transports or desires to transport for compensation or hire persons or property upon or over any public highway within this State shall make application to the State Board of Equalization, on such forms as said board may prescribe, for a license to operate motor vehicles for the transportation of persons or property for hire or compensation over public highways in this State.

All applications for licenses must be accompanied by a fee of three dollars for each motor vehicle used to produce gross receipts from operation taxable hereunder. Upon the receipt of the application of any such operator, accompanied by such fee, the State Board of Equalization shall issue to such applicant a license to transport for compensation or hire persons or property upon or over any public highway within this State; provided that no license issued in pursuance of this act shall be construed to authorize the operation of any vehicle over or upon the public highways of this State contrary to the laws now or hereafter in effect regulating the operation of motor vehicles. No license issued hereunder shall be assignable by operation of law or otherwise.

All licenses issued under the provisions of this act shall expire on the thirty-first day of December next succeeding the date upon which they are issued. Licenses issued hereunder must be renewed annually upon application made to the State Board of Equalization on such forms as it may prescribe. All applications for renewal of licenses must be filed not later than the thirty-first day of December next preceding the year for which the renewal is sought; otherwise, a penalty of twenty-five per cent must be paid for delinquency."

Bill read, ordered to reprint, re-engrossment, and on file for third reading.

Assembly Bill No. 930—An act to amend section 4.360 of the School Code, relating to school district budgets, declaring the urgency thereof and providing that this act shall take effect immediately.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 2. This measure is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and as such shall take effect immediately.

The reasons constituting such necessity are as follows:

Under School Code section 4.360 as the same now exists, school districts are unable to provide during one school year funds with which claims against the district may be paid during the first months of the succeeding school year when the income of the district is, by reason of nonpayment during July and August of State apportionments of school funds and by reason of the fact that school district taxes levied for any school year are not payable until December of that year, insufficient to pay such claims. Consequently, registered warrants paying 6 per cent interest annually must be issued by the district in payment of such claims. The payment of interest on such registered mortgages costs the taxpayers of school districts thousands of dollars annually. These monies will permit school districts to pay from the necessity of paying interest on such registered mortgages, and if it takes effect immediately, this school will become delinquent in the school year 1935-1936, otherwise the mortgage will not become delinquent until the school year 1937-1938, for the reason that the budgets of school districts for the school year 1935-1936, which, if this measure is enacted, will permit such savings to become delinquent in the school year 1936-1937 must be prepared for at before July 1, 1935.

Urgency clause read.

On Federal Relations.

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, April 18, 1935.

MR. PRESIDENT: Your Committee on Federal Relations, to which was referred the following Senate resolution by Senators Hays, Waggy, Mixter, Schottky, Pierovich, Rich, Williams, Garrison, Deuel, McColl, Seawell, Powers, and Scollan:

WHEREAS, The Congress of the United States has recently enacted a measure wherein $4,800,000,000 are appropriated for relief and unemployment to be expended on useful and permanent projects; and

WHEREAS, There is in the process of development in California a high mountain scenic highway known as The Sierra Way which will, upon its completion, connect all of the National parks in California and the majority of the National forests in northern and central California, Burney Falls State

Park, Lake Tahoe recreational region, and many other points of scenic and recreational value in the high Sierra Mountains; and

WHEREAS, The Sierra Way, upon its completion will greatly facilitate travel into and through the National parks and National forests and other high mountain scenic areas, and is of great value as a permanent and secure connection in the highway transportation system in the State of California; and

WHEREAS, The sum of $15,500,000 will construct the reconstructed portions of this route and reconstruct those sections of the route constructed to a low standard; and

WHEREAS, The expenditure of this sum on road work offers a larger percentage of labor, both directly and indirectly, and is as a result highly desirable from an unemployment relief viewpoint; and

WHEREAS, Said project lies entirely within the lateral boundary of National forests and National parks and is therefore primarily a Federal undertaking; and

WHEREAS, A formal application has been made by subdivision of this State that said project be put upon the United States public works program; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate, That the State Department of Public Works file an application with the appropriate Federal authority, requesting the sum of $15,500,000 complete The Sierra Way; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Senate of the State of California most respectfully urges and petitions the Federal authority charged with the allocation of those funds to give every consideration to this project with a view of allocating funds necessary to complete The Sierra Way; and, be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, to the authority designated by the President as responsible for allocation to projects, and to the members of the Senate and House of Representatives, of the Congress of the United States, from the State of California.

Has had the same under consideration, and respectfully reports the same back, and recommends that it be adopted.

ASSEMBLY CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, April 24, 1935.

MR. PRESIDENT: I am directed to inform your honorable body that the Assembly on this day adopted Assembly Joint Resolution No. 52—Relative to the regulation of the production of crude petroleum.

ARTHUR A. OHNIMUS, Chief Clerk.
By FRED J. DESCH, Assistant Clerk.

Consideration of Assembly Joint Resolution No. 52.

Senator Wagy asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent for the consideration of Assembly Joint Resolution No. 52, without reference to committee for purpose of adoption.

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 52.

Relative to Regulation of the Production of Crude Petroleum.

WHEREAS, The past history of the sovereign State of California is replete with illustrations of its earnest endeavor to jealously guard the States' rights prerogatives granted under the Constitution of the United States; and

WHEREAS, There is continuing evidence of a desire on the part of some officials in Washington to compel a surrender of these rights in whole or in part; and

WHEREAS, The oil and gas conservation statutes of this State have been rigidly enforced to prevent physical waste in the production of crude petroleum or natural gas, and to protect the underlying strata that hold these natural resource reserves; and

WHEREAS, There is now pending before the Congress of the United States a bill, generally known as the "Thomas Bill," which has for its purpose the attempted regulation of the production of crude petroleum with the several oil-producing States; and

WHEREAS, The objective of the main portion of this bill is contrary to the principles of our dual form of government in that it provides for an attempted invasion of the sovereign powers of California, and would permit Federal encroachment upon the exclusive power of this State to control the production of its natural resources; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and the Senate of the State of California, jointly. That Senators and Representatives in Congress from this State, be urged to use their utmost endeavor to defeat the passage of this proposed measure and other measures of a similar nature; and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the State of California be requested to transmit a copy of this resolution to the members of the California delegation in Congress, to the presiding officers of the Senate and House of Representatives, and to the chairman of the Committee on Mines and Mining of the United States Senate, and to the chairman of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce of the House of Representatives.

SEC. 2. A new section is hereby added to the Insurance Code to be numbered 100a and to read as follows:

100a. Medical and hospital service, as defined in the Insurance Code, is a part of insurance, for the furnishing or procuring of hospital, convalescent, nursing or related professional services permitted by law and rendered to persons in general, injury or dismemberment or the prevention thereof. Such services include the furnishing of professional services of physicians, surgeons, dentists, or midwives, nurses, dentists and any other form of scientific medical treatment for diagnosis of sickness or injury, with or without hospital service.

SEC. 3. A new chapter is hereby added to Part 2 of Division 2 of the Insurance Code, to be numbered Chapter 13 and to read as follows:

Chapter 13. Medical and Hospital Service Insurance.

Article 1. Scope of Chapter.

11526. The provisions of this chapter shall not apply to or affect medical and hospital service furnished or procured by:

- (a) Insurers admitted to transact life or disability insurance.
- (b) Employers, whether directly or by means of workmen's compensation insurance, to their employees in full or partial compensation with workmen's compensation laws.
- (c) Employers to their employees and members of employees' families in conformity with existing plans in actual operation, in case of sickness or accident, whether or not arising out of or in the course of employment.
- (d) Nonprofit hospitals, hospital associations, or hospital departments any of which are chiefly maintained by dues or contributions from employees of a business employer or of a group of affiliated employers; the services of such are restricted to such employees, their dependents and members of their families and persons furnished in or by reason of the operations of the employer or group of employers.
- (e) Institutions of learning to their students, officers, and employees.
- (f) Charitable and religious organizations not operated for profit and which have furnished or procured medical or hospital services for at least fifteen years before this chapter takes effect.

- (g) Organizations maintaining homes for the aged, blind, deaf, or dumb, whether or not operated for profit, to their inmates.
- (h) Orphanages to the inmates or wards thereof.
- (i) Labor unions to their members and to families of their members.

"11541. An insurer subject to the provisions of this chapter shall neither issue nor deliver in this State any contract of medical and hospital service insurance until a copy of the form thereof, containing the form of application and any rules or endorsement, has been filed with and approved by the commissioner. The commissioner shall approve or disapprove such form within thirty days after such filing. Otherwise, such form shall be deemed approved. Before transacting such form he shall notify the insurer of his reasons therefor and grant a hearing to the insurer thereon.

11543. If the commissioner fails to approve within thirty days any such form or disapproves the same, his act or decision thereon shall be subject to review by procedure with the provisions of Chapter 4, Title 1, Part III of the Code of Civil Procedure. Upon such review the burden of proof shall be upon the applicant and the court shall review and decide the petition, evidence, whether oral or documentary, concerning the action of the commissioner under review, but shall be limited to a consideration and determination of the question whether there has been an abuse of discretion on the part of the commissioner in failing to approve or in disapproving any such form. Such policy or form shall not be issued or delivered pending the final determination of any such review.

Article 5. Services of Services.

11544. An insurer operating under this chapter may provide services under its insurance contracts only through regularly licensed hospitals, institutions or agencies when such hospitals, institutions or agencies are required to be licensed by the State or any political subdivisions thereof. When the insured is entitled to personal service, such service may be provided only through a person regularly licensed to render such service if the licensing thereof is required by the State or any political subdivisions thereof. Professional services of physicians, surgeons, and specialists rendered hereunder shall be rendered only by persons of continuous holding a degree of M.D. and a perpetual license to practice medicine and surgery in this State. Professional services of dentists rendered hereunder shall be rendered only by doctors of dental surgery holding an unrevoked license to practice dentistry in this State and a degree either of D.D.S. or D.M.D. Professional services of osteopaths rendered hereunder shall be rendered only by osteopaths holding an unrevoked license to practice osteopathy in this State and a degree of D.O.

11545. This chapter shall not authorize any cooperation to write medical and hospital service insurance. This chapter shall not authorize any person to write medical and hospital service insurance including the professional services of physicians, surgeons, or specialists, unless such person, at the time of writing such insurance, holds an unrevoked license to practice medicine in this State, and also holds the degree of M.D. This chapter shall not authorize any person to write medical and hospital service insurance including the professional services of dentists or services appertaining to dentistry unless such person holds an unrevoked license to practice dentistry in this State and also holds the degree either of D.D.S. or D.M.D. This chapter shall not authorize any person to write medical and hospital service insurance including the professional services of osteopaths unless such person holds an unrevoked license to practice osteopathy in this State and also holds the degree of D.O."

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 17.

Relative to the further increase of machine work while laborers and their families are in distress.

WHEREAS, The President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt, has, since the first day of his inauguration into office, recognized the stark necessity of providing employment for the desperate, sick, and starving millions of workers and their dependents; and

WHEREAS, In 1933, under Title II of the National Industrial Recovery Act, the said President of the United States caused Congress to require that in all contracts, financed wholly or in part by Federal funds, a clause must be inserted providing that, whenever practicable, hand labor must be substituted for machine work upon a short-work-week basis; and

WHEREAS, The aforementioned contracts involve the expenditure of billions of dollars in the State of California and throughout the rest of the Nation; and

WHEREAS, The California Highway Commission has generally followed the same course in regard to substituting hand labor for machine work; and

WHEREAS, At a special session of the California Legislature, the Governor of California, Frank F. Merriam, requested that a $24,000,000 bond issue for the relief of unemployment be submitted to the electorate of California, and such bond issue was in fact submitted to such electorate and was decisively approved thereby at the election held in this State in November, 1934; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, the Assembly thereto concurring, That, while they firmly believe in constant perfection and introduction of machines to alleviate the drudgery of human existence and thereby make for cultural and physical advancement of our citizenship, nevertheless they realize that it is cruel, ironical, and illogical to vote millions of dollars for the relief of unemployment and then, under the idea of economy, adopt measures which will place workers upon the already staggering charity of relief rolls; and be it further

Resolved, That they do not approve any measure or act proposing additional machines or the introduction of additional machinery into departments of the State government, by any departmental order, until such time as the Nation and the State have had opportunity to return its desperately distressed citizens into productive employment whereby they can earn a remuneration commensurate with a decent standard of American living.

Resolution read.

Senate Bill No. 128 ordered on file for third reading.

Resolution.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Powers:

WHEREAS, Tragic error resulted in the untimely execution of Rush Griffin pending his appeal from a judgment of the superior court, and human life is too sacred to be forfeited because of error or omission on the part of any person; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That a Committee of Three members be appointed by the President of the Senate to investigate all of the facts and circumstances attendant upon said execution and to exhaustively consider all applicable provisions of law and such changes therein as will assuredly prevent the occurrence of any such event hereafter; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee is authorized to do any and all things necessary to make a full and complete investigation of the matters herein referred to and to require the production of documents, reports, and papers of every kind, to issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of witnesses and to procure testimony. Each member of the committee is hereby authorized to administer oaths and all the provisions of Article VIII of Chapter VIII, Title I, Part III of the Political Code relating to the attendance and assemblage of witnesses before the Legislature and committees thereof shall apply to the committee created by this resolution, and it shall be the duty of all officers of the State or of any county, city, city and county or other political subdivision of the State to furnish such information and reports as shall be requested by the committee; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee is authorized to conduct such investigation immediately upon its appointment and to report back to this Senate at this session and at the fifty-second session of the Legislature all facts discovered or findings made in the course of such investigation, together with its recommendations in respect thereto; and be it further

Resolved, That the sum of $250 or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated out of the contingent fund of the Senate for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the committee and of said investigation, said sum to be paid from said contingent fund and the State Controller is hereby authorized and directed to draw his warrant or warrants in favor of the person or persons entitled thereto for such compensation as may be ordered by law from time to time by the chairman of the committee, and the State Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

Consideration of Resolution Offered by Senator Powers

Communication.

The following communication, offered by Senator McGovern, was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

WHEREAS, It is rumored that the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee has indicated that it may attempt to raise the present existing State excise tax of two (2) cents per gallon upon beer sold in the State of California; and

WHEREAS, It is the belief of the undersigned that an increase in such tax will increase the cost of beer to the consumer or result in a smaller glass of beer for the same money now charged and will also result in a smaller consumption of beer to the loss and detriment of the farmer grower of hops and barley as well as to labor in loss of employment; now, therefore,

We, the undersigned, do hereby oppose any increase in the present existing excise tax of two (2) cents per gallon upon beer as presently collected by the State of California and do particularly request that the present existing tax be not raised.

Introduction, First Reading and Reference of Bills.

By Senator Slater: Senate Joint Resolution No. 17—Relative to memorializing the President and the Congress of the United States to enact S. B. 626 and H. R. 6909, which bills are proposed to aid the position of hop growers.

Consideration of Senate Joint Resolution No. 17.

Senator Slater asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent for the consideration of Senate Joint Resolution No. 17, without reference to committee for purpose of adoption.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 17.

Relative to memorializing the President and the Congress of the United States to enact S. B. 626 and H. R. 6909, which bills are proposed to aid the position of hop growers.

WHEREAS, The State of California has over 8000 acres now planted to hops which produced in the year 1934 approximately 61,414 bales of hops or in the excess of 12,282,500 pounds of hops and expended in excess of $1,500,000 for labor; and

WHEREAS, The hop industry is now demoralized by low prices far below the cost of production and the hop growers of the States of Oregon, Washington and California have asked that hops be made a basic commodity under the Agricultural Adjustment Act; and

WHEREAS, Senate Bill No. 626 and House Bill No. 6909 were introduced at this session of Congress and said bills if passed will greatly improve the position of hop growers; and

WHEREAS, The hop industry is in great need of protection at this time; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and Assembly of the State of California, jointly. That the President and Congress of the United States are hereby respectfully urged to enact the legislation proposed by S. B. 626 and H. R. 6909 as speedily as possible; and be it further Resolved. That the Secretary of the Senate of the State of California send copies of this resolution to the President and Vice President of the United States, to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and to each Senator and member of the House of Representatives from California in the Congress of the United States, and that such Senators and members from California be urged to support such legislation.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect. The facts constituting the necessity are as follows:

The Federal court has held that certain receiver certificates are prior to the lien of the State for certain delinquent gasoline taxes due prior to January 1, 1935. This bill provides for the payment of the delinquent tax in installments with interest, and will permit the reorganization of certain of the delinquent companies, the taking up of such receiver certificates and the restoration of the priority of the lien of the State. In the case of certain delinquent companies reorganization plans must, by court order, be completed prior to May 1, 1935, and unless such plans may be completed by that date the State will be faced with a controversy as to the priority of its lien. In order to avoid this it is necessary that this act take immediate effect.

Urgency clause read.

Resolution.

By Senator Young:

WHEREAS, By constitutional amendment recently adopted, the number of positions included in the State civil service has been greatly increased and permanent appointments and promotions in the State civil service are required to be made exclusively under a general system based upon merit, efficiency and fitness; and

WHEREAS, Broad powers of administration and of enforcement are vested in the State Personnel Board, including the adoption of rules and regulations, the creation and adjustment of classifications and grades, and dismissals, demotions, suspensions and other punitive action for or in the State civil service; and

WHEREAS, Said amendment adding Article XXIV to the Constitution of the State continues in force all laws relating to the State civil service in so far as such laws are not in conflict with said Article XXIV, subject to the power of the Legislature to amend or repeal such laws and to enact new laws not in conflict with said Article XXIV, which article expressly authorizes legislation to facilitate its operation; and

WHEREAS, It is necessary and desirable that the Senate and its members have accurate, detailed and complete information available concerning the operation and effect of the civil service laws and the administration and enforcement of the civil service provisions of the Constitution and of the laws, both prior and subsequent to the adoption of said Article XXIV, to the end that the Senate and its members may act advisedly in the consideration of needed changes in said laws; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That a special Senate committee on civil service, consisting of seven members of the Senate, be appointed by the President of the Senate to gather information and to conduct investigations concerning the subject of this resolution, including the operation and effect and the administration and enforcement of the laws and government of the Territory and of the laws and regulations governing mining and to report thereon together with its recommendations to the Senate at its first next session and at the third annual session thereof, and be it further

Resolved, That the committee upon the appointment of its members shall prepare by choosing a chairman from the members of each party a majority and such other clerical and other assistance as it may deem necessary, and be it further

Resolved, That all reports and suggestions of the above committee to the committee such as minutes, reports, information and documents containing any matter under consideration by the committee or the committee shall exhibit and be it further

Resolved, That the committee is authorized to do any and all things necessary to make a full and complete investigation of the matters herein referred to and to require the production of books, accounts, documents, records, papers and papers of every kind, to cause witnesses to appear, the attendance of witnesses to be proved by testimony. Each member of the committee is hereby authorized to administer oaths and all the provisions of Article VIII of Chapter II of Title I of Part III of the Political Code relating to the attendance and punishment of witnesses before the Legislature and courts thereon shall apply to the committee created by this resolution, and each committee is hereby authorized to be sworn by the president of the Legislature and during the absence of the president, of the clerk or given in the State or the committee shall have full and ample authority, and be it further

Resolved, That for the purpose of paying the expenses of the committee and the members thereof, the sum of $1,000 or as much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby set apart, raised and appropriated out of the moneys fund of the territory, payments therefrom to be made from time to time by the clerk of the Senate drawn against and certified to the cash collector at the direction of the committee shall certify to him that such or that and which amounts the Senate Treasurer is hereby directed to pay.

Resolution referred to Committee on Contingent Expenses.

Introduction, First Reading and Reference of Bills

By Senator Fletcher—Senate Joint Resolution No. 18—Relative to the compact with Arizona for the use of waters from the Boulder Canyon Project.

Consideration of Senate Joint Resolution No. 18

Senator Fletcher asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent for the consideration of Senate Joint Resolution No. 18, without reference to committee, for purpose of adoption.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 18.

Relative to the compact with Arizona for the use of waters from the Boulder Canyon Project.

WHEREAS, The representatives of the seven western States approved and signed the Colorado River Compact at Santa Fe, New Mexico, on the twenty-fourth day of November, 1922, and

WHEREAS, The State of Arizona has ever since refused, and now refuses, to ratify the Colorado River Compact; and

WHEREAS, The failure of the State of Arizona to ratify and adopt such compact throws an unwarranted burden upon the other six States who are parties to such compact and would discriminate against such six States in favor of the State of Arizona; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate and Assembly of the State of California, jointly. That the State of California, through its Legislature, hereby respectfully urges the President of the United States and Hon. Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, not to execute any contract with the State of Arizona for the storage of water for or delivery of water to the said State of Arizona unless and until the State of Arizona ratifies and adopts the Colorado River Compact; and be it further

Resolved. That the Governor is requested to transmit copies of this resolution to the President of the United States and to Hon. Harold L. Ickes, Secretary of the Interior.

Resolution read and considered engrossed.

Case of Urgency.

Recommendation of the Governor.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.

SACRAMENTO, April 22, 1935.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate, State of California, Sacramento, California.

GREETINGS: Assembly Bill No. 1704—An act making an appropriation to meet a deficiency in the appropriation for support of the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation, declaring the urgency thereof, and providing that this act shall take effect immediately.

In my opinion said Assembly Bill No. 1704 constitutes such a bill within the meaning of that term as used in section 34, Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the consideration of which should not await the final enactment of the budget bill.

I therefore authorize the consideration of this bill as such a measure.

FRANK F. MERRIAM, Governor of California.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 2. This act, inasmuch as it provides an appropriation for the usual current expenses of the State, under the provisions of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, shall take effect immediately.

Second Reading of Senate Bills.

Senate Bill No. 251—An act to amend sections 12, 13 and 14 of an act entitled "An act to provide for the regulation and licensing of horse racing, horse race meetings, and the wagering on the results thereof; to create the California Horse Racing Board for the regulation, licensing and supervision of said horse racing and wagering thereon; to provide penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act, and to provide that this act shall take effect upon the adoption of a constitutional amendment ratifying its provisions," approved June 5, 1933, relating to horse racing license fees.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Judiciary, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 251 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 1 of the title of the printed bill, after "sections", insert the following: "3, 5, 10,".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 10 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "license fees".

Amendment No. 3.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, strike out "12", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "3".

Amendment No. 4.

On page 1 of the printed bill, between lines 2 and 3, insert the following:

"Sec. 3. Said Racing Board shall have full power to prescribe rules, regulations, and conditions under which all horse races, upon the results of which there shall be wagering, shall be conducted within the State of California. Said Board shall make rules governing, permitting and regulating mutual wagering on horse races under the system known as pari-mutuel method of wagering, which shall be conducted only by such licensee and only within the enclosure and only on the dates for which such horse racing has been licensed by the Board. All other forms of wagering or betting on the result of a horse race shall be and remain illegal and all and all wagering or betting on horse races outside the enclosure where such horse races shall have been licensed by the board shall be and remain illegal."

All horse owners, riders, agents, trainers, stewards, starters, timers, judges and others acting as officials at any such racing meeting shall be licensed by the board, pursuant to such rules and regulations as the board may adopt, and by the payment of a license fee as fixed and determined by said board. All licenses shall be granted for a period of one year and shall be valid at all race meetings in said State during said period. Said licenses shall be subject to revocation and no person shall be eligible to, or permitted to participate in such racing unless so licensed, and only during the time such license remains unrevoked. No qualified person shall be refused such license, nor shall such license be revoked without just cause. All licensees, stewards and judges shall have been bona fide residents of the State for a period of two years next preceding the issuance of such license.

Said board shall have power to compel the production of any and all books, memorandum or documents showing the receipts and disbursements of any person, corporation or association licensed under the provisions of this act to conduct race meetings. The board may at any time require the removal of any employee or official employed by any licensee hereunder after a hearing and trial of the charges before such board in any case where it shall have reason to believe that such employee or official has been guilty of any dishonest practice in connection with horse racing and has failed to comply with any condition of such licensee's license, or has violated any law or any rule or regulation of said board. The board shall also have the power to require that the books and financial or other statements of any person, corporation or association licensed under the provisions of this act shall be kept in any manner which to the board may seem best, and the board shall also be authorized to visit, investigate, and place expert accountants and such other persons as it may deem necessary in the offices, tracks or places of business of any such person, corporation or association, for the purpose of satisfying itself that the board's rules and regulations are strictly complied with. The said board shall have power to summon witnesses before it and to administer oaths or affirmations to such witnesses whenever, in the judgment of the board, it may be necessary for the effectual discharge of its duties; and any person failing to appear before said board at the time and place specified in answer to said summons or refusing to testify, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction in a court of competent jurisdiction, shall be punishable by a fine of not more than five hundred dollars or by imprisonment for not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 2. Section 5 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 5. Said board shall consist of five members, each of whom shall be an actual and bona fide resident of the State of California and must have been such resident for two years next preceding his appointment as a member of said board, all of whom shall be appointed by the Governor, by and with the consent of the Senate.

The members in office upon the date this amendment takes effect shall serve for the remainder of their respective terms. Upon said date the Governor shall appoint two members, one to hold office until July 12, 1938, the other to hold office until July 12, 1939. Before entering upon the discharge of the duties of his office, each member of the board shall take oath of office as provided by law.

The term of office of each member thereafter appointed shall be four years from the expiration of the preceding term. Vacancies in said board shall be filled by the Governor for the unexpired term. Each member of said board shall be eligible for reappointment in the discretion of the Governor.

The Governor may remove any board member for cause, giving him a copy of the charges against him and an opportunity to be heard. No person shall be eligible for appointment or shall hold the office of board member or be appointed by the board or hold any office or position under the board, who holds any financial interest in a race track or in the operation thereof within the State of California or in the operation of licensed wagering on the results of races, or who accepts any pecuniary reward from any race track in this State or from its operation or from the operation of licensed wagering on the result of races; provided that any such board member shall not be disqualified and is hereby expressly permitted to receive, if otherwise qualified to receive, such share of any purse awarded him as the result of any race or as a breeder of California bred horses, as provided in section 4 herein.

Sec. 3. Section 10 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 10. For the purpose of this act there shall be three classes of counties in the State of California, as follows:

1. Counties of the first class shall be those having a population of one million or over;

2. Counties of the second class shall be those having a population of six hundred thousand or over and less than a million;

3. Counties of the third class shall be all those counties under six hundred thousand population.

In counties of the first class there may be allowed by said board not to exceed one hundred (100) racing days per year;

In the area embraced within counties of the second class and such territory as may lie within twenty miles from the exterior boundaries thereof, there may be allowed, in the discretion of said board, not to exceed one hundred (100) racing days per year for said entire area and county;

In counties of the third class, but outside the area specified in the next preceding paragraph hereof, there may be allowed by said board not to exceed fourteen (14) racing days per year, and in addition to counties of the third class having a population of over two hundred thousand, but outside of the area specified in the next preceding paragraph hereof, there may be allowed by said board not to exceed twenty-five (25) racing days additional per year.

In counties of either or any of said classes there may be allowed by said board not to exceed fourteen (14) racing days per year to county fairs and to rodeos having horse races on tracks less than a mile in circumference or length. That said fourteen days, when and if allowed by the board in any county or area of the first or second class, shall not diminish the one hundred (100) days racing per year permitted to be allowed to tracks of a mile or more in circumference or length as set out in the preceding two paragraphs of this section.

The board may apportion racing days, not to exceed the maximum number of racing days permitted in the respective counties and or areas, absolutely such to one or more licensees as it in its judgment shall appear to be for the best interests of legitimate racing and of the public.

Each track in each zone shall be permitted to select its own racing dates, within the limit of the number allotted to it. In case the same date or consecutive series of dates is selected by more than one track in the same zone, the determination shall be by lot.

SEC. 4. Section 12 of the act cited in the title hereof is hereby amended to read as follows:"

Amendment No. 5.

On page 2, line 14, of the printed bill, strike out "Sec. 2", and insert in lieu thereof the word and figure "Sec. 5".

Amendment No. 6.

On page 2, line 29, of the printed bill, strike out "five per cent of the balance thereof for", and strike out all of lines 29 to 44, both inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "a sum equal to two and one-half per cent of the balance thereof for payment to and use of the Sixth District Agricultural Association of the State of California, a State institution, for the purpose of holding a permanent exposition and exhibition of all citrus products and of all of our industries and industrial enterprises, resources, and products of every kind or nature of the State of California, with a view of improving, exploiting, encouraging and stimulating the same, to which there shall never be any change of admission, and for the support of the buildings and grounds and other property of the Sixth District Agricultural Association; a sum equal to three and one-half per cent of said balance for payment to and use of those certain citrus fruit fairs, but not to district agricultural associations, described and defined in section 94 of the Agricultural Code, said sum to be apportioned between such citrus fruit fairs upon the basis of the production of the several counties in which such fairs are held, and if only one such fair is held, then it shall receive all of said sum; fifteen per cent of such balance after the deductions for the support of the board and the support of the California State Fair and the support of the Sixth District Agricultural Association, for the encouragement of county, district or combined county and district agricultural fairs (exclusive of such citrus fruit fairs), to be apportioned by and expended under the supervision of the State Department of Finance in the manner and for the purpose prescribed in section 92 of the Agricultural Code and other".

Amendment No. 7.

On page 2 of the printed bill, strike out lines 50 to 52, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following: "the State of California or for old age persons as the Legislature shall provide."

Amendment No. 8.

In case of district agricultural fairs the commission shall not exceed eight per cent of the gross amount of money handled and the odd cents of all redistributions exceeding a sum equal to the next lowest multiple of one. In fixing the amount of the commission, the board shall consider the financial condition of the track and the total income thereof from all sources, and shall fix such commission for each track at such an amount, within the above limits, as will permit the income of the tracks to provide a net return of not to exceed seven per cent upon the investment."

Amendment No. 11.

On page 3 of the printed bill, after line 24, insert the following:

"All unclaimed redistributions shall be retained by the licensee for a period of one year. At the expiration of one year from the date of such redistribution all unclaimed money shall be paid into the State treasury to the credit of the fair and exposition fund."

Amendment No. 1.

In line 21 of the resolution as printed in the Senate Journal of April 29, 1935, page 23, strike out "seven", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "nine".

Senate Resolution Relative to the State Civil Service, as Amended.

WHEREAS, By constitutional amendment recently adopted, the number of positions included in the State civil service has been greatly increased and permanent appointments and promotions in the State civil service are required to be made exclusively under a general system based upon merit, efficiency and fitness; and

WHEREAS, Broad powers of administration and of enforcement are vested in the State Personnel Board, including the adoption of rules and regulations, the creation and adjustment of classifications and grades, and dismissals, demotions, suspensions and other punitive action for or in the State civil service; and

WHEREAS, Said amendment adding Article XXIV to the Constitution of the State continues in force all laws relating to the State civil service in so far as such laws are not in conflict with said Article XXIV, subject to the power of the Legislature to amend or repeal such laws and to enact new laws not in conflict with said Article XXIV, which article expressly authorizes legislation to facilitate its operation, and

WHEREAS, It is necessary and desirable that the Senate and its members have accurate, detailed and complete information relative to the operation and effect of the civil service laws and the participation and movements of the civil service provisions of the Constitution and of the laws with power and authority to the adoption of said Article XXIV, so that the Senate and its members may act adversely in the consideration of needed changes to said laws; therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That a Special Senate Committee on Civil Service, consisting of nine members of the Senate, be appointed by the President of the Senate to gather information and to conduct investigations concerning the subject of the resolution, including the meaning and effect and the administration and enforcement of the civil service provisions of the Constitution and of the laws and all pertinent incidental matters; and to prepare thereon, together with its recommendations, to the Senate at the September session and at the fifty-second session thereof, and be it further

Resolved, That the committee upon the appointment of its members shall organize by electing a chairman from its membership and may appoint a secretary and such other clerical and technical assistants as it may deem necessary; and be it further

Resolved, That all officers and members of the Senate must consent to the committee such assistance, reports, information and material concerning said matter under consideration, by the committee as the committee shall require. And be it further

Resolved, That the committee is authorized to discuss and all things necessary to make a full and complete investigation of the matters herein referred to and to require the production of books, papers, documents, financial accounts and records of every kind, to issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of persons and to procure testimony. Each member of the committee is hereby empowered by resolution (a) and all the provisions of Article VIII of Chapter II of Title I of Part III of the Political Code, relating to the attendance and nonattendance of witnesses before the Legislature and committees thereof, shall apply to the committee created by this resolution, and said committee is hereby given power to sit during the adjourns of the Legislature and during the interval between sessions thereof, at any place or places in the State as the committee shall from time to time determine, and be it further

Resolved, That for the purpose of paying the expenses of the committee and the members thereof, the sum of $2,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby set apart, reserved and appropriated out of the moneys then in the Senate payments thereunto to be made from time to time by warrant of the State Comptroller drawn against said contingent fund upon written orders of the chairman of the committee, which warrants the State Treasurer is hereby directed to pay.

Resolution, as amended, read.

The board of supervisors of any county in which is located any territory of an Indian reservation of the United States Government, which on July 1, 1906, is not a part of any elementary school district, or is not an elementary school district, shall at its first meeting following July 1, 1936, annex such territory to such contiguous elementary school district or districts in the county as the county superintendent of schools of such county shall recommend."

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, engrossment, and on file for third reading.

Senate Bill No. 219—An act to amend an act entitled "An act to establish an Agricultural Code, thereby consolidating and revising the law relating to plant and animal industry and the products thereof, and to repeal certain acts and parts of acts specified herein," known as and called the Agricultural Code.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Agriculture and Live Stock, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 212 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out all of the title, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"An act to amend sections 92 and 94 of the Agricultural Code, relating to citrus and agricultural fairs."

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1 of the printed bill, following the enacting clause, insert the following: "SECTION 1. Section 92 of the Agricultural Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

92. Any money appropriated by the State for the encouragement of county, district or combined county and district agricultural fairs shall be expended under the supervision of the State Department of Finance. The money appropriated for the various agricultural fairs shall be apportioned by the Department of Finance by the following method: five thousand dollars ($5,000) shall be paid to each of the various agricultural fairs, and the balance of the money appropriated shall be apportioned on the basis of the amount which each fair actually paid in premiums for agricultural, horticultural and live stock exhibits in each year. The secretary of any such fair desiring to share in any such appropriation shall file with the Department of Finance on or before December 31st, of each year, a sworn statement setting forth the actual amount paid for premiums by such fair held in that year. No allotment from the appropriation herein provided shall be made for more than one fair in any one year in any county or district. The fact that one county joins with another county, or with several others, or that one district contracts with a county or county fair association, to hold an agricultural fair shall not bar it from receiving a proper proportion of the moneys herein appropriated. No fair for which a separate appropriation is made by the State shall participate in the apportionment of any money appropriated for the encouragement of county and district agricultural fairs."

Amendment No. 3.

On page 1, line 1, of the printed bill, strike out the words and figures, "Section 94 of Article 2", and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"Sec. 2. Section 94".

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Agriculture and Live Stock.

Senate Bill No. 292—An act to amend section 312 of the Agricultural Code, relating to slaughtering establishments.

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Agriculture and Live Stock, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 292 were read and adopted.

Amendment No. 1.

On page 1, line 1 of the title of the printed bill, strike out "section 312", and insert in lieu thereof the following: "sections 305 and 307".

Amendment No. 2.

On page 1, line 2 of the title of the printed bill, insert after "establishments", the following: "and meat inspection".

Amendment No. 3.

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 1 to 28, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SECTION 1. Section 305 of the Agricultural Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

305. No establishment may be operated in the State for the purpose of slaughtering animals, or for the manufacture of meat food products unless such establishment is operated under Federal inspection, State inspection, or approved municipal inspection. No dressed carcasses of animals intended for food purposes, parts thereof, prepared meats or meat food products shall be sold, or transported within the State unless the same shall bear the "Inspected and passed" stamp of an establishment operated under Federal inspection, State inspection or approved municipal inspection.

Sec. 2. Section 307 of the Agricultural Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

307. Nothing in this article prohibits:

(a) A live stock producer from slaughtering animals on his own premises that are a part of his own herd for his own consumption or from disposing of the carcasses and the products of those animals thus slaughtered, provided they can be identified as such, and are sound, healthful, wholesome, and fit for human food, and are disposed of in his locality; when cattle, sheep, swine or goats are sold by said producer in the vicinity where produced and slaughtered, there shall be attached to said meat or meat products a statement giving substantially the following:

I hereby certify that the uninspected meat (or meat products as the case may be) to which this certificate is attached is from animals slaughtered by the undersigned, a farmer, on his farm and that at this date it is sound, healthful, wholesome, and fit for human food.

(b) A live stock producer or dairyman from slaughtering upon his own premises calves under the age of three months which are the actual increase of his own herd, if the calves are accompanied by a certificate of ownership, offered for inspection at any point where inspection is maintained in accordance with regulations issued by the director, and are marketed by whole carcass with hide on. Every such live stock producer or dairyman, before slaughtering any such calves, must obtain a "Producers' calf slaughter permit" from the Director of Agriculture. The Director of Agriculture shall issue such permits upon payment of a registration fee of one dollar ($1). Every such permit shall remain in force and effect until suspended or revoked by the Director of Agriculture for any violation of this act.

(c) The slaughter of animals of the bovine species under the age of eight months in establishments which meet the sanitary requirements of the department and shipment thereof to counties where State inspection or approved municipal or county inspection is maintained, and said animals so slaughtered shall there be inspected and the carcasses stamped.

(d) Any butcher located in a remote section of a county in which the inspection provisions of this article are mandatory, when in the opinion of the director it is impractical or impossible to assign an inspector, may, upon written application, be granted an exemption certificate, to be used in accordance with the regulations of the director; provided, that the meat of animals slaughtered in accordance with such exemption shall be offered for sale only in the immediate locality where the animals were slaughtered. The Director of Agriculture in granting such exemption certificates, shall fix the boundaries of the "immediate locality" within the confines of which such meat may be offered for sale.

The certificate must be renewed the first day of January of each year.

Should facilities for inspection become available at any time, the director is empowered to withdraw such exemption certificate. The director is also empowered to withdraw such exemption certificate when, in his opinion, the person to whom the same is issued has not complied with the rules and regulations pertaining to the use thereof."

Amendment No. 4.

On page 2 of the printed bill, strike out lines 1 to 11, inclusive.

Bill read second time, ordered to reprint, and re-referred to Committee on Agriculture and Live Stock.

(6) The word 'processor' shall mean any person, firm or corporation engaged within this State in preparing any agricultural commodity for market, or manufacturing therefrom, or from products thereof other products in such manner as to effect a substantial change in the form of such commodity, and shall include 'packers'.

(7) The word 'distributor' shall mean any person, firm or corporation, other than a producer or a processor, engaged within this State in marketing or distributing at wholesale any agricultural commodity, and shall include 'shippers,' 'handlers,' and 'marketers'."

Amendment No. 6.

On page 3, line 38, of the printed bill, after the word "persons", insert the word "or".

Amendment No. 7.

On page 4 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 6 to 52, inclusive, and on page 5, strike out all of lines 1 to 10, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"(a) To enter into marketing agreements with producers, processors, or distributors engaged in intrastate transactions or commerce within this State, provided:

1. That each such agreement shall embrace only persons, firms or corporations engaged as producers, processors, or distributors in a specific and naturally, inherently and intrinsically distinctive agricultural trade or industry within this State or within a defined area thereof; and

2. That each such agreement, if embracing producers, shall be assented to in writing by producers representing at least sixty-five per cent (65%) in volume of the business done in the production of such commodity within the State, or within the defined area thereof covered by such marketing agreement, for the preceding season; and, if embracing processors, shall be assented to in writing by processors representing at least sixty-five per cent (65%) in volume of the business done in the processing of such commodity within the State, or within the defined area thereof covered by such marketing agreement, for the preceding season; and, if embracing distributors, shall be assented to in writing by distributors representing at least sixty-five per cent (65%) in volume of the business done in the distributing of such commodity within the State, or within the defined area thereof covered by such marketing agreement, for the preceding season.

Any nonprofit agricultural cooperative marketing association existing under the provisions of the Agricultural Code may assent to any such agreement for and on behalf of its members as producers, when specifically authorized by its members to so assent.

Subject to the foregoing limitations, any marketing agreement may embrace producers only, or processors only, or distributors only, or may embrace any two or three of such classes.

(b) To license and issue licenses to producers, processors, or distributors engaged in intrastate transactions or commerce within this State, provided:

1. That no license shall be issued to or shall apply to producers, processors, or distributors unless a marketing agreement embracing such producers, processors, or distributors has been entered into in accordance with the provisions of this act;

2. That each license issued hereunder shall contain all substantive provisions of its corresponding marketing agreement and shall contain no provision, prohibition, or restriction unless the same is contained in a marketing agreement which has been entered into in accordance with the provisions of this act and which embraces the producers, processors, or distributors to whom such license is issued;

3. That whenever any member of any class of producers, processors, or distributors is licensed hereunder, an identical license shall be issued to all members of the same class of producers, processors, or distributors;

4. That upon the issuance of any license or any amendment thereof a notice of said license shall be posted on a public bulletin board to be maintained by the Director of Agriculture in his office and a copy of such notice shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation published in the capital of the State and in such other paper or papers as the Director of Agriculture may prescribe. No license nor any amendment thereof shall become effective until five days after such posting and publication. It shall also be the duty of the director to mail a copy of the notice of said license to all known licensees whose names and addresses may be on file in the office of the director and to every person who files in the office of the director a written request for such notice;

5. That upon the written request of producers, processors, or distributors of any agricultural commodity representing at least fifty per cent (50%) in volume of the business done within this State, or within the defined area thereof covered by such marketing agreement, in the producing, processing, or distributing of such commodity for the preceding season, the director shall rescind any license issued hereunder and terminate any marketing agreement entered into hereunder embracing such class of producers, processors, or distributors, and thereupon such license and marketing agreement shall cease to be of any force or effect."

Amendment No. 8.

On page 7 of the printed bill, strike out all of lines 22 to 37, inclusive, and insert in lieu thereof the following:

"SEC. 11. (1) Any marketing agreement entered into hereunder shall contain provisions requiring producers, processors, or distributors subject thereto to maintain books and records reflecting their operations under said marketing agreement, and to furnish to the State Director of Agriculture, or his duly authorized representatives, such information as may be requested by them relating to operations under said marketing agreement and to permit the inspection by said director or his duly authorized agents or any officer, employee, board, commission, or committee provided for in any such marketing agreement, of such portions of such books and records as relate to operations under said marketing agreement."

AYES—None.

NOES—Senators Bugar, Difant, Pinal, Pender, Garber, Hays, Jorgensen, Keough, King, Knowland, McCall, McGowan, McCutcheon, Mixer, Parkman, Rich, Schottky, Scollan, Slater, Snyder, Swing, Tinkle, Wags, Williams, and Young. 25.

Appointment of Committee on Conference.

The President announced the appointment of Senators Difant, Jorgensen, and Hays as a Committee on Conference, to meet with a like committee from the Assembly, to consider Senate amendments to Assembly Bill No. 930.

Introduction, First Reading and Reference of Bills.

By Senator Swing: Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 34—Relative to prevention of accidental deaths and injuries in the home, in industry, in public places and on the streets and highways.

Consideration of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 33.

Senator Swing asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent for the consideration of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 33, without reference to committee, for purposes of adoption.

Resolution read, ordered to print, and on file.

Resolution.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Scollan:

WHEREAS, There is now available in the current appropriation for the printing of free textbooks $261,797.09, which is unencumbered and which is available to pay the cost of printing textbooks at the State printing plant; and

WHEREAS, Textbooks are urgently needed for the use of the State school system, and the State Board of Education have requested additional funds be added to those included in the Governor's budget, and has had legislation introduced directed to that end; and

WHEREAS, If orders are not placed with the State Printing Office before June 30, 1935, the money now available will become unavailable for use on July 1st of this year; and

WHEREAS, The State of California has invested nearly $1,000,000 in the State printing plant; and

WHEREAS, If orders are not placed for textbooks before June 30th, it will probably be necessary to purchase the same in the open market and deprive the State printing plant of such work; and

WHEREAS, It is important we conserve the benefits which have accrued to the State through the printing of State school textbooks by the State; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Senate go on record as requesting the State Board of Education to immediately order textbooks from the State Printing Office; such books to be made available for the use of the schools at the beginning of the next school year.

Resolution read, and on motion of Senator Scollan adopted.

Third Reading of Senate Bills—(Resumed).

Senate Bill No. 498—An act to add Chapter 9 to Division IV of the Agricultural Code, relating to the stabilization and marketing of fluid milk and fluid cream, declaring the urgency of this act, to take effect immediately.

Amendments from the Floor.

During third reading of Senate Bill No. 498, the following amendments, offered by Senator Young, were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

On page 3, line 50, of the printed bill, as amended, after "fund", insert a period, and strike out the balance of line 50, and all of line 51.

Amendment No. 2.

On page 9 of the printed bill, as amended, strike out lines 9 to 20, inclusive.

Assembly Constitutional Amendment No. 58.

A resolution to propose to the people of the State of California an amendment to the Constitution of said State by amending section 8 of Article XI thereof, relating to the preparation and adoption of charters by cities and counties.

Resolved by the Assembly, the Senate concurring, That the Legislature of the State of California at its first regular session commencing on the seventh day of January, 1935, two-thirds of the members elected to each of the two houses voting in favor thereof, hereby proposes to the people of the State of California that section 8 of Article XI of the Constitution of the State of California be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 8. (a) Any city or city and county containing a population of more than 2500 inhabitants, as ascertained by the last preceding census taken under the authority of the Congress of the United States or of the Legislature of California, may frame a charter for its own government, consistent with and subject to this Constitution; and any city or city and county having adopted a charter may adopt a new one. Any such charter may be framed by a board of 15 freeholders chosen by the electors of such city at any general or special election, but no person shall be eligible as a candidate for such board unless he shall have been, for the two years next preceding, an elector of said city. An election for choosing freeholders may be called by a two-thirds vote of the legislative body of such city, and on presentation of a petition signed by not less than 15 per cent of the registered electors of such city, the legislative body shall call such election at any time not less than 30 nor more than 60 days from date of the filing of the petition. Any such petition shall be verified by the authority having charge of the registration records of such city, or city and county, and the expenses of such verification shall be provided by the legislative body thereof.

(b) Candidates for the office of freeholders shall be nominated either in such manner as may be provided for the nomination of officers of the municipal government or by petition, submitted to the same manner as may be provided by general laws for the nomination by petition of officers of municipalities for public offices to be voted for at general elections.

(c) At such election the electors shall vote first on the question: "Shall a board of freeholders be elected to frame a proposed new charter?" and secondly for the candidates of the office of freeholder. If the first question receives a majority of votes of the qualified voters voting thereon at such election, the 15 candidates for the office of freeholder receiving the highest number of votes shall constitute as a board of freeholders, but if the first question receives less than a majority of the votes of the qualified voters voting thereon at such election the board of freeholders shall be deemed to have been elected.

(d) The board of freeholders shall, within one (1) year after the result of the election is declared, prepare and propose a charter for the government of such city. The charter so prepared shall be signed by a majority of the board of freeholders and filed in the office of the clerk of the legislative body of said city. The legislative body of said city shall, within fifteen (15) days after receipt thereof, cause such charter to be published once in the official newspaper of such city and once more at least during the day of publication, for in case there be no such official newspaper, in a newspaper of general circulation within such city and all editions thereof issued during the day of publication, and in any case in any such edition with over 50,000 population shall cause copies of such charter to be printed in pamphlet form and in type of not less than 10 point and shall cause copies thereof to be mailed to each of the qualified electors of such city and shall, within the day fixed for the election upon such charter, deposit in one or more newspapers of general circulation in said city a notice that copies thereof may be had upon application therefor.

(e) Such charter shall be submitted to the electors of such city at a date to be fixed by the board of freeholders, before such filing and registered in such manner, either at a special election held not less than 60 days from the completion of the publication of such charter as above provided, or at the general election next following the expiration of said 60 days.

(f) As an alternative the legislative body of any such city or city and county, on its own motion may frame or cause to be framed a proposed new charter and submit the proposal for the adoption thereof to the electors at either a special election called for that purpose or at any general or special election. Any charter so submitted shall be advertised in the same manner as herein provided for the advertisement of a charter proposed by a board of freeholders, and the election thereon shall at a date to be fixed by the legislative body of such city or city and county, not less than 40 nor more than 60 days after the completion of the advertising in the official paper.

(g) If a majority of the qualified voters voting thereon at such general or special election shall vote in favor of such proposed charter, it shall be deemed to be ratified, and shall be submitted to the Legislature, if then in session, or at the next regular or special session of the Legislature. The Legislature shall by concurrent resolution approve or reject such charter as a whole, without power of amendment or amendment, and if approved by a majority of the members elected to each house it shall become the organic law of such city, or city and county, and supersede any existing charter and all laws inconsistent therewith. One copy of the charter so ratified and approved shall be filed with the Secretary of State, one with the recorder in the county in which such city is located, and one in the archives of the city; and thereafter the courts shall take judicial notice of the provisions of such charter.

(h) The charter of any city, or city and county may be amended by proposals therefor submitted by the legislative body of the city on its own motion or on petition signed by 15 per cent of the registered electors, or both. Such proposals shall be submitted to the electors at either a special election called for that purpose or at any general or special election. Petitions for the submission of any amendment shall be filed with the legislative body of the city, or city and county not less than 60 days prior to the general election next preceding a regular session of the Legislature. The signatures on such petitions shall be verified by the authority having charge of the registration records of such city, or city and county, and the expenses of such verification shall be provided by the legislative body thereof. If such petitions have a sufficient number of signatures the legislative body of the city, or city and county shall so submit the amendment or amendments so proposed to the electors. Amendments proposed by the legislative body and amendments proposed by petition of the electors may be submitted at the same election. The amendments so submitted shall be advertised in the same manner as herein provided for the advertisement of a proposed charter, and the election thereon, held at a date to be fixed by the legislative body of such city, not less than 40, and not more than 60, days after the completion of the advertising in the official paper.

(i) If a majority of the qualified voters voting on any such amendment vote in favor thereof, it shall be deemed ratified, and shall be submitted to the Legislature if then in session, or at the regular or special session next following such election; and approved or rejected without power of alteration in the same manner as herein provided for the approval or rejection of a charter.

(j) In submitting any such charter or amendment separate propositions, whether alternative or conflicting, or one included within the other, may be submitted at the same time to be voted on by the electors separately, and, as between those so related, if more than one receive a majority of the votes, the proposition receiving the largest number of votes shall control as to all matters in conflict. It shall be competent in any charter framed under the authority of this section to provide that the municipality governed thereunder may make and enforce all laws and regulations in respect to municipal affairs, subject only to the restrictions and limitations provided in their several charters and in respect to other matters they shall be subject to general laws. It shall be competent in any charter to provide for the division of the city, or city and county governed thereby, into boroughs or districts, and to provide that each such borough or district may exercise such general or special municipal powers, and to be administered in such manner, as may be provided for each such borough or district in the charter of the city, or city and county.

(k) The percentages of the registered electors herein required for the election of freeholders or the submission of amendments to charters shall be calculated upon the total vote cast in the city or city and county at the last preceding general State election; and the qualified electors shall be those whose names appear upon the registration records of the same or preceding year. The election laws of such city, or city and county shall, so far as applicable, govern all elections held under the authority of this section.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 4. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, and as such it shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity:

By reason of the long-continued and still existing depression throughout the State of California and throughout the United States, many companies have suffered heavy financial losses and are unable safely and properly to meet their obligations and liabilities under their outstanding securities, thereby threatening such companies with severe hardship or insolvency or forced liquidation, and causing distress to holders of their securities and the public generally. There exists the necessity for rapid and orderly readjustments and proper rehabilitation under the regulation and supervision of the commissioner in these and like situations, to promote orderly processes and conduct of business, and to prevent the cumulative evils of present economic disruption and financial demoralization. The provisions of this act will assist such companies to readjust their affairs and rehabilitate themselves, and to continue in business in an orderly manner, to the mutual benefit of such companies and the holders of their outstanding securities, and the public generally. It is therefore essential to the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety that each and every part of this act be enacted and be immediately effective.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

SAN RAFAEL, April 27, 1935.

Hon. George J. Hatfield,
Lieutenant Governor of California,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

DEAR MR. HATFIELD: Will you please extend to all members of the Senate a cordial invitation to attend singly or in a body the observance of the second annual striped bass carnival sponsored by the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

As you know, this event will be held at McNear's Beach near San Rafael, Marin County, on Sunday, May 5th, and we can assure all who attend a day of entertainment and festivity.

Since Governor Merriam has signed the striped bass bill, more enthusiasm in honor of this fine game fish is shown throughout sports circles and we expect to entertain many thousands more people than last year.

We are very sorry that you can not be with us on that day, as we should like to have had you as a guest of honor.

Please assure all members of the Senate of our desire to have them present as honored guests.

Sincerely yours,

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, STRIPED BASS CARNIVAL,
By RUSSELL GETTEMY, Chairman.

Third Reading of Senate Bills—(Resumed).

Partial Report of the Special Committee on Investigation of the Ownership and Control of Stockyards in California.

The following report of Special Committee was received and read:

To the Honorable President and Members of the Senate of the State of California.

Your committee appointed on January 16, 1935, for the investigation of stockyards and the marketing of agricultural and horticultural products reports and recommends as follows:

STOCKYARDS.

Your committee has held hearings at Sacramento, San Francisco and Los Angeles in connection with the investigation of the stockyards in California and has developed the following facts:

The stockyards at South San Francisco and Stockton are entirely owned or controlled by Swift & Co., a National packer. The stockyards at Los Angeles are owned entirely by a corporation which is in turn owned, according to the statement of its manager, by the Santa Fe Railroad interests, with headquarters in Chicago. There is some difference in the details of operation between these two stockyards, but in principle, all of the stockyards in California are alike as to the methods and systems in use, all of which operate to the disadvantage of the grower and the consumer.

From the time that cattle are placed on the cars for shipment to these stockyards and until they become the property of the packer, charges against the producer are accumulated, including arbitrary charges for services and use of the stockyards. Beginning with freight, there follow unloading charges, insurance, feeding and feed, commissions and various other items as set forth in the tariffs published by these stockyards. None of these charges are paid by the packer but are deducted from the remittance made to the producer. In spite of the fact that these charges are absorbed by the grower, the spread between the price paid the producer and the average price paid by the consumer is approximately 145 per cent. Your committee believes that this is entirely too large a price to pay for the processing and marketing of a staple food item.

Directing your attention primarily to the stockyards at South San Francisco, your committee finds that Swift & Co. not only owns and operates the stockyards but is the largest purchaser through these yards, thereby presenting an opportunity for unfair influence in the fixing of prices to the detriment of the producer. Although witnesses were of the opinion that the stockyards were necessary to the industry, they prefer to sell direct on the ranch under existing conditions of stockyard control. Producers are required to pay to commission agents operating at the stockyards and employed in making sales, fixed commissions, regardless of the price received by the producer.

The detailed method of purchase and sale used in all yards is not calculated to promote fair competitive bidding by the various packing houses for the live stock in the yards. Only one buyer at a time is permitted within the enclosures or holding pens and the producer must either accept or reject the offer made. If the offer is rejected, then the second buyer comes in and makes his offer, presumably but not necessarily without any knowledge of the offer made by the first buyer. If a sale is not consummated that day, the producer is again forced to pay for feed, reducing his net price still further. With this weapon hanging over his head, the producer is absolutely at the mercy of the packer and will remain so as long as the present system is continued. It must be borne in mind that these stockyards have been profitable to their owners at all times.

Upon a sale being made, the unused feed passes to the packer with the cattle and the amount saved by the packers on feed for their own cattle, amounts to a large sum annually. All of this feed is sold at a profit by the stockyards and paid for by the producers.

The evidence indicated that more sales are made to independent packers at Los Angeles than at South San Francisco and there is no doubt that this is occasioned by the fact that there is more confidence in the management at Los Angeles because the ownership is not vested in a large packer.

It is obvious that all of these charges are reflected in the price received for the cattle by the producer as well as the price paid for meat by the consumer.

In view of the fact that stockyards are a marketing facility which is in the nature of a public utility, your committee believes that for the protection of the consumer and the producer and for the public welfare, legislation should be enacted which shall provide for taking over the management, operation and control of all public stockyards by the State of California and that such public stockyards be operated by the State as a public service for the benefit of the producers and the meat consuming public, and your committee so recommends.

Messages from the Governor.

The following messages from the Governor were received and read:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, May 1, 1935.

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate,
State of California, Sacramento, California.*

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith Senate Bill No. 201, without my approval. The bill is objected to for the following reasons:

Senate Bill No. 201 does not contain any exceptions as to the bonds validated, and therefore, as to bonds heretofore authorized but not yet sold, these bonds could be sold for less than par.

In addition, section 2 of the bill specifically provides that the proceeds from the sale of such bonds may be used for any of the general purposes for which the district is organized, regardless of whether such use was authorized at the time of the calling and holding of the election at which the bonds were approved.

Section 15 of the County Water District Act (Deering Act 9124) provides that the resolution of the board of directors declaring the intention to issue bonds must specifically state the purpose for which the proposed bonds are to be issued. A hearing is then held, at which protests can be received as to the issuance of bonds for such purposes. Section 2 of this bill would purport to authorize the proceeds of the bonds for any other purpose which comes within the general purview of the powers of the district. It is believed that this section is unconstitutional under the provisions of section 13 of Article I, and the cases of City of Sacramento vs. Adams, 171 Cal. 458; People vs. Van Nuys Lighting District, 173 Cal. 792, and others of a similar nature, for the reason that no hearing has been granted the residents of the district as to the benefits to be obtained by them from the expenditure of the proceeds of the sale of the bonds.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK F. MERRIAM, Governor of California.

Message from the Governor announcing his objections to Senate Bill No. 201, ordered placed on file as unfinished business.

Also:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,
SACRAMENTO, May 1, 1935.

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate,
State of California, Sacramento, California.*

GREETINGS: I am returning herewith Senate Bill No. 282, without my approval, an act having for its object the increase of the salary of the sealer of weights and measures in counties of the twenty-fourth class.

Section 5 of Article XI of the Constitution provides that the Legislature shall regulate the compensation of boards of supervisors, district attorneys and of auditors. The board of supervisors regulates the compensation of all others in the county other than those above mentioned.

The sealer of weights and measures is an "officer in the county", whose salary is to be fixed by the supervisors.

Hence this bill would seem to be ineffective for the reason it is clearly in violation of the provisions of the Constitution above mentioned. Under that provision the only county officers whose salaries may be fixed by legislation are supervisors, auditors and district attorneys.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK F. MERRIAM, Governor of California.

Sustaining Governor's Veto.

Message from the Governor, announcing his objections to Senate Bill No. 282, read.

The question being: Shall Senate Bill No. 282 become a law, notwithstanding the objections of the Governor?

The roll was called, and the objections of the Governor sustained by the following vote:

AYES—None.

NOES—Senators Biggar, Duval, Edwards, George, Gordon, Hays, Jorgensen, Keough, King, Knowland, McColl, M. Carmack, M. G. Jones, Metzger, Perry, Powers, Reindollar, Rich, Schottky, Slater, Stow, Swain, and Wagoner—23.

"SEC. 2. Section 6 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 6. Application for Permit.

Every person desiring a permit to place and/or maintain any advertising structure or sign shall file with the director or with his authorized agent in the county within which the advertising structure or sign is to be placed an application therefor on a blank to be furnished by said director or by said agent. Such application shall set forth the name and address of the applicant and shall contain a general description of the property upon which it is proposed to erect and/or maintain the advertising structure or sign for which a permit is sought and a diagram indicating the location of such proposed advertising structure or sign on such property, in such a manner that said property and the location of said proposed advertising structure or sign may be readily ascertained and identified.

If the application is for a permit to place and/or maintain a sign such application shall contain a description of such sign including the material, the size and the subject thereof and the proposed manner of placing the same.

If the application is for a permit to place and/or maintain an advertising structure such application shall be accompanied by construction plans thereof; provided, however, that in case the applicant has theretofore filed with the director certified copies of standard specifications used by the applicant in the constructing and erecting of advertising structures then such application may refer to such standard specifications in lieu of being accompanied by such construction plans.

The applicant for any permit shall offer evidence that the owner or other person in control or possession of the property upon which such location is situated has consented to the placing and/or maintenance of such advertising structure or sign.

If the applicant for such permit is engaged in the business or occupation of outdoor advertising, the application for permit shall contain the number of the license issued by the director.

If such application is in full compliance with the provisions of this act and if such advertising structure or sign will not be in violation of any law, the director or his authorized agent shall, within ten (10) days after the filing of such application and upon payment by applicant of the fee hereinafter specified, issue a permit to place and/or maintain such advertising structure or sign for the remainder of the calendar year in which such permit is issued. Issuance of a permit for the placing and/or maintenance of an advertising structure shall include the right to change the advertising display or copy thereon without obtaining any additional permit for the remainder of the calendar year in which such permit is issued and without the payment of any additional permit fee. Permits shall be renewed on the first day of January of each year upon application and the payment of fees as herein provided and shall expire on the thirty-first day of December of said year.

(a) For each sign—twenty-five cents ($.25);

(b) For each advertising structure—one dollar ($1).

SEC. 2. Section 10 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:".

Amendment No. 5.

On page 2 of the printed bill, after line 10, add the following:

"SEC. 3. Section 17 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 17. Enforcement. The director is hereby authorized, directed and empowered to make orders and regulations for the enforcement of this act; to designate and authorize the Division of Highways of the Department of Public Works to enforce the provisions hereof, to prescribe the form of all applications, licenses, permits and other written matter important material to enforce penalties for failure to comply herewith, to revoke any license or permit for such failure, to remove and destroy any advertising structure or sign placed or maintained contrary to the provisions of this act after having given written notice of such action as provided in this section. The director shall cause a notice to be posted on such sign at least ten days prior to such removal or destruction, and at least ten days prior to such removal or destruction shall mail a written notice thereof to the owner of such structure or sign addressed to his last known address. For the purpose of removing or destroying any advertising structure or sign placed or maintained in violation of the provisions of this act, the director or his authorized agent may enter upon private property without incurring any liability therefor.

SEC. 4. Section 18 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 18. The regulation of the placing and/or maintenance of advertising structures or signs as provided herein, in so far as such regulation may affect the placing and/or maintenance of such advertising structures or signs within any of the public highways of this State in areas outside of the limits of incorporated cities or towns thereof, shall be exclusive of all other regulations of such placing and/or maintenance of advertising structures or signs within any of the public highways of this State and outside of the limits of incorporated cities or towns, whether made by a law of this State or by a political subdivision thereof. It is the intention of the Legislature to occupy the whole field of such regulation by the provisions of this act; provided further, that nothing herein shall be deemed to prohibit the passage by any county of reasonable land use or zoning regulations affecting the placing and/or maintenance of advertising structures or signs, if such regulations such indiscriminately apply to and impose the same restriction on all other commercial roadside enterprises such as gasoline filling stations, restaurants, eating places, hotels or auto camps, in accordance with any comprehensive zoning plan enacted under the provisions of Statutes of 1929, page 1806, or any amendment thereof. The zoning and maintenance of advertising structures and signs shall be considered a permitted use in all areas or districts established and defined by any county zoning ordinance in which any other commercial activities are permitted, and any attempt to impose a restriction to impose a restriction on advertising structures or signs not imposed upon all other commercial activities shall be considered an attempt to regulate the business of outdoor advertising and the placing or maintenance of advertising structures or signs in violation of this act.

SEC. 5. Section 24 is hereby added to said act, to read as follows:

Sec. 24. This act shall be known and may be cited as the "Outdoor Advertising Act."

"Sec. 4. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, and as such it shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity.

Continued dry years have made immediate action imperative in the various water districts to conserve the waters of the present rainy season in order to save not only extensive areas of crops, but also for industrial and domestic purposes. Immediate action is further imperative to construct works during the coming summer season for conserving and utilizing the floods and waters of the coming winter. For the proper and ready financing of such construction the immediate voting of bonds is necessary, and to that end the legislation contained in this act relative to such bonds and their maturities, terms and conditions, is required to be immediately effective. An adequate supply of water for agricultural, domestic and industrial purposes is necessary for the public peace, health and safety of the communities affected in the State of California."

Report of Special Committee.

The following report of Special Committee was received and read:

Additional Partial Report of the Special Committee on Investigation of the Ownership and Control of Stockyards in California and the Marketing and Distribution of Agricultural and Horticultural Products.

To the Honorable President and Members of the Senate of the State of California.

Your committee appointed on January 16, 1935, for the investigation of stockyards and the marketing of agricultural and horticultural products reports and recommends as follows:

TERMINALS.

The attention of your committee was directed to the conduct of public terminals and wharfingers in the handling of agricultural products by the complaints filed with your committee by growers and packers of Santa Clara and Sonoma counties. Upon these complaints having been made under oath, your committee held hearings at Sacramento and developed the following facts:

The actions complained of were directed primarily toward the Encinal Terminals, located at Alameda, California. This company is a public wharfinger which operates as a public utility regulated by the Railroad Commission. The entire stock of this terminal is owned by Alaska Packers which in turn is 83 per cent owned by California Packing Corporation.

The latter company, which is engaged primarily in the business of canning fruits and vegetables, as well as processing dried fruits, is the largest firm of this type in the United States and organized this terminal company for the purpose of reducing its traffic costs as well as facilitating the handling of its own products. In order to carry this into effect, the traffic manager of California Packing Corporation became the president of Encinal Terminals and is still occupying that position. All policies of the terminal are decided by him with the aid of the present traffic manager and the advisory traffic committee of California Packing Corporation.

In order to build up the business of Encinal Terminals, which is basically an organization for the traffic accommodation of California Packing Corporation and Alaska Packers, these two corporations use every means in their power to divert to this terminal freight for which there exist more natural and convenient terminals. The methods used have included "persuasion" by California Packing Corporation through its employees and officers (1) on the firms from whom these corporations purchase their materials and supplies, (2) transportation companies over whose lines these packing companies ship their merchandise or receive their supplies and equipment and (3) other firms who through their connections can be influenced by those in groups 1 and 2. As a result of these practices and these influences, Encinal Terminals diverts freight over its wharves from other facilities of this type, on San Francisco Bay, all of which facilities are either municipally or state-owned and controlled. This tonnage is described in the records of Encinal Terminals as "influenced" tonnage and amounts to not less than 25 per cent of the total business of Encinal Terminals. Your committee believes that this practice by a privately owned utility is a detriment to the producer, and to the publicly owned terminals, that this evil is comparable to the situation which led to the passage of the commodities clause of the Interstate Commerce Act by the Congress of the United States and increased the ownership of railroads from the ownership of commodities shipped thereon.

The Eastman Bill, now pending in Congress, makes this same divorcement as to ocean going freight carriers, and as neither railroads nor steamer lines are more important than their connecting link (the terminals), your committee believes that the same rule should apply to the terminals, which are now public utilities and a part of our transportation chain.

The claim has been made before your committee that Encinal Terminals has not shown any profit to its owners, but no profit can ever be shown on its books so long as the present rental charge of $132,000 per year is paid to the parent organization and in addition to the advantage of having its own terminal, California Packing Corporation is making a profit on this operation and collecting that profit in the form of excessive rental charges to its subsidiary.

Your committee believes that when freight which should go over the docks at San Francisco or any other point on San Francisco Bay where the steamer freight charges are identical, is diverted to a terminal other than the legal one and the extra charges are assumed by either the terminal, the carrier or the shipper, such practices are inimical to the public welfare as such abnormal charges are always finally paid by the consumer.

Encinal Terminal (owned by California Packing Corporation)	$1,000,000
Port of Oakland (owned by the city of Oakland)	2,000,000
San Francisco Harbor (owned by the State of California)	100,000,000
Port Richmond Terminal (owned by port of Richmond)	2,000,000
Port of Stockton (owned by city of Stockton)	8,000,000

This presents a situation of privately owned and powerful purchasing and processing interests with an organization representing the treatment of slightly over $1,000,000 in private funds interfering with the free flow of freight through terminal facilities in which $137,000,000 of public funds are invested for the service and convenience of all shippers without discrimination in favored ones.

In this instance, we have an example of a commercial interest which blocks the progress of the publicly owned terminals established because of the natural flow of trade along geographic lines. In most of these cases, the expenditure of public funds was made because of the natural lines along which trade must flow and the diversion through "influenced tonnage" and the absorption of the extra charges occasioned by this wayward trend is, in the opinion of your committee, contrary to public policy and against the best interests of the people of the State.

The practice of an unloading charge, which the truckers who are under contract with California Packing Corporation must pay, although such charges need not be paid by other truckers, is open to criticism as a form of rebate to this corporation through payments to its subsidiary, Encinal Terminals.

The fact that Encinal Terminals, wholly California Packing Corporation controlled, appeared before the Railroad Commission and asked for a reduction of rates on canned goods and dried fruit in Case No. 20947 would indicate that California Packing Corporation prefers to have their competitors continue to pay a high rate for the service of a public utility, which they own and operate for their own benefit rather than as a public service. A terminal is a part of the transportation system and as such, should be dedicated exclusively to a public use, eliminating all possibility of diversion or private interest.

Your committee therefore recommends the enactment of proper legislation divorcing public terminals from any ownership by shippers of a great volume of freight.

Communication.

The following communication was received, and ordered printed in the Journal:

To His Excellency Frank F. Merriam, Governor of California, and to the Members of the Legislature.

Supplementing our factual report of January 26, 1935, we herewith submit the following:

The sale of 1016.65 acres of land at the Durham State Land Settlement, hereinafter referred to, completely closes the Durham State Land Settlement, with the exception of one small first deed of trust and one final payment on Lot 87.

Land sales at the Delhi State Land Settlement since January 1, 1935, have shown a marked increase over any similar period for the past several years. Two hundred fifty and eighty-five one-hundredths acres have been sold for cash or on a short term basis, and the State has optioned nineteen and seventy-three one-hundredths acres additional as indicated in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and by reference made a part hereof.

All of the unsold farming lands owned by the State at Delhi are under lease either on a cash or crop share basis.

Ten first deeds of trust on Delhi property, representing an indebtedness to the State in the sum of $6,044.73, have been extinguished through the consummation of a deal with the Capital Company, which involved an exchange of said deeds of trust as part of the consideration, as indicated in Exhibit "B" attached hereto and by reference made a part hereof.

On page 9 of our report of January 26, 1935, we mentioned that we had been negotiating a transaction involving the exchange of land at Delhi for some property in Sacramento. A deal has finally been consummated with the Capital Company on the following basis:

1. The State will transfer all its right, title and interest in and to the above mentioned deeds of trust in the sum of (See Exhibit "B")	$ 6,044 73
2. The State will convey all its right, title and interest in and to certain real properties at Delhi in the sum of (See Exhibit "C")	36,953 50
3. The State will pay to the Capital Company the proceeds of the sale to E. L. Adams of Chico, California, of 1016.65 acres of pasture land in the Durham State Land Settlement in the sum of	19,000 00
4. The State will pay to the Capital Company from the land settlement fund	13,000 00 cash
Total	$74,998 23

The land in the Delhi settlement as exchanged to the Capital Company in the sum of $36,953.50, was at the listed cash sale price.

The Capital Company is to convey to the State of California by grant deed, free and clear of all liens, incumbrances and charges of any kind whatsoever, the garage property at the corner of Ninth and L Streets, Sacramento, designated as 830 L Street, which property consists of a lot 80x160 feet, together with a two-story brick building, which is assessed for tax purposes by the county at $62,000 and by the city at $66,000. The assessment is levied on an approximate 50 per cent valuation.

The Capital Company is also to furnish at its expense a policy of title insurance covering said garage property in the name of the State of California in the sum of $75,000. The irrigation taxes on the parcels of property selected at the Delhi State Land Settlement by the Capital Company (as shown in Exhibit "C") are to be prorated as of April 25, 1935.

This agreement has been executed by the Director of Finance on behalf of the State of California, subject to confirmation and ratification by the Legislature of the State of California.

Since the report of January 26, 1935, there has been transferred to the general fund from the land settlement fund the sum of $775,000, and the said fund has on hand at the present time, after the consummation of the Capital Campaign Act, the sum of $13,728.06.

Dated, April 30, 1935.

Respectfully submitted,

A. F. STOCKELBERGER, Director of Finance.

CARL B. STUTZNACKER, Chief of Division of State Lands.
